Tax Cuts May Help Chubbies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two specialists on obesity suggested Saturday that tax rebates and lowered insurance premiums might be one way to encourage Americans to lose excess weight.

Possible financial incentives were one segment of a broad range of proposals offered by the co-chairmen of one of nine panels of a scientific task force working on a 10-year blueprint aimed at controlling obesity and thus reducing illness.

It was estimated as much as 10 to 30 per cent of the American population is seriously overweight. Doctors said obesity can have a role in high blood pressure, gout, diabetes, arthritis, menstrual irregularities and possibly even cancer.

"A small number of people are using most of the medical care and it might be appropriate to try to reward people who take care of their health and contribute less to the overall costs of medical care," said Dr. Albert Stunkard of the University of Pennsylvania.

He and Dr. Aaron Altschul of Georgetown University suggested the government could institute a tax rebate for losing weight, and that insurance companies might lower rates for people who are of normal weight and in good health.

"We recommend research to explore the feasibility of these measures," the two specialists said in a position paper presented at the closing session of a three-day conference on obesity and the American public.

Conciliation Meeting On For Strikers

By Martin Fleer
Correspondent

BOICEVILLE — Non-teaching employees of the Onteora Central School District, facing a court injunction, will meet tonight with school officials and a state-appointed conciliator in an attempt to end the first strike in the district's history.

Meanwhile, the Onteora Non-Teachers Employee Association (ONTEA) has picked up the strong support of the Onteora Teacher's Association (OTA). Teachers were to have distributed leaflets throughout the district this morning stating that the schools were unsafe and unhealthy due to the absence of the strikers.

"We are not directly requesting parents keep the children out. They can draw their own conclusions," said Robert Barrett, OTA president.

Edward C. McFadden, school superintendent, has officially recognized the strike and obtained the injunction Friday. It was served by state troopers during an ONTEA meeting.

Picket lines are now being manned 24 hours a day and teachers are "participating heavily," according to Barrett.

"The purpose is to stop deliveries and the Teamsters are respecting all picket lines," Barrett said.

Barbara A. Sickler, ONTEA president, said the union will go into the conciliation meeting asking for a 5.5 percent salary increase and an improved retirement plan. She said they are willing to give up their demands for a continuation of triple time for snow days and a requirement that non-union members pay a fee for union services. They are also willing to allow the administration to determine work schedules on early closing days.

Teachers started a "work to rule" action on Friday. As a result, according to Barrett, almost no volunteer after school activities were conducted.

According to strikers, all schools were seriously affected on Friday. They said food was substandard, almost all buses were late, the schools were dirty.

Charges Integrity Top Issue in Race

Kavanagh Says Ricken's Win Claim Untrue

By ROB BORSELLINO
Freeman staff

KINGSTON — The records of the Supreme Court in Bronx County indicate Robert Ricken did not win 24 consecutive jury trials as he has claimed, Michael Kavanagh charged Saturday.

Kavanagh, the Republican running for Ulster County District Attorney, says Ricken, his Democratic opponent, tried only seven cases and lost one of them.

Ricken has denied the charge, claiming the records for the time he served as an assistant district attorney in the Bronx, between August 1968 and October 1971, are incomplete and unavailable.

The Republican says he checked the records of the court and cross checked them with the records of the clerk of the court "and those official records indicate Mr. Ricken tried a total of seven Supreme Court cases in the time he was an assistant district attorney in the Bronx."

Said Kavanagh, "They further indicate that on Sept. 4, 1970 he (Ricken) was the prosecuting attorney in the case involving one James Williams, who was accused of robbery, and that on Sept. 4, 1970 Mr. Williams was acquitted."

He continued, "That's why I think his honesty and integrity are also an issue in this campaign."

Ricken says the trials he referring to were post-conviction trials held to determine if a defendant was a drug addict.

As Ricken explained it, after a person was found guilty of a crime a trial was held to decide if that person should be given a jail sentence or turned over to the care of the now-defunct Narcotics Addiction Control Commission.

The commission, set up by then-Governor Nelson Rockefeller, would send people for treatment in state prisons, often for longer periods of time than they would get if they were just given a regular jail sentence.

"Winning would mean that I had proved they were drug addicts and should be turned over to the commission for treatment," said Ricken.

"This was a legitimate Supreme Court jury trial, with witnesses and attorneys, that I and other assistants used to compile our statistics."

Taxes to Rise Under New Plan

Social Security Bill Affects All

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is hardly a person in America without a stake in H.R. 9346, a bill to overhaul the Social Security program, which comes to the House floor for what promises to be a major fight Wednesday.

Some 31 million persons, one out of seven Americans, draw monthly Social Security benefits.

About 107 million workers contribute to the system through payroll taxes.

Ninety-five out of 100 children and their mothers are protected by survivors' insurance under the program. Four out of five adults between the ages of 21 and 64 are covered by its disability insurance.

Medicare, providing health care for more than 25 million elderly and disabled persons, is part of Social Security, and is the only part operating in the black.

The rest of the program has been running at a deficit for several years.

At the present rate, the disability fund will run out of money in 1979; the retirement fund, in the early 1980's. The projected deficit for the next 10 years in the retirement and disability programs is $173 billion.

The causes include the recent recession, and the fact that, while today there are three workers for every retiree, in the next century there will be only two workers per retiree, pushing the cost per worker up.

Another cause is what everyone concedes was a mistake made by Congress in 1972 when it geared benefits to inflation in such a way that, by the next century, some people would receive more in retirement than they made working.

The House bill takes away that windfall and stabilizes retirement benefits for the next 75 years so each generation of retirees would be about as well off, relative to the standard of living at the time, as retirees in 1976.

This one change, about which there is no real dispute, is expected to take care of more than half the Social Security deficit over the next 75 years.

At the present rate the disability fund will run out of money in 1979

Other changes are causing political agony.

The bill raises employer and employee payroll taxes over the next decade in addition to increases already written into existing law. For example, a $15,000-a-year worker now pays $877.50 in annual Social Security taxes. In 1987 he would pay $967.50 under existing law, $1,035 under the House bill.

"A lot of members will vote against the bill because of these tax increases," said one congressional staff member. "The vote will be close."

In another effort to bring more money into the system, the bill would require some 6 million federal, state and local government workers and employees of non-profit organizations to join Social Security in 1982, with a study to be completed by 1980 on how to do it.

The administration, House Democratic leaders and federal employees themselves are lobbying in support of a floor amendment by Rep. Joseph Fisher, D-Va., to put the study first and defer any decision on inclusion of the 6 million workers until later.

The bill says no federal worker would get a lower pension under Social Security than under the federal system, but James Lynch, legislative director of the American Federation of Government Employees, the largest union of federal workers, says his members want to see details: "We won't buy it blind."

Animal Buyers on Their Own

WORCESTER, England (UPI) — Dudley Zoo is selling its lions, tigers, bears and deadly snakes to prospective buyers brave enough to catch their purchases themselves. The zoo is closing down Dec. 4 and the keepers, who will be out of work, are refusing to help in the sale.

"We will absolutely refuse to move the animals," said Graham Chilton, the zoo's senior union official. "We are just looking after them and feeding them, but once we help to sell them our jobs are gone."

The 40-year-old zoo, one of Britain's largest, houses 1,500 animals and reptiles. It is owned by a London-based investments company.

"Only I can handle the poisonous cobras and rattlesnakes," Chilton said. "And there is only one man here who can get near the Arabian gazelles, highly nervous animals, and he's not going to help, either."

Chilton said "As for the lions, tigers and bears, whoever wants them will have to risk catching them themselves."

A Boon for Travelers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American citizens returning from overseas could bring in $250 worth of duty free foreign goods instead of the $100 now allowed under legislation approved by the House and sent to the Senate.

The legislation, passed on a 386-11 vote, also would make various other changes in customs laws, limits and procedures.

In addition to boosting the duty-free limit on citizens returning from foreign countries, citizens returning from American Samoa, Guam or the Virgin Islands could bring back $500 worth of goods duty free instead of $200 as now allowed.

A limit of 200 duty-free cigarettes would be imposed. Unlimited cigarette imports now are allowed for U.S. citizens and a limit of 300 is in effect for nonresident aliens.

Daylight Time Ends Next Sunday

Clock Changing Nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Next Sunday, most Americans get back that hour of sleep they lost in April when the nation went on daylight saving time.

Standard time resumes officially at 2 a.m. on Oct. 30, meaning those areas that have been on daylight time for the past six months should set clocks back one hour to 1 a.m.

Certain areas will not be affected by the time change. Arizona, parts of Indiana, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa are permanently on standard time.

Indiana, which is dissected by central and standard time zones, has a special situation in the time change.

Six counties in the Northwest, around Gary and Hammond, and six counties in the southwest, around Evansville, observe daylight time and will turn their clocks back one hour. The 12 counties are in the central time zone.

The other 80 counties in Indiana, around Indianapolis, Fort Wayne and South Bend, remain on standard time throughout the year and will not change their clocks. Those counties, however, are in the eastern time zone which will once again put them one hour ahead of the other 12 counties.

The present system of starting daylight time on the last Sunday in April and returning to standard time on the last Sunday in October was set by law in 1966 under the Uniform Time Act.

The act permitted a state to exempt itself in whole or in part from the time changes which resulted in the current patch work system.

The nation varied from the act only once, in 1973 during the energy crisis prompted by the Arab oil boycott. An emergency bill put the entire nation on daylight time year-around as an energy saving device but heavy protests from parents with children going to school in the morning darkness prompted repeal of that measure on Feb. 23, 1975.

Bills are introduced in each new Congress that range from mandating all year daylight time to extensions of seven or eight months but after the experience with the 1973 emergency act, none has ever been considered.

Insulation Date Given Utilities

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The Public Service Commission on Saturday gave utilities in the state until Nov. 10 to report how they will carry out a new law requiring them to establish programs for low-cost home insulation financing.

At the same time, the PSC published the guidelines saying what the financing plans should contain and criteria for energy conservation proposals in the law.

Generally, owners of one-, two-, or three-family homes built before Aug. 12 and tenants in such dwellings who pay their own electric or gas bills are eligible for insulation loans, the PSC said.

The estimated energy saving over a seven-year period must be at least equal to the estimated cost in order to qualify the project.

A utility must, under the guidelines, make an on-site audit at a charge of $10 to determine if the house meets the minimum standard for the project.

Hearings on the proposed criteria will be held next month in Albany.

The Guans Are Alive And Well

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — For those who were wondering, a Louisiana State University zoologist reports the Peruvian white-winged guan, last seen in 1877 and believed extinct, is alive and well in the foothills of the Andes.

Dr. John P. O'Neill, who recently returned from an expedition to the Andes with four graduate students, reported he sighted at least 14 white-winged guans. He said several hundred more of the birds probably live in the area where his team made its sightings.

White-winged guans, with a wingspread of about 30 inches and long tails, have a brilliant red-orange throat. They previously were known only from three stuffed specimens in museums.

ARC Recycling Closes After 5 Years

KINGSTON — Half of Ulster County's recycling program was knocked out last week when the Association for Retarded Children closed its recycling plant after a five year stint.

According to ARC Executive Director Joseph Ryan, the recycling center was closed to make room for more diverse training programs for the retarded workers.

"We needed the space for other programs. We just couldn't give it to the recycling program any longer," Ryan said.

ARC will use the Broadway workshop for industrial sub-contracting jobs such as packaging and coaling.

The 400 tons of recyclable aluminum, glass and paper that were collected each year by ARC workers will now most likely end up at the bottom of area landfills, said Albert H. Allen chairman of the resources recycling committee of the Ulster County Environmental Management Council.

The four recycling projects now in operation collect 600 tons of recyclable refuse per year. Those centers are operated by the towns of New Paltz, Woodstock, Warwarsing and Saugerties.

Allen said it is now up to the City of Kingston to fill the gap in the county's recycling program.

"The recycling center Kingston recycling center should have been a governmental thing anyway," he said.

According to Ryan, ARC offered the $10,000 per year operation to city officials. However, Ryan said they turned the offer down.

Kingston Mayor Francis Koenig has reportedly asked the Department of Public Works to investigate the possibilities of opening such a center at the city's proposed Golden Hill garbage transfer station.

Before the center closed its doors last week, ARC workers gathered aluminum cans and sold them to Reynolds Aluminum Co. for 15 cents a pound. The paper was separated by color and grade, baled and then sold to the Kingston Colonial Roofing Co. to make insulation.

Glass refuse was also sorted by color before it was crushed and sold.

Ryan said it took many manhours to ready the refuse for recyclable resale. In an effort to make the center more profitable ARC officials had last year had plans to double the volume. However, said Ryan, that idea was scrapped because it would take up too much building space.

Before ARC closed its recycling center on 495 Broadway workers discarded newspapers by color for shipment and sale to the Colonial Roofing Co. in Kingston.

County Considers Carr Building Use

By JODY JAFFE
Freeman Staff

KINGSTON — County Intergovernmental Coordinator Eleanor Bert apparently has an idea to consolidate several county offices under the roof of the old Carr building on the corner of Pearl Street and Clinton Avenue.

At last week's county building committee meeting, Mrs. Bert suggested the county buy the old building and renovate by using available federal funding, according to Committee member Kathleen Quick, D-City.

Mrs. Bert told committee members the county could make enough money from rental to finance a mortgage, Mrs. Quick said. The intergovernmental coordinator planned to relocate her office as well as the youth services and adult education centers to the Carr building, said Mrs. Quick.

The committee took no action on the proposal, according to Mrs. Quick, there were too many unanswered questions about financing.

Mrs. Bert was reluctant to comment on the idea. When contacted at her home Saturday, she hung up after saying, "I don't work on Saturdays."

Curt Valentine: Teaching Is No Longer Exciting

By JODY JAFFE
Freeman Staff

HIGHLAND — Curt Valentine quietly gazed around his empty classroom.

The bulletin board he used to keep full with club meeting notices was empty. A work-to-rule order now prevented his participation in the after school activities that once brightened his job.

He stood among the rows of empty desks at Highland High School, thinking back 21 years to the first time he entered a classroom as teacher. Then, the prospects of stimulating a youngster's mind was the biggest thrill.

But now, he said, all that has changed. Thrust into the midst of two years of contract squabbles with the Highland School Board, Valentine says he has become so disillusioned he is thinking of leaving the profession.

The reasons are varied, but he is most vociferous when discussing the public's attitude toward teaching. "It is so bad, that I would never encourage any of my children to go into teaching," The soft-spoken Valentine says with surprising intensity. "In fact, I would stop funding their college education if that's what they were majoring in."

Valentine, who is a negotiator for the Highland Teacher's Association, says he has spent two long years battling the administration.

"We are not asking for a single thing that other districts don't already have," he said. "Highland has the lowest starting salary for teachers in the entire county and maybe even the whole state."

While the county's average starting salary is $10,500, Valentine said Highland School District teachers begin at $9,450.

Deadlocked in negotiations, teachers here have been working without a contract since June. The HTA's work-to-rule order is the latest move in protest. As a result, teachers no longer supervise non-paid student activities such as preparation for the prom, language clubs or the student yearbook.

In addition, school work such as grading papers and planning lessons is done during the eight-hour school day.

The school board publicly has kept silent, but privately they point to a plethora of voted-down school budgets across the state and say that the taxpayers have simply had enough.

But Valentine claims the board is overlooking some important facts. "Before the order, I would stay after school counseling kids. Then at home, I would grade papers and plan the lessons. Now when I leave school, I leave it all here," Valentine said. "I don't like the order, it's depressing to go against what I believe in."

And if there were such a thing as the teachers' "politicized oath" this is a de-time violation," he added. But, he points out quickly, it is an effective way to drive the point home to taxpayers and school officials that teachers normally put in more than eight hours on the job.

"Teachers here used to put in close to 12 hours each week of their own time, planning lessons, grading papers or counseling students," the social studies teacher said. "In order to fit all the work in a normal eight hour day, Valentine said teachers are forced to take shortcuts."

Last week teachers marched with protest signs to make parents aware of the contract problems. But, according to Valentine, not many noticed and those who did made comments like you "you deserve nothing."

In the most recent negotiations, Valentine said the board flatly rejected all of the state fact-finder recommendations released last week. The fact-finder called for a 6 percent salary increase.

Teachers originally asked for and 6 percent but the school board will offer.

Valentine said the teachers will only consider a strike if they are backed up against a wall.

When they offer you nothing, that's what you feel like," Valentine said.

Berkowitz Ruled Fit to Stand Trial

NEW YORK (UPI) — A state Supreme Court judge has declared Son of Sam suspect David Berkowitz fit to stand trial for the last of the six .44-caliber slayings.

Defense lawyer Ira Jultek said he was convinced Friday's ruling was "an eminently fair decision" and said his client is "perfectly satisfied" with the ruling. He said his defense will be innocent by reason of insanity.

On Thursday, the first day of a hearing on Berkowitz' mental competence, the defendant repeatedly made known his desire to be put away forever so he would not kill again.

Supreme Court Justice John Starkey asked prosecutors and defense lawyers to appear in court Nov. 2 for motions but did not set an official trial date. Meanwhile, Berkowitz will be held in the psychiatric ward of a Brooklyn hospital, where he has been since shortly after his arrest Aug. 10.

The hearing had many sensational moments including several pleas by Berkowitz that the judge "lock me up and throw away the key" so he could not kill again, and the playing of a 70-minute tape recording in which the defendant said he was driven to the murders "by howling demons."

Terrorists Rampage

PARIS (UPI) — Supporters of the Baader-Meinhof urban guerrillas Saturday attacked West German companies, legations and tourist buses across Europe in the fifth consecutive day of violence protesting the Bonn government's tough antiterrorist policies.

Arsonists set fire to eight tourist buses in central Paris Friday night and early Saturday and attempted to burn the offices of the West German tourism offices on the French capital.

A violent explosion severely damaged a Paris apartment where police found explosives and pamphlets favorable to the West German Red Army group.

Carter Tours SAC Base

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — President Carter toured Strategic Air Command headquarters Saturday, underscoring his commitment to a strong military force within hours of his surprise announcement a new U.S.-Soviet strategic arms agreement may be only weeks away.

The President, in the midst of a three-day western tour, flew to Offutt Air Force Base near Omaha from Des Moines, where he discussed farm price issues with a group of eight Iowa farmers Saturday morning.

From Nebraska, Saturday's schedule took him on to discussions of water policy and the Panama Canal treaties in Denver, and a $1,000-a-plate Democratic fund raising dinner in Los Angeles.

During his visit to Strategic Air Command headquarters, Carter addressed all the approximately 150 SAC facilities over a nationwide closed-circuit broadcast hookup, telling an estimated 2,000 persons of his concerns for the nation's security.

DA Race Tops $37,000 Figure

KINGSTON— More than $37,000 has been spent on the race for Ulster County District Attorney by Republican Michael Kavanagh and Democrat Robert Ricken.

The winner will receive an annual salary of $31,075.

According to statements filed last week with the county's board of elections, Ricken has raised $20,936, spent $18,777 and remains with about $2,100 in his treasury.

Kavanagh's campaign has cost $18,724 and he still has $3,200. The Republican has raised $21,939.

Many of the contributions to the Ricken campaign have come in the form of material items, such as billboard space and radio time. The candidate has said this allows him to conduct a media blitz while outspending Kavanagh by only about $50.

Of the $3,200 in material items Ricken lists, over $1,000 came in the form of billboard space from Midport Outdoor law, all contributions over $99 have to be itemized. The main contributor to the Ricken effort has been his father, Ted Ricken of Florida, who kicked of Middletown.

He also lists a contribution of $60 in top soil.

According to the election in $2,000.

Other large contributors include Ira Phillips of Woodstock, $1,500; Dennis Lubin of torney William Curran, $750 and the Sullivan County Harness Racing Association, $500.

A $500 contribution from the Brooklyn Longshoremen's Political Action and Education Fund was returned, according to Kavanagh's statement.

Considerably less money, $19,400, has been spent by the two men running for county court judge.

Republican Francis Vogt has gone through over $12,000, while Democrat Joshua Koplovitz has spent $7,300.

Vogt has raised $13,825, with over $3,200 coming from the county GOP. He's also received $1,000 from Kingston insurance man James Berardi; $500 from Curran; $500 from the Sullivan County Harness Racing Association and $150 from Kavanagh's election committee.

He's also received large contributions from Ellenville businessman Stanley Rosenstock, $1,000; Rosendale at-

New Paltz attorney James Melbert, who, like Kavanagh, serves as an assistant district attorney, has contributed $100 to his colleague's opponent.

Kavanagh's campaign has been boosted by a $5,500 contribution from the Ulster County Republican Committee.

He's also received large contributions from Ellenville businessman Stanley Rosenstock, $1,000; Rosendale at-

IN THE COURTS

Weeks Pleads Innocent

Ronald Kevin Weeks, the 30-year-old former Kingston bartender, who is under indictment for the armed holdup of the Highland National Bank in Shokan, Sept. 29, pleaded innocent in Ulster County Court Friday and was remanded to jail without bail.

County Judge Raymond J. Mino assigned Frank Martucci as counsel for Weeks who is scheduled for another court appearance on Oct. 26.

Weeks was arrested by Kingston State Police in Poughkeepsie and was charged with taking $2,500 of which $402 was recovered at the time. Assistant District Attorney Robert Francello is representing the people.

GUILTY PLEA

An 82-year-old Tampa, Fla., man who is charged with stabbing his 42-year-old daughter-in-law, Tomasita Reina of Temple Road, Highland, entered a guilty plea in Ulster County Court Friday.

County Judge Raymond J. Mino adjourned the case of Anthony Reina, pending a presentence report of the probation department.

The woman was hospitalized after the June incident suffering from multiple wounds to the head and arm, police said.

ARRESTS

An Albany man found inside the beauty shop in the Gov. Clinton, Albany Avenue, has been arrested by city police who charged him with third degree burglary.

Donald E. Fairbanks, 40, of 115 Grand St., was held in lieu of bail, pending a court appearance.

City police also reported the arrest of Hipolito Rodriguez Jr., 19, of 25 Foxhall Ave., on charges of petit larceny. He was confined to Ulster County Jail pending a court appearance during which he

HOW ICE IN GUTTERS CAN CAUSE TROUBLE

Trouble starts when downspouts freeze to prevent melted snow from running off — also when gutters become ice clogged causing water to back up under roof shingles. A Smith-Gates Gable-Roof Kit will provide the proper amount of heat to form a channel for melted snow to run off. It should be installed on the roof, in the gutters and downspouts. Inexpensive to use and won't discolor the roof.

Veterans Day Will Revert to Nov. 11

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Monday will mark the final observance of Veterans Day on the fourth Monday in October.

Effective next year, the observance will revert to the original Nov. 11 date, the day the nation has honored its heroes since the end of World War I.

The October Veterans Day observance was put into effect by the so-called "Monday Holiday Law" enacted by Congress in 1968. The date for celebrating three established national holidays was changed so that observances fell on Mondays, giving workers a three-day weekend. The other two Monday holidays which will continue are Columbus Day and George Washington's birthday.

Veterans organizations, led by the American Legion, took strong exception to the change in the Veterans Day date and began working with state legislatures to have the date changed back to Nov. 11.

The American Legion, in its efforts to return to the traditional date, said "to most Americans, Veterans Day is not just an excuse for another long weekend. The day honors the many thousands of men and women who gave their lives in the defense of the nation... It is not just another holiday."

Legislation returning the date to Nov. 11 was approved by Congress last year and signed by President Gerald Ford. In the meantime, legislatures in most of the states had approved similar laws.

Concerning the Williams case Ricken said, "The only thing I know is that the records he (Kavanagh) cited were incomplete."

The Democrat has a letter from the Bronx District Attorney's Office which says "Precise records are not available regarding the statistical performance of individual assistant district attorneys who served during

The Republican revealed his findings during a live radio debate Saturday and he later said he did not doubt Ricken's claim of having won 24 trials in a row until earlier this month when the Democrat said the trials were won in the Supreme Court.

"I found that hard to believe and at that point I decided to check for myself," said Kavanagh.

JUST IN PASSING

Message from Headquarters

By TOM GEYER
Editor

Monday officially marks Veterans Day. The memorial holiday brought a reminiscence this weekend from Kingston's Raymond Saehloff, who has saved for more than 30 years the telegram he decoded, as a signal technician in Germany, announcing the surrender of Germany in World War II.

Saehloff already knew something about electrical gear when he entered the army in 1942. Then in his mid-20s, he had been working for Kingston electricians Carl Miller & Son.

Three message clips were needed to contain the announcement of Germany's surrender in 1944.

soldiers — in celebration. The news had come that the fighting in southern Germany was over. Their division was pulled out of combat and ordered to stand by in Murau, a town in the foothills of the Bavarian Alps.

For several days the troops waited without much news. Saehloff manned the radio communications unit in a half-track convoy truck. Many of the messages he monitored contained the names of German generals, suggesting negotiations were in progress and the end was imminent. Finally, shortly before noon on May 7, the radio came alive with a long message in code.

Saehloff sat through his lunch hour painstakingly recording the Morse-coded numerals. He was offered relief, but decided to finish the job himself. When the three pages of numbers were written down he set to work with his M-209 decoding machine to turn the words into English. His fellow GIs clustered around to watch.

The 108-word message from division headquarters, marked "urgent," announced the end of the war in Europe.

"Frankly there was more celebration when we heard we were out of the fighting," Saehloff recalls. "But it was a great moment for all of us."

Realizing he had decoded one of the most important messages of our century, Saehloff assembled his original Morse code scratch sheet, the tape from the coding machine and the typed message distributed through the division. He still has them tucked away.

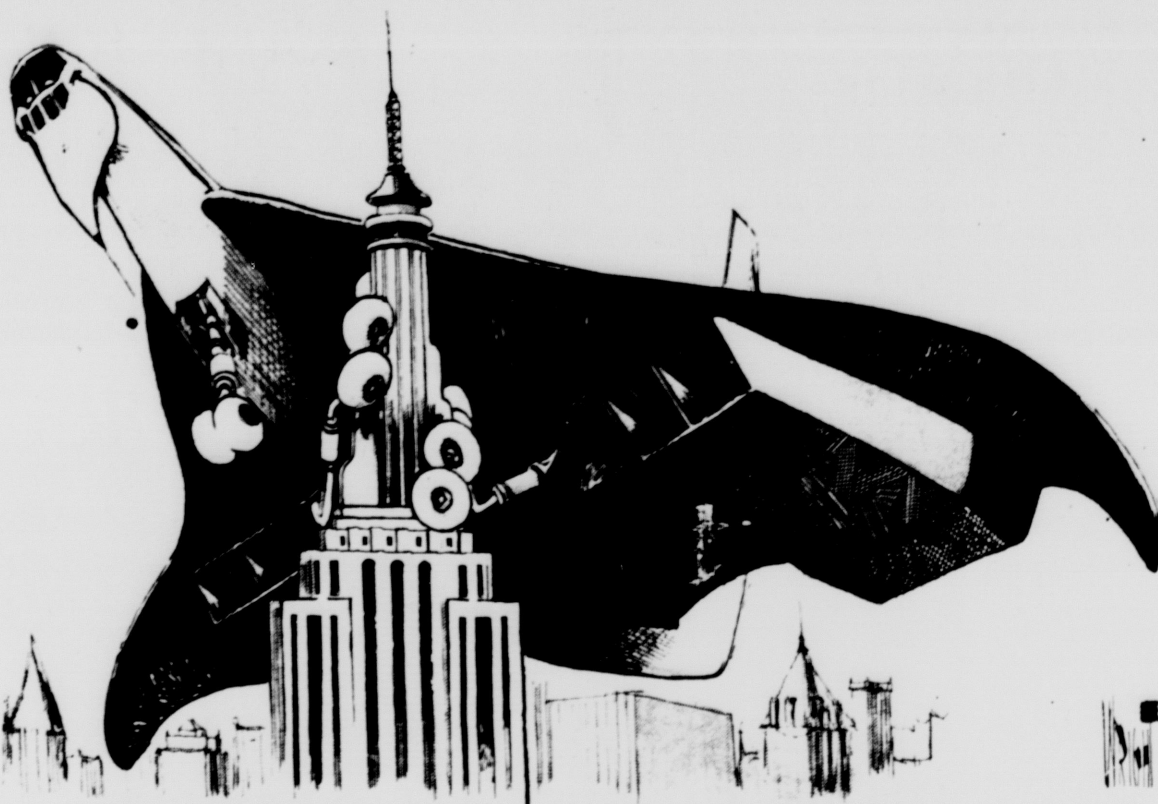

After the war Saehloff maintained his interest in electronics. Last June he retired from his job as an inspector at IBM Kingston's electronics lab. He lives at 43 Orchard Street with his wife, Eleanor, son Paul, and his souvenirs of a great day in history.

The army decided to train him in radio communications and cryptography. In September, 1944, a few months after the invasion of Normandy, his 119th Engineer Battalion of the 12th Armored Division was sent to England to prepare for combat duty in Europe.

With him went his brother, Robert, who since has served as president of the 12th Armored Division Association.

After the crossing to France the 12th Armored fought its way into southern Germany. The Third Reich, long after its final collapse became inevitable, fought on. Allied troops were forced to go on risking and losing their lives in a war they already had as good as won.

Finally, one day in early May 1945, gunfire erupted along the division's convoy as it traveled through the rolling south German countryside. At first, Saehloff remembers, many of the 12th Armored's troops thought they were under attack. But the guns were being fired by their own

Time for the Concorde

It is welcome news that the Concorde was allowed to try out its run to New York City. If it had been otherwise, resentment would have lingered, and the French and the English would have gone to their graves believing the United States, pleading ecological vanity, eched them out of an opportunity to show off and vindicate the most advanced transport plane in the world.

In the end—as Mr. Ford's wise transportation secretary predicted—there could be no substitute for the empirical test. There are undoubtedly some of the most elaborate scientific instruments in the world that presume to tell you whether the sound is just right or just wrong. The trouble with them—as, at another level they discovered at Lincoln Center—is that they simply do not duplicate the human ear and the human nervous system, and nobody in Queens is going to know for sure just how objectionable (if at all) the Concorde is until it begins to fly in once or twice a day.

But it isn't by any means settled. For one thing there are the professionally civil disobedient: the kind of people who can be brought to church only if presented with an opportunity to stand up to make a scene against the neutron bomb. There are those who are determined to stop the traffic into Kennedy and interpose themselves against the courts. Most of these demonstrators are, as I say, men and women in search of a cause. Others are sincerely concerned over the prospect of a noise-blight ruining or gravely influencing their lives.

What will happen is that after a week or so of Concorde flights, the latter group will either be pacified or, their premonitions will be confirmed by experience. In the latter event, there will be a general outcry against the Concorde and it will be doomed. If all we have left, however, after a couple of weeks, are the professional protesters, led by a grandstanding Governor Carey, they will disappear like those who pledged to stop the traffic on the way to the World's Fair in 1964.

The wisecrack in Europe during the last winter is that the British-French consortium could have wangled permission to land the Concorde by the simple device of making a gift of one (1) Concorde to El Al. But there is a perfectly simple way to move against Concorde, and it very nearly happened a couple of months ago when nobody was looking.

It was in the Senate, where an amendment to a revenue bill was being considered. Senator Kennedy, who appeared consecrated to the cause of preventing any other Americans from enjoying any of the privileges he grew up with, short only of renouncing those privileges himself, moved to declare that first class airplane fares should not be deductible as business expenses.

Since there are about 16 people in the United States both rich and profligate enough to spend their own money at the Concorde rate in order to save an extra three hours' flying time, this would reduce the demand for the Concorde to zero.

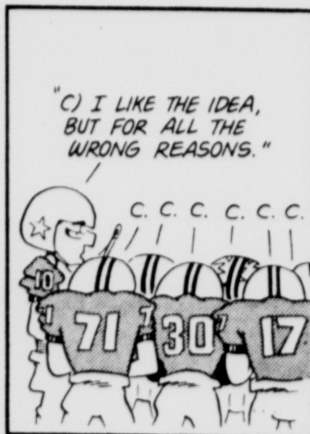

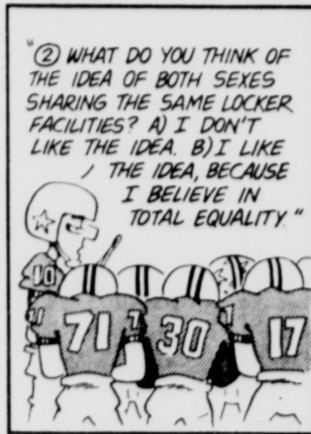

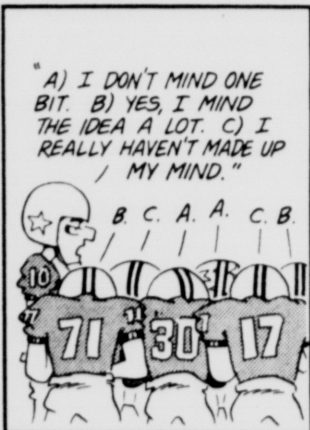

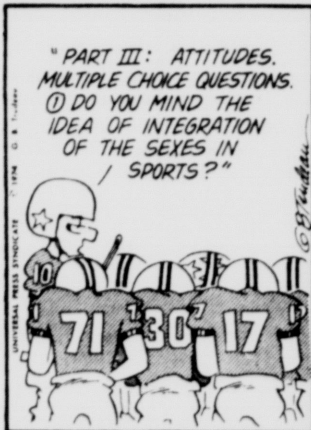

It occurred to the Senate, however, that the proposed exclusion would operate equally to undermine all first class travel in the United States, most of which is done as a business expense. Even some senators who are highly populist in their public rhetoric rose to protest this. By a vote of only two members the measure was defeated, and first-class air travel continues to be deductible where authorized by a corporation.

But for those who seek straws in the wind, did you notice what the British intend to do? Reduce their flights to Washington (pari) (passu) as they inaugurate flights into New York. You see, the British and the French want to fly the Concorde because they want to show it off. But it is an economic dog. Every time they fly the poor thing, even if they were as crowded and uncomfortable as the ascetic Senator Kennedy would desire it to be—it would still lose money. In recent years the French allowed the whole of their transatlantic passenger line to sink without a trace in order to save a little money.

A few years from now, Concorde flights will probably be rarities, possibly they will not exist. Or—the only viable alternative to abandoning supersonic passenger flights—the boys will go back and dust off the model we buried in a Luddite seizure of a few years ago, and try to resurrect an efficient model. It is not likely, then, to be a long ordeal for the people in the area of Kennedy airport, one way or another.

'Smoking Stinks'

WASHINGTON—A news item out of Chicago reports that the American Cancer Society has decided to launch a new advertising campaign entitled, "Smoking Stinks," aimed at teenagers who are buying cigarettes. The campaign will publicize the fact that smoking causes bad breath.

The reason for the switch is that studies showed that while most teenagers do not fear death, they are, thanks to TV, frightened silly of bad breath.

I believe the Cancer Society is on the right track. Anyone who watches television knows that death is not the ultimate put-down in our American culture.

Teen-agers are fed a daily diet of murders and killings on television programs every day, and most of them accept it as one of those things. But they are aware, from watching the commercials, that bad breath is no laughing matter and no matter who you are you could be a victim of it.

I know this from personal experience. I was watching a TV program the other night with some young people in which there was a knife, a rape and a shootout. I lost count after five people were killed.

No one in the room except me seemed bothered by it.

The commercials were something else.

In one, a young man took his date home and refused to kiss her. She went inside in tears.

The two young ladies watching with me were riveted to their seats.

Fortunately, the young woman's mother was still up and she explained to her daughter what the problem was. It was, BAD BREATH. The mother gave her daughter a bottle filled with a green liquid. The daughter protested that she had already used a mouthwash. But the mother said, "This one is different. It freshens your mouth for 24 hours."

In the next scene the same boy took the daughter home and kissed her fully on the mouth. "Can I see you again?" the boy asked.

Inside the house the girl rushed into her mother's arms. "How was your date?" the mother asked. "Wonderful," the girl replied. "Thanks to you and —"

My two young lady visitors breathed a sigh of relief. They identified with the poor girl and it seemed that the problem had been resolved to everyone's satisfaction.

A few commercials later it was the boys' turn to squirm. The scene took place in a locker room. The star basketball player had just scored the winning play but all his teammates were ignoring him.

The young men in my living room stared intently at the screen.

Finally, the coach came over to the boy and said, "Nice game," and handed the star a can of underarm deodorant. The boy took the can and sprayed it under his arms. In seconds the entire team gathered around him and congratulated him on his game.

"All right," one of the young men in the living room said, which is, as I understand it, the highest compliment a teen-ager can pay to anyone or anything.

"Do the knifings and rapes and killings bother you?" I asked.

They all looked at me as if I was crazy.

"It's only a TV show," one of the teen-agers said.

"But the bad breath and underarm deodorants are for real?"

"Well, yeh," someone replied. "I mean that's life. No one likes anyone who smells bad."

Unfortunately, the next commercial had to do with constipation. It showed an old man who didn't want to go fishing until his wife gave him a new mint-flavored laxative.

The kids laughed at this one.

"What's so damn funny?" I wanted to know.

"Who ever heard of a guy who wouldn't go fishing until his wife gave him a new laxative?" a teen-ager said.

It suddenly dawned on me that these kids were in a world of their own, and the American Cancer Society's new bad breath campaign just might work.

ABA Helped To Discredit Guild

WASHINGTON — At the bottom of most Washington scandals, there invariably seems to be some lawyers in the woodpile.

The Watergate crimes were plotted initially at the Justice Department, with the attorney general presiding and the White House counsel advising. Lawyers participated in the bag-jobs, forgeries, frame-ups, break-in-cover-ups and perjury that followed.

Now we've learned that the bastion of legal ethics, the American Bar Association, conspired with the FBI to discredit the left-wing National Lawyers Guild. The FBI secretly wiretapped and spied on the guild's national offices and then fed derogatory information to key officials of the bar association.

The guild came under FBI surveillance not just because of its leftist leanings, but because of its opposition to racial discrimination, support of civil liberties and protests against congressional abuses. These stands offended the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover's standards for patriotism.

He grew up in Washington when it was still a small Southern town, where segregation was the law as well as the custom. To Hoover, the struggle for equal rights by blacks smacked of rebellion. He was an incurable curmudgeon, conservative in his ways and narrow in his outlook, who saw sedition in dissent.

The American Bar Association should have had a more enlightened view of the nation's founding principles. Yet it not only joined in the red-baiting of the 1950s but sought dirt about the lawyers guild from the FBI. The sordid story has been buried for two decades in FBI files, which have now been made available to us.

The bar association's chief communist hunter, Austin Canfield Sr., telephoned the FBI in January 1952 to ask for information that could be used against the guild. A top FBI official, Louis B. Nichols, reported in a memo that Canfield "was in favor of taking ... on" the guild.

Nichols then supplied Canfield with a report charging that the guild worked closely with communist factions. As one piece of evidence, the report declared that the guild had blasted the FBI's "Gestapo activities," and attacked the ABA. Any criticism of the FBI was considered akin to treason.

One month later, Canfield made another call to the FBI and Nichols again related the conversation in a confidential memo. "Canfield ... stated ... there will be ... an attempt to move the American Bar Association into action against the National Lawyers Guild," reported Nichols. "He feels the ... guild has now gone far enough and that now is the time to act."

The FBI, meanwhile, searched its "security index" for information about guild officers. Four memos were prepared, advised an FBI memo, which "may be of possible assistance to the American Bar Association."

As late as the 1960s, long after the red scare had abated, the president-elect of the American Bar Association, John C. Satterfield, met with Hoover to discuss "matters of mutual interest between the FBI and the ABA," according to a written account of the meeting.

Satterfield lavished praise upon the crusty FBI director and offered to do favors for him. Later, Satterfield asked another FBI official for "background information" on the guild. Apparently, he planned to use the information to discredit guild members. For an FBI memo states:

"(Satterfield) would like to re-institute this policy of not only barring members of the NLG from becoming members of the ABA but also expel from the ABA any attorney who continues to be associated with the NLG and fosters its aims."

FBI officials, with Hoover's permission, noted with a terse "OK H," sent Satterfield a 24-page report on the National Lawyers Guild. This compared the guild's positions with those of the Communist Party. The fact that both groups adopted the same line on the racial question and civil liberties, of course, didn't prove they were allied. The ABA ultimately balked at officially barring guild members.

Footnote: Satterfield conceded to our associate, Larry Kraftowitz, that he was "not in sympathy" with some of the guild's activities. But he said he couldn't remember discussing the guild with FBI officials. The FBI declined to comment because it is involved in litigation with the guild. The guild is suing the FBI for illegal surveillance and harassment.

BACKROOM BATTLE: Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the crusty chair man of the Armed Services Committee, is trying to kill a plan for tougher investigations of presidential appointees.

A Senate Office of Nominations that would probe the backgrounds and financial dealings of nominees is being pushed by Sens. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Charles Percy, R-Ill., who were greatly embarrassed by the Bert Lance affair.

But Stennis, who prefers to approve nominations in the cloakrooms with a handshake and a wink, objects to "another layer of responsibility," his spokesman said. "He likes the one-on-one situation of nominee and senator."

Rescue Squad Seeking Funds

Dear Editor:

The New Paltz Rescue Squad has begun its annual fund raising campaign.

Fifty members of our community have given their time first to become superbly trained in life-saving skills, and then to be on call to serve us. The New Paltz Rescue Squad maintains a three man crew and two ambulances "ready to roll" at all times. The average time from their receipt of a call to their arrival at an emergency is under three minutes.

The second most frequent call received by the rescue squad is a cardiac emergency. Heart disease is the number one killer today, and it often strikes down people in their prime. The members of the rescue squad would like to improve its ability to help us through these emergencies with additional equipment and training.

Let us not wait for a personal tragedy to prompt us to contribute. The time is now.

ON MY MIND RALPH INGERSOLL

Where Wisdom Begins

Last week I was gloomy. If you read my comments here, you will recall my disgust with the way this country's failing to face an inevitable shortfall in energy. It was so intense that I had to resort to turning philosophic to calm myself down. In one short lifetime, I had to remind myself, I had observed civilization surviving too many catastrophes of its own making to lose faith now.

It was after I got that off my chest that I wondered if I was really being philosophic or just polyanic. So I looked up the multifaceted word philosophy in my big dictionary. The first and most basic definition was "love of wisdom, as leading to the search for it; hence the resulting knowledge of general principles...." So I think I'm on sound ground; taking as a general principle that the human race has a built-in capacity to survive its own mistakes is all right with me.

But as to wisdom itself, all I really know about it is that no human being has ever mastered it whole.

Which prompts me to come down off my high horse and tell a story. It concerns the pre-World War II press lord of England, Beaverbrook, and was told me with glee by Winston Churchill's mischievous son, Randolph.

The Beaver — common parlance before Beaverbrook distinguished himself as Churchill's wartime production chief — had a mistress who had gotten too importuning on the subject of marriage to please him — but was also too prominent to be dismissed lightly.

"But," chuckled Randolph, "trust the Beaver to find a way." He summoned his handsomest and best-connected young editor and told him that he felt his employee had a great future in British journalism and politics, but... REAL success in these fields required him to be married to the right wife — and he wasn't married to anyone.

But The Little Man (Beaverbrook was tiny) had the right solution practically in hand. He knew JUST the right lady to court.

You can write the next chapter yourself. The dazzled young editor and a slightly frazzled older lady both took the bait and were married with The Beaver's blessing. But I doubt if you've guessed what happened next. Instead of getting promoted, the now married aspirant to fame got his walking papers from his employer and it took him weeks of importuning to even get back to see The Beaver. Their conversation was brief. The betrayed one's "But you said...." Beaverbrook raised a hand for silence and replied, "Young man, I've just taught you the most valuable lesson I can think of: the beginning of wisdom is learning to detect the note of irony in the human voice."

And maybe an understanding of irony is where it does. It would be ironic if it took this country's lack of understanding of its dependence on energy to cause a crisis that would rouse it to solving the problem for the whole world.

ULSTER COUNTY GOVERNMENT

County Is Finding Welfare Cheats

By ERNEST J. GARDNER
Chairman
Ulster County Legislature

About this time of year candidates are discovering that we have a welfare problem, a problem that is eating away nearly half of our tax money. Few of them have any real solutions, but they all say they are going to do something about it.

In addition to pressing our legislators in Albany to bring about some form of welfare reform, your Ulster County Government has made great progress in discouraging welfare fraud.

Ulster County has a Special Investigation Unit (SIU) in the Social Services Department which has been recovering thousands of taxpayer's welfare dollars.

In 1976, this SIU agency had completed approximately 1,000 cases, proved 250 frauds, resulting in 25 arrests, and negotiated for restitution of about $250,000, a quarter of a million dollars.

The results in 1977 thus far are about the same with 24 arrests reported. It is impossible to measure the deterrent power of the SIU, but we know it is working. Media reports of arrests and restitution are helping to discourage welfare fraud. This is rarely mentioned by the media as one of the factors in keeping welfare costs down.

James Davis, senior investigator of SIU has a small staff, four investigators, himself and a secretary. The revenues resulting from welfare restitutions more than pay their salaries and expenses. The SIU agency has been in operation since June 1, 1975 and last year, one additional investigator was added to the staff.

Welfare fraud usually involves a charge of grand larceny. The main objective is to secure restitution which results in a saving to the taxpayer.

Department head Davis claims that for every working day at least one fraud is uncovered on an average. There is, however, an average of 15 referrals per day.

Davis suggests that the public can help curb welfare fraud by reporting any suspicious incidents to his office on the sixth floor of the county office building in Kingston. All tips from citizens eventually lead to an investigation of possible welfare fraud. Callers may remain anonymous.

Davis has asked all concerned citizens to report any situations which appear to be fraudulent. A vigilant citizenry can help reduce the cost of welfare and ultimately reduce the tax burden. There is no need to become involved. All information is treated confidentially.

Davis has repeatedly said the public should not assume that "we know what's going on in every area of the county." Citizens who have information may call the Special Investigation Unit at the county office building, 331-9300.

Another county agency that is helping to cut the cost of welfare is the Child Support Enforcement Unit, which has been in operation since August 1975. Finding absent parents eventually cuts the cost of Aid to Dependent Children.

Emily Weinstein, Unit Supervisor, said absent parents may be found by means of local field investigation and utilizing the computerized New York State and Federal Parent Locator Services. Paternity and support obligation is established.

In 1976, a total of $207,444 was secured in support payments. The CSEU staff was increased from two to four in that year. In 1977, to date, $235,408 has been collected.

The CSEU also welcomes information from the public. Weinstein said this information will be held in strict confidence.

As part of the state's Child Support Program, local Social Services Departments, working with the State Department of Social Services, can assist the public in locating absent parents who are, or may be, liable for the support of dependent children under 21 years of age.

This parent locating service is also available to those not re-

TO: Melvin Mones, Ulster County Legislator
District No. 4
REFERENCE: Your statements Oct. 3, 4, 5
Kingston Daily Freeman

What is legal?

Is there a separate standard of legality and morality for the Ulster County Legislature's majority and its members?

When your current public comments concerning my harness horse owners license compared with your past actions as a legislator, I begin to wonder.

For example:

FIRST: You and your cronies reapportioned Ulster election districts to create District 7 from Wawarsing and Shawangunk. There was no referendum. ILLEGAL.

SECOND: Only at election time was the already-established reapportionment put to referendum. the voters defeated it. Yet, the districts were retained anyway and the successful candidates took office from districts not authorized by the voters. ILLEGAL.

THIRD: Since I, and other Democrats won that year, your gerrymandering wasn't too successful. So, your conspirators went to work again, creating new District No. 1 from Wawarsing, Denning, and Hardenburgh. ILLEGAL.

FOURTH: In that election I missed defeating the third-running winner by just 32 votes. But, when your party's District No. 1 winner was forced to resign because of a well paying State job conflict, your majority henchmen ignored my fourth position mandate from the voters and appointed a man favorable to your own interests. ILLEGAL. The decisions of two courts verify it. Still, you are using taxpayer money for court actions in an effort to "save face".

Now, with only several weeks left to serve in the seat to which I was elected in the last special election, I am being confronted with still another version of your interpretation of legality. Is this a new form of gerrymandering on a personal level?

So Mr. Mones, let's talk about horses . . . with some old fashioned horse sense. From the age of six I was raised on an Ulster County farm where the living was far from easy. Horses were always a part of our family's hard working pattern. They were used for daily labor in the fields. They provided transportation. I never lost my childhood respect for horses, even though I came to realize they are a legitimate business.

When later personal success afforded the time, it was only natural I became more active in the horse world. If there is any doubt in your mind that horses are a legitimate enterprise, let me point out that in one recent out-of-state sale purchases by New York breeders bringing these horses into our state will result in over one-and-a-half million dollars in brood mare and stallion business income in our county.

This additional rural income is significant because, since my childhood, I have seen the dairy, poultry, fruit-growing, and general agricultural business decline or leave our area. That's one reason I have constantly worked for the re-establishment of assured permanency for the Ulster County Fair . . . once the pride of the County and the State.

Frankly, I'm proud of my association with the horse business and the role it has played in County development. While I see no conflict in a legislator possessing a horse owners license he acquired after 1954, I am giving up my license. I am doing this because, even for the remaining few weeks of my term, I want to continue to represent my constituents without even an appearance of conflict.

I only wish you had come to me personally for a man-to-man discussion of your opinions. For one thing, I would like to ask you:

What are you proud of Mr. Mones?

Did you hold a position in New York State Government while serving on the Ulster County Legislature?

Oh, yes, Mr. Mones, I'm proud of something else, too. I'm a Democrat.

Kavanagh Meant No Offense

Dear Editor:

This past Sunday a political advertisement was run in the Kingston Daily Freeman in behalf of my campaign regarding the drug investigation conducted by our office and the New York State Police in 1974 at the Onteora High School.

Unfortunately, this ad has been interpreted by some as having the effect of tarnishing the reputation of a good school and the fine people who work in it. For this I am deeply sorry. It certainly was not my intention nor that of any member of my campaign staff to convey such an impression. Onteora is a fine school, and as a resident of West Hurley I look forward to the day when my two small children can attend it.

We used this ad because I consider this investigation to be a considerable accomplishment. It resulted in the confiscation of $20,000 worth of LSD and the conviction of the man responsible for attempting to sell it to members of the student body. We never would have been so successful had we not had the complete assistance and full cooperation of the school authorities; they had the good sense to recognize that a problem existed and the courage to attempt to do something about it.

In addition, so there will be no misunderstanding—heroin was not being used at the school nor was there any indication that any teacher condoned nor was aware that drugs of any kind were actually being sold within the school.

The use of drugs such as LSD by our school children is a concern shared by us all and frankly, is a problem which affects not just Onteora but all of our school systems within Ulster County. This investigation of which I am quite proud, represents an attempt on our part at the district attorney's office to do something constructive about it.

Backers Say White House Losing the Canal Battle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two months after President Carter signed the Panama Canal treaties, their supporters in the State Department and Congress are fearful the White House is losing its battle to win popular support for the accords.

One gloomy department official likened the White House offensive so far to a "fleet of mosquitoes."

The treaties must be ratified by two thirds of the Senate to take effect. However, polls showing widespread public disapproval are pushing many senators against them — or at least forcing the lawmakers onto the fence.

That department official working to explain policy to grass roots America says the latest public opinion polls show no significant shift.

"Maybe in two or three months we'll see a shift. But for the moment nothing significant has happened."

An experienced diplomat and a treaty supporter, the official said, "What we need are heavy bombers, but what we have is a fleet of mosquitoes. Contrary to what some people think the federal government just does not operate a propaganda machine."

Carter budgeted time to stump for the treaties during his present cross country tour.

And negotiators Sol Linowitz and Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker are planning to follow up.

But the State Department has only about 25 persons qualified to explain the intricacies of the accords. It depends on local groups to provide expenses since the department has no extensive funds for traveling speakers.

Yet Sen. William Scott, a staunch treaty opponent, doesn't believe the administration is at a disadvantage.

"The evidence continues to accumulate that the president intends to utilize the full force of his office as chief executive to change the views of individual senators and to change the opinions of the American people," the Virginia Republican said.

The Senate will probably be asked to vote on the treaties in March or April, according to Senate sources.

In preparation for that vote, the Foreign Relations Committee held extensive hearings, Sept. 26 through Oct. 14, which some members hoped would "educate" the American public.

The hearings were judicious but they lacked excitement.

Ronald Reagan, the most prominent treaty opponent and a surefire draw, declined to testify. "He said he couldn't fit it into his schedule," one committee staffer said.

"Reagan should have been put on the stand and squared off against Secretary of State (Cyrus) Vance to give those hearings some drama," said another staff member.

This official suggested Reagan should have been subpoenaed and forced to appear. And there are other problems.

Foreign Relations panel staffers are disappointed by what they feel was State Department failure to provide adequate support for their hearings.

The stakes rise considerably when one considers the implications for Carter's authority should the treaties be voted down.

As former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger put it:

"A rejection of the treaties would not only cause a crisis in our relations with the nations of the Western Hemisphere; it would in addition weaken the president's national authority at the beginning of his term."

And some foreign diplomats are asking: if the Senate rejects the treaties, as the Senate rejected the League of Nations in 1921, why negotiate with the White House on important issues?

Why not just negotiate with the Senate next time?

'Yes' Vote for Panama Pushed

Torrijos Makes a Pitch

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — Panamanian strongman Gen. Omar Torrijos Saturday promised Panamanians jobs in the Canal Zone when the Americans leave and urged an overwhelming "yes" vote on the new Panama canal treaties in today's national plebiscite.

Speaking at Colon on the Atlantic Ocean end of the 50-mile-long canal, Torrijos said Panama will give jobs to three Panamanians for every American who leaves since the Americans earned so much.

"They earn $8 an hour, some of them $10, salaries that you have never seen because you committed the error of being natives and they're 'gringos' and if you're not a 'gringo' you can't earn $10 an hour," he told a cheering crowd of thousands who packed the November 5 Square.

There are presently 10,000 Panamanians and 3,500 Americans working in the Canal Zone. Under the treaties, Americans can keep their jobs until the year 2000 if they want.

Torrijos said implementation of the treaties would allow Panama funds for housing and control of the docks would permit an expansion of its export trade.

"We'll end unemployment," he said.

Alluding to fears by some

U.S. senators that Cuba or Russia might influence Panama's operation of the canal, Torrijos said: "We're not going to take down one flag in order to put up another."

Panama's chief treaty negotiator, Romulo Escobar Bethancourt, said earlier in the week that 85 percent of Panama's 800,000 registered voters were expected to approve the treaties.

But official results were not expected until Thursday. The electoral board warned that any communications media which distributed unofficial results could be fined between $500 and $1,000.

A hard core of opposition which crystallized around leftist students and the independent lawyers movement nearly resulted in a clash Friday night when 3,000 treaty opponents held a rally at Santa Ana park. National guardsmen sidetracked a march of pro-treaty students on the park, barricaded by anti-treaty forces.

The government ordered all campaigning and gatherings — for or against the treaties — to end at 6 p.m. (7 p.m. EDT) Saturday. Under this umbrella, the national guard could prevent or breakup any voting day protests.

Ironically, both Americans and Panamanians who oppose

Part of $57 Million Satellite Program

Weather Probes Right on Money

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Two international Explorer satellites designed to improve long-range weather forecasting were successfully launched into orbit Saturday.

$8 Million GOP House Drive Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats claim Republicans are trying to amass an $8 million war chest in a drive to win additional seats in the House next year. Republicans say it just isn't so.

House Democratic whip John Brademas of Indiana told reporters he and other Democrats have heard "there is a huge Republican financial buildup for 1978. We understand they're planning on raising $8 million."

"Many Democratic members I talked with were stunned to learn that much money is being set aside to go after their seats," said Brademas.

"I wish it was true, but it isn't," said a spokesman for the GOP's Congressional Campaign Committee. "I don't know how we could get to that figure of $8 million."

He said the committee has put "$3 million in escrow" for next year and hopes the national party and GOP booster clubs can raise the potential sum to $5 million for House races.

By comparison, the GOP spent $3 million on House races in 1976 when the Democratic majority increased by one seat, 289 to 146.

Brademas conceded Democrats were speaking out now to win support for a bill they hope to pass this year that would permit public financing of House general elections.

Applying only to the House and not the Senate (where a similar measure was rejected), the measure is modeled after the present practice of checking off $1 on a tax return for use in presidential elections.

It's appealing to Democrats because it would include strict spending limits and cut into any GOP plans to spend more money next year than in the history of House elections.

Brademas said some 400 business-oriented Political Action Committees "are funneling money around to Republican candidates. Republicans spent over $400,000 on each of the three special elections they won this year."

The GOP spokesman rejected those claims.

Republican victories in seats vacated in Washington and Minnesota when Brock Adams became transportation secretary and Bob Bergland became agriculture secretary involved spending about $250,000 each, the spokesman said.

Brademas also claimed Republicans apparently have "targeted" some 80 Democratic seats for special emphasis and said the GOP strategy includes members who have served four or five terms and were once considered "safe."

"But we are also looking at long term members who are out of touch with their districts. We're looking at about 20 of those now and that might be expanded to 10 or 15 more."

by a Delta rocket, a variation of the same model rocket which exploded during another satellite launch Sept. 13.

The launch came exactly on time at 9:53 a.m. EDT, and the two satellites went into identical elliptical orbits around the earth 57½ minutes after lift-off.

"There were absolutely no problems, and we launched within seven-hundredths of a second," said George Page, director of Expendable Launch Vehicles for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"Everyone agreed it's much easier to do this way. It was euphoric and it was a great feeling," he said. "For a good launch, a helluva lot of parts have to go right, and it's a small miracle each time."

The two International Sun Earth Explorer satellites, one made for NASA and the other for the European Space Agency, will conduct simultaneous tests in and out of the Earth's magnetosphere, providing detailed information on how solar wind affects the boundaries between earth and space.

Scientists hope the $57 million program will help in long-range weather forecasting and in predicting climate changes.

David Grimes, Delta project manager, said the launch was so successful that a planned Nov. 15 Delta launch of a European meteorological satellite, Meteosat, will proceed on schedule.

The Delta launched Saturday carried solid fuel Castor 2 motors which were jettisoned when they burned out shortly after the launch.

"The Delta performed flawlessly and the Castor 2 solid propellant rockets were properly exonerated," Grimes said. The motors were smaller and less powerful than the Castor 4 motors which caused the Sept. 13 explosion of a Delta rocket carrying an ESA Orbital Test Satellite. The explosion set back the European communications program more than a year and cost $42 million.

Investigators in the ongoing probe of the abortive launch said the explosion was caused by either a structural defect in the rocket casing or by abnormal burning of the propellant.

Another investigation is under way into the Sept. 29 explosion of an Atlas Centaur rocket. The Atlas was carrying an Intelsat 4A communications satellite owned by the International Telecommunications Satellite Organization.

REALTOR OF YEAR

Marilyn Arra of Stone Ridge was honored recently as REALTOR of the Year from the Ulster County Board of REALTORS at the Concord Hotel, Kiamasha Lake, during the 73rd annual convention of the New York State Association of REALTORS. In photo, she receives award from New York State Association president John J. Nagle. The honored REALTOR has been a member of the board for six years and is owner of the Arra Realty Firm, Rt. 209, Stone Ridge. A special certificate was presented to the honored REALTOR during a luncheon attended by more than 1,000 New York State REALTORS and REALTOR-associates. Mrs. Arra resides in Stone Ridge with her husband, Frank, and three children, Cathy, Tommy and Jimmy. Each year, local Boards of REALTORS acknowledge those brokers and sales people who best represent the high standards of the National Association of REALTORS and the state and local associations. The New York State Association has 22,000 members participating in 52 local boards across the state.

Whitehurst, Parmenter of UCCC in Charge

Trust Co. Holds 3rd Seminar

NEW PALTZ—Kingston Trust Co., the Bank, held its third annual management seminar Saturday at Mohonk Mountain House, according to William H. Stevens, bank president.

The seminar attracted some 30 officers and staff members of Kingston Trust with the emphasis on improving management skills through "Team Building," ultimately resulting in better service to the community and the bank's customers.

Saturday's all-day seminar focused on management and motivation and was conducted by Neil N. Whitehurst and Terry L. Parmenter, professors of management at Ulster County Community College.

Whitehurst earned his undergraduate and graduate degrees from State University of New York at Albany and is coordinator of the business administration and retailing programs at UCCC.

Parmenter, who earned his undergraduate degree at the University of New Hampshire and graduate degree from New York University, joined the college faculty in 1967 and has taught retailing and management courses. He was one of the original planners and instructors in the Management Institute offered by UCCC.

"Editorial of the Air"

Delivered October 19, 1977

By Harry M. Thayer

The office of District Attorney is a very important one in our governmental structure. That office must be filled on November the 8th by the voters of Ulster County.

Michael Kavanagh is the Republican and Conservative candidate for the office of District Attorney. He is a candidate with great qualifications and experience.

Mr. Kavanagh, since 1974, has successfully prosecuted over 200 felony cases and has established one of the finest trial conviction records of any Attorney ever to appear in Ulster County Courts. Mike Kavanagh has 18 convictions to his credit in 19 major felonies.

Mike Kavanagh has an ideal background, plus a tremendous court record qualifying him as an ideal candidate for the position of District Attorney. We most sincerely urge support on November 8 for this young man who is seeking the office of District Attorney. The voters have never had a better qualified individual seeking this office.

Juror: Sanity Not Proven

Kiritsis Found Innocent

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Jurors who found Anthony Kiritsis innocent of kidnapping charges stemming from his nationally televised abduction of a businessman said Saturday the state failed to prove he was sane.

The verdicts came Friday night after 33 hours deliberation in a 15-day trial. The jurors found Kiritsis, 45, of Indianapolis, innocent of charges of kidnapping, armed robbery and extortion on the grounds he was insane.

Millions of persons watching television saw Kiritsis hold a wired sawed-off shotgun to the neck of businessman Richard O. Hall, who he said had cheated him out of money.

Kiritsis now waits in Marion County jail for a Nov. 9 mental competency hearing.

"I had to judge the evidence," said juror Donald E. Walker, 54, of Indianapolis. "If they said, 'You judge the man,' he'd be on his way to a maximum security institution this morning."

"In my opinion I would say that the man, if provoked, is dangerous at any time," Walker said.

Not all jurors agreed. "This man was going to lose everything he had. It pushed him over the brink," said juror Ruth Johnston, 54, of Indianapolis. But she added she feels he is not so unstable that he is dangerous.

Several jurors said they were depending on Marion Superior Court Judge Michael Dugan II to make the proper decision at the competency hearing.

Dugan can either free Kiritsis by finding him sane and harmless to himself and others, find him insane and harmless or find him insane and harmful.

Under the second finding,

Infamous Hill Case Still in the Courts

HOUSTON (UPI) — Although a civil court jury cleared oilman Ash Robinson of involvement in the murder of his son-in-law five years ago, the controversial and celebrated case is far from closed.

The surviving family of Dr. John Hill, frayed and weary after a two and a half years of Dugan would order the Indiana Department of Mental Health to begin civil commitment proceedings within 30 days. Under the third finding, Dugan would order Kiritsis committed immediately to the Indiana Department of Mental Health for confinement.

Hill's wife, Ivy, 41, said she was not afraid of the possibility that Kiritsis may be freed, "but I think somebody out there ought to be worried."

She said she sympathized with the jurors because "you've gotta believe in your system, even if you don't always agree with it. The people I really have the most sympathy with is our law enforcement agency. This has got to be a real kick in the stomach."

preparation for the emotional and complex lawsuit, must now prepare itself for a $5 million slander suit the doctor initiated before his death.

Additionally, a will contest is pending in which young Robert Hill, 17, the doctor's only son and Robinson's grandson, contends the will of his mother, Joan Hill, was forged.

Robert, Connie Hill, 37, Hill's widow and Myra Hill, 75, the doctor's mother tried unsuccessfully to convince a civil court jury that Robinson paid $25,000 to have Hill slain to avenge the death of Joan Hill, Robinson's only daughter.

Joan Hill died of a mysterious virus in March, 1969, and Hill was subsequently charged with her murder. A first trial ended in mistrial 10 days after it began and he was awaiting a second trial when he was shot in the foyer of his colonial mansion Sept. 24, 1972.

Two women were convicted of murder and are now serving prison terms for their role in Hill's death, and the gunman, Bobby Wayne Vandiver, was shot by a Longview, Tex., police officer three years ago.

Farm & Garden

Dorn is Named Co-op Manager

SYRACUSE — Herbert W. Dorn of Syracuse has been named financial manager of the 7,300 dairy farmer Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative.

Dorn, a native of Utica, attended Utica College and received his bachelor of science degree in accounting from Syracuse University in 1967. He became a certified public accountant in 1969.

Stanley K. James Jr. of Middlebury, Vt., has been elected director of District 5 of EMPC, representing eastern Vermont and Clinton County, N.Y.

A native Vermonter, James graduated from the University of Vermont in 1951 with a bachelor of science degree in agriculture, majoring in extension service. He worked four years with the Soil Conservation Service.

In 1955, James and his wife Vivian began farming near Weybridge, Vt., where they presently reside.

A member of EMPC for the past 17 years, James has served as delegate from the co-op's New Haven Bulk Local since 1974. He has also been active in the Farm Bureau and Agway.

Three managerial positions with EMPC have been filled. Lisle G. Dutton of New Hartford was named chairman of membership and public relations.

Carl Lanning of Skaneateles, operations officer, and Joseph C. Mathis of Manlius, director of research.

ASCS Election Boundaries Set

KINGSTON — Community boundaries have been set for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committee elections to be held in late November, reports David M. Squires, Ulster County executive director.

Ulster County has four communities. Community A includes the towns of Saugerties, Woodstock, Shandaken, Hardenburgh, Kingston and Ulster and the City of Kingston.

Community B includes Hurley, Olive, Deppling, Marbletown, Rochester and Wawarsing. Community C includes Rosendale, New Paltz, Gardiner and Shawangunk, and Community D the towns of Esopus, Lloyd, Plattekill and Marlboro.

A review by the ASCS committee of community boundaries is one of the first steps in administering the annual ASCS farm committee elections. Other actions concerning the upcoming election will be announced as they occur.

Participation in ASCS elections is open to all eligible farmers regardless of race, religion, sex, color or national origin.

Bergland Visits NY Conference

BROOKLYN — Secretary of Agriculture Robert Bergland will deliver the keynote address to the third annual Big Apple Urban Farm and Food Conference Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Brooklyn campus of Long Island University.

Bergland will be making his first official appearance in New York City and is expected to address the role of the consumer and urban agriculture in the American food system.

The Big Apple Urban Farm and Food Conference was founded in 1975 by Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., the only urban member of the House Agriculture Committee, as a means of increasing urban awareness of the problems confronting farmers of America and to demonstrate the interrelationship between urban and rural interests in food production and distribution.

The Nov. 12 daylong conference is expected to draw such diverse personalities and agricultural experts as Robert Rodale, Harry Chapin, Dr. Joan Gussow, Assembly Speaker Stanley Steingut, New York Agriculture Commissioner Roger Barber and film star Eddie Albert.

Richmond, who chairs the Agriculture Subcommittee on Domestic Marketing, Consumer Relations and Nutrition, said: "We will explore the financial and climate concerns of the farmers, the consumer's struggle against skyrocketing food prices, the necessity for the development of alternate sources of food, and the effect of advertising on food choices. The attendance of Bergland at this year's conference signifies that urban agriculture and consumer concern for rising food prices and food quality has reached the uppermost levels of the Carter administration."

During its first two years, the conference attracted more than 1,000 concerned people. This year's activities and interest are expected to surpass those of previous years.

For the first time, live farm animal exhibits will be featured, including ducks, chickens, cows, pigs, beefaloes, bees and sheep. Other exhibitors at the conference include the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the National Dairy Council, the American Egg Board, the New York State Consumer Protection Board, the New York City Department of Consumer Affairs and the Cornell Cooperative Extension office.

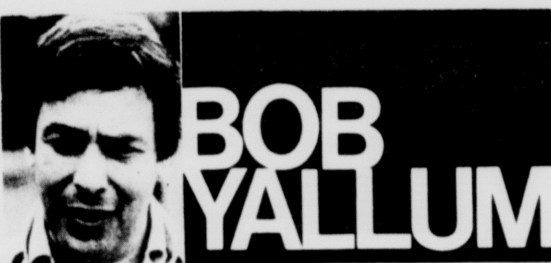

As in the past, there will be detailed panel discussions with the experts from around the country on such topics as food and farm policy, legislation and lobbying, advertising and its impact on food choices, fisheries and wetlands conservation, farmers and direct marketing, community vegetable gardening, energy and the food cycle, and food and the consumer.

The admission price is $4 with special consideration given to groups and students. Once again an organic lunch will be served.

Protestors Still Unhappy

SST Leaves

NEW YORK (UPI) — The supersonic Concorde Saturday sped back to Toulouse, France, carrying happy airlines officials but without winning over residents around Kennedy Airport.

Despite its reputation as a noisemaker, the jet performed perfectly in three days of test flights in and out of the international airport, without once breaking noise limits.

A spokesman for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, which operates the airport, said the Concorde lifted off Runway 31-Left over Howard Beach on its last test flight at 10:33 a.m. Saturday.

Flying at speeds of 1,350 miles per hour, the supersonic jet arrived safely in Toulouse at 1:56 EDT.

As it did on takeoffs Thursday and Friday, the supersonic transport again failed Saturday to trigger Port Authority noise monitoring equipment.

Officials for British Airways and Air France, operators of the plane, were pleased with the results of the three-day test.

"We have always said we would meet the Port Authority standards and I think we have proven more than that," Air France spokesman Daniel Dorian said.

Residents in Queens and Long Island communities surrounding the airport were not so pleased.

"As far as we are concerned the SST passed no noise test while it was here. It was like we heard in England," said Carol Berman, head of the Emergency Coalition to Stop the SST.

Standing beneath the plane's flight path over Jamaica Bay Saturday, Mrs. Berman said the plane did turn over the water to avoid houses, "but backlash and sideline noise was felt all through the Rockaways and bottles fell out of a medicine cabinet in Bayswater because of the noise."

Unless the Port Authority comes up with non-discriminatory noise standards that can keep out the Concorde, British Airways and Air France plan to begin regular commercial service between New York and Europe Nov. 22.

The Concorde made its second test flight at Kennedy Friday morning below the 105 p.d.b. level.

S.African Editors 'Not Intimidated'

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Nineteen editors-in-chief of South Africa's English-language newspapers warned the government Saturday the crackdown on the black press would not intimidate them.

In a joint statement, the editors said that if the government actions "are intended to intimidate other editors, we record that we have no intention of altering our way of conducting newspapers."

"We wish our readers and the government to take note of this," they said.

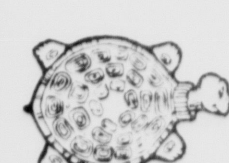

Police and Justice minister Jimmy Kruger Wednesday closed down two black newspapers, the World and Weekend World, and detained World editor Percy Qoboza and Weekend World news editor, Aggrey Klaaste.

He also silenced Donald Woods, the white editor of the East London Daily dispatch and one of the country's most persistent critics of the government's racial policies. Woods was banned for five years and prevented from working as a journalist or columnist.

Charles at Charleston

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — Prince Charles visited historic Charleston Saturday, the city named for Great Britain's last King Charles, and received a tumultuous reception.

The prince visited The Citadel, South Carolina's military college, City Hall, and the College of Charleston during a hectic three-and-a-half-hour tour.

He was scheduled to attend the Kentucky-Georgia football game in Athens, Ga., later in the day.

The Prince of Wales walked about two blocks down a narrow street in Charleston, with about 2,000 persons lining his route. Many broke through police lines to get a better look at him.

"What you say, Charlie, what you say Charlie baby!" yelled one man to get the prince's attention.

He succeeded and Prince Charles chatted with the man for a few seconds before again strolling down the street.

"Momma, he shook it, he shook my hand," one teen-ager screamed as the prince walked away from her.

Prince Charles stopped in front of another girl and asked her her age. She replied she was 10 years old.

"How are you doing on exams?" Prince Charles said.

"Pretty good," the girl replied.

"Well, study hard, it is very important," the prince said.

About 7,000 persons gathered at The Citadel parade grounds under clear skies and temperatures in the high 70s to watch Prince Charles review the gray-and-white dressed cadets.

Standing on the reviewing stand with Gov. James B. Edwards and Citadel President

Gen. George Seignous, Prince Charles received a 21-cannon salute, the roar of the cannons echoing off the fortress-like buildings of The Citadel and smoke billowing over the parade ground. The three men then reviewed the 2,000-member cadet corps from an open vehicle while The Citadel Bagpipers played.

Prince Charles received an honorary doctor of laws degree and a Citadel saber inscribed "HRH The Prince of Wales, The Citadel 22 October 1977."

Prince Charles, who arrived in Charleston wearing a charcoal gray business suit, but changed to his Navy uniform to review the troops, noted that he had also received an honorary doctor of laws degree in Cleveland earlier this week.

"I'm beginning to wonder if this isn't a subtle way of indicating there is a severe shortage of lawyers in the U.S.," the prince said.

Market Disappears For Peking Man

NEW YORK (UPI) — Banker Christopher Janus said Saturday he is withdrawing his $150,000 reward for information leading to the missing Peking Man fossils after his four-year search produced marriage offers, death threats and chicken bones — but few leads.

"I am withdrawing the reward as of Dec. 31 and hope to return fulltime to my investment banking business," Janus said in announcing an end to the hunt that cost him more than $200,000 and took him on search missions through four continents.

The humanoid fossils, thought to be at least 500,000 years old and considered priceless by anthropologists, disappeared after U.S. Marines took them into custody near Peking at the onset of World War II.

Janus, 65, said the Chinese asked him for help in recovering the bones during a visit he made to the China mainland four years ago.

More than 500 persons scattered around the world offered information in response to his reward offer. In addition, the Harvard-educated banker received four marriage proposals, several job offers, three death threats, numerous requests for loans and an invitation to appear in a deodorant commercial.

A box of chicken bones arrived in the mail, as did a skull stuffed with a bouquet of wilted lilies. And in Manila, a man presented him with a sixfoot-long skeleton of a caribou.

"There have been many interesting but sometimes puzzling insights into human nature and certainly a great many bizarre experiences," Janus concluded.

Many of the leads initially had the appearance of legitimacy and Janus pursued some of them for months.

Rough Times Ahead for Compromise Bill

New Energy Feuds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House-Senate conferees working on a compromise energy bill have reviewed only the minor issues so far, yet there's been enough conflict already to signal rough times ahead on the big, disputed issues.

President Carter added to that prospect by exhorting the House conferees to "hang tough" and hold out for the House version that he much prefers to the Senate bills.

The conference, called to resolve differences in the energy measures passed by the two bodies, resumes Monday with some work remaining on the conservation issue.

Then the conferees will take up a program designed to make industry switch from oil and gas fuels to coal.

The energy conservation bill was considered a "motherhood issue," involving little disagreement.

But in trying to decide the role of utility companies in improving the energy efficiency of homes, the mood of compromise vanished.

Late in the week, for example, Sen. John Durkin, D-N.H., cracked that the only thing Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., would compromise on was "the color of the paper we are using."

Dingell told Durkin, a freshman senator, he had not been around long enough to know that senators and congressmen do not take personal swipes at each other under the "rules of comity" of Congress.

"The people of New Hampshire cannot burn comity this winter," Durkin said.

Another time, Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, asked Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., the conference chairman, about the scope of the conference. After much badgering, Staggers finally said, "You have not gotten to the reality of what we are doing here!"

The three non-tax bills that lie ahead offer far more grounds for feuding, since there are much bigger differences between the House and Senate versions.

The coal conversion bill would require certain utilities and industry to stop using burning natural gas and oil and start switching to other fuels.

The House and Senate versions differ on the scope and the exemptions.

Then, on utility reform, the House bill would eliminate bargain rates for bulk users and provide special lower rates for householders who concentrate electricity use during non-peak hours.

The Senate bill merely establishes ways for federal officials to intervene in state rate cases and argue for conservation through rate design.

And the vastly differing natural gas pricing bills have prompted the toughest talk of all, including Carter's threat to veto any bill removing federal price controls.

The Senate bill would do that. The House would keep controls and extend them to currently unregulated gas sold in the state where it is produced.

The last big energy issue of the year will be taxes. The House has approved most of the taxes Carter proposed, but they fared badly in a Senate committee and the full Senate has yet to decide. It will do that this week.

Square Dancing... a fast-growing pastime geared for ALL ages

*"Do an allemande left to a corner
Do sie do
Hand over hand hook right on and promenade
Make an ocean wave first time let him go Second time around you can do sie do."*

Guest caller Bob Smith of Connecticut

By CHAZY DOWALIBY

KINGSTON — The music is rollicking, raucous country with guitars and fiddles and a pulsating beat.

The colors are red and white and black and they swirl around like so many leaves in the chill autumn air.

Squaredancing. In the middle of Kingston Plaza. One a Saturday afternoon.

The double-wide circles of four couples each join hands and swing arms and weave around each other in almost perfect measure, to the call of the smooth-voiced man in patent leather shoes and a western style jacket.

Most of the dancers are from a local club called the Lefooters (an abbreviation of two left feet) and this special afternoon demonstration is one of the ways the they hope to attract more would-be hoofers to the old-time art of western square dancing.

"It's for young people, for old people, it's really for everyone," says Merle Swendsen of Rhinebeck, glowing in her red and white checked dancing dress.

"We just have so much fun."

While the irrepressible advocate of this fast growing passtime takes a restful break from the festivities, her husband, Ralph, joins a line of beginners doing a combination hustle, hully-gully, hoe-down dance to the directions of caller Bob Bourassa, who makes weekly trips west from Pittsfield, Mass. to direct the club's merry-making.

The Lefooters have about 100 couples who participate in the Monday night classes or Friday evening dance parties, but they are by no means the only western square dancing group in the Mid-Hudson area.

The Sawyer Swingers of Saugerties, a senior citizens group, recently merged with the Lefooters, but the roster goes on to include the Tri-Valley Squares of Grahamsville, Circle of Eight of Greenville, Do-c-Do's and Boots and Bows of Poughkeepsie, IBM Club, Orange Squares, Apple Valley Squares, Tri-Mountain club of Pine Plains.

"It's nothing to go 100 miles to a dance in an evening," says Mrs. Swendsen. "We get mystery rides together, or special callers...you can go anywhere and say your a square dancer and you feel right at home...it's more than just dancing."

The popularity of what used to be considered "barn-stomping" music and "hayseed" dance is evident in the number of magazines now published just for the square dancer, listing calls and steps and the latest in fashion for "gals and guys".

National shoe companies like Capezio and Selva make entire lines of square dance shoes for men and women and several of the major pattern makers are producing western style shirts and full-skirted dress directions for the home sewer.

"I guess it's something people can do together," comments another of the Lefooters, taking a break from an afternoon of allemaning left. "It doesn't cost much and you meet the nicest people."

Kay and Fran Shanley of Red Hook swing to Bourassa's calls.

One thing all club members seem to agree on is that they never thought they would ever do anything as "corny" as square dancing.

"I'll tell you one thing, they had to drag me to my first dance," says the towering Bourassa, who, in the seven years since his first dance visit, has become one of the best known fast-talking, sweet-toned callers in the Northeast.

"Anyone can do it," says Bourassa, as he leads a line of beginners in slide-turns and slap-to-clicks.

At the Hurley Reformed Church, where the Lefooters regularly meet, beginners are required to master seventy five basic calls before they can participate in the real dancing. There is no set of steps to follow for any particular dance. The caller decides when couples will turn right or swing left or form a star, dancers must have a keen ear and a nimble foot to keep stride with their companions.

"Kids really pick all of this up easily," says Mrs. Swendsen. "They seem to have a natural knack for it." There are two teen-aged clubs in Ulster County, "The Whirling Wonders" of Saugerties and another New Paltz group which boasts their own 17-year-old teacher-caller, Laurie Abrams.

In addition to participating in regional and national square dancing conventions, clubs like the Lefooters jet to the Caribbean, or Europe to ruffle their petticoats and stomp their hand-tooled boots to tunes by the Road-runners, or the Wagon Wheelers, or Jimmy Dean.

"Oddly-enough, square dancing is beginning to be popular all over the world," says the still-smiling Mrs. Swendsen, and everywhere it's taught in English.

The music starts up again, a bit scratchy on the outdoor sound system and worn from hours of repetition. The melody line returns over and over as Bourassa calls the steps.

"Do an allemande left to a corner, now hook on right and promenade. Singing, yeah, yeah, something 'bout you baby that I like... Singing yeah, yeah, something 'bout you baby that I like."

Square dancing is beginning to be popular all over the world. "It doesn't cost much and you meet the nicest people."

Leadership, Consciousness, IQ, Will Be Discussed

NEW PALTZ Noted speakers have been signed for the upcoming free public lectures sponsored by the psychology department at SUC, New Paltz.

Dr. Florence Denmark, Hunter College psychology professor, will speak on "Women and Leadership" in the first lecture, Monday, Oct. 24. Author of numerous articles in psychological journals dealing with the social and educational problems of women, Dr. Denmark also serves as editorial staff member of several such publications. She is executive director of the psychology doctoral program at City University of New York.

Mankind only gained "consciousness" a few thousand years ago, according to Dr. Julian Jaynes, author of the controversial new book, "The Origins of Consciousness." He will speak at the third lecture on Nov. 14.

Since his detective work revealed possible false data on the intelligence quota (IQ), first reported in England a generation ago, Dr. Keon Kamin should have much to say in his "The Science and Politics of IQ Testing," lecture, Oct. 31. Author of a book with the same title, Dr. Kamin appeared on CBS television's "60 Minutes" when he was interviewed for his IQ testing criticism. His investigations indicate that much of British educational philosophy may be based on false data.

All three lectures will be held in Lecture Center 108 at 7:30 p.m.

Senior Citizens Events

KINGSTON Workshops will continue this week for the Old Fashion Days, Nov. 1 and 2, at the Senior Citizen Drop-In Center at the YWCA. Senior Citizens may sit and sew for the Big Bazaar both Monday and Wednesday.

The Friday movie at the YWCA will be "Stage Coach," scheduled for 1 p.m.

KINGSTON—The Kingston Golden Age Club will meet Monday, Oct. 24 at 7 p.m. at Wiltwyck Gardens. HIGH FALLS—The Marbletown Senior Citizens will hold a musical evening of dance and song Wednesday, Oct. 26 at 7 p.m. at High Falls fire hall.

KINGSTON—A new senior citizens club, Yosman Towers Senior Citizens Club, has been formed. The group will meet this Thursday, Oct. 27, 7:30 p.m., to discuss business; games, including Bingo, are needed. Two meetings each month are planned. A social will be held every second Tuesday and a business meeting the last Thursday of each month. Both meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m.

TOWN OF ESOPUS—Officers were installed at the dinner meeting of the Town of Esopus Senior Citizens at Williams Lake Hotel, Friday, Oct. 21. County Legislator Louis M. Klein installed the following: Thomas Davis of Rifton, president; Mrs. Charles Hubner, New Salem, vice president; Mrs. John Smith, Port Ewen, recording secretary; Mrs. Margaret Peterson, Port Ewen, financial secretary; and Mrs. William Colliery of Ulster Park, treasurer. Mrs. Frank J. Flanagan of New Salem was installed as third trustee.

KINGSTON—At the regular monthly meeting of St. Joseph's Senior Citizens, held last Thursday, details were announced for the second annual Nice People Party, an event which honors all who donate blood to support those seniors too ill or too old to give blood for themselves. Guests at the luncheon will include 39 volunteers and their spouses. The event will be Nov. 19, 1 p.m., at the Colonade Restaurant. Catherine Woerner and Anne Bruder are co-chairmen.

Other activities discussed were the penny social which is set for today, a visit to the Benedictine Senior Residence by the Singing Seniors, a trip to see the Christmas show at Radio City Music Hall and the group's annual Christmas Party in December.

YOUR ARE PAYING YOUR NEIGHBOR'S TAXES

It sounds shocking, but it's absolutely true.

A number of your fellow Woodstockers are so grossly underassessed, that they are not carrying their fair share of the tax burden.

Instead, your money is making up the difference.

You are paying for them.

My name is Bill Kronenberg and I am a candidate for Councilman. In the past few weeks, I have been amassing the names of those property owners who have been making you spend more tax dollars than you should.

I will publish those names and dollar figures in the near future.

I am doing this because I'd like to prove that someone with my background as both assessor and a member of the Assessment Board of Review can be a valuable member of the Town Council.

I have been instrumental in helping remove Assessor Martin Leskow from office, and as your Councilman I will see that the new assessor is fair and equitable.

And that will mean money in your pocket.

If you feel you are paying more than your fair share of taxes, then I urge you to make Election Day your Grievance Day and Vote for Bill Kronenberg.

After all, it's one thing to love thy neighbor. But you shouldn't have to pay his taxes.

DEAR ABBY

Bachelor is anti premarital sex

DEAR ABBY: Your recent answer to the 17-year-old girl who wanted to know what was wrong with premarital sex was good, but incomplete. Here is how I would have answered: Dear Speaking For Teens: There are several reasons other than fear of V.D. and pregnancy for saying no, even if your moral code or religious beliefs provide you with insufficient guidance. Among them:

1. If you ever marry, and most people still do, remaining "pure" beforehand will give your spouse less reason to be distrustful of you. This is bound to lead to a healthier and happier relationship.

2. Sex between unmarried people usually results in guilt feelings and loss of self-esteem.
3. If you're really in love, sex isn't needed to have a fulfilling relationship. And if you should discover that you aren't really in love, having had sex will make breaking up all the more painful.

4. Most people who seek premarital sex are concerned more with their own gratification than with the needs of the other person. (If that's the case, it's not love.) Why let someone use you?

Take many other good things in life, sex is too often misused. SINGLE SEATTLE FELLOW

DEAR FELLOW: If you practice what you preach, you'll make a wonderful catch for a girl who's saving herself for marriage and expects the same of her husband.

DEAR ABBY: This may sound trivial to you, but it has caused quite a few arguments at our house.

I have been raised to clean up after myself, but my husband hasn't. His mother did everything for him, including washing his hair. The big fight is over his leaving the bathtub dirty for me to clean. Abby, I find this revolting, but if he refuses to do it, then I have to, which is the way it's been lately. I agreed to wash out the tub after him until we hear from you.

He said he would go by your decision. He says if I loved him, I'd do it. I say if he loved ME, he wouldn't ask me to. Who is right? HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: The word from here is that every man, woman and child able to bathe without assistance should clean the tub after himself.

DEAR ABBY: Someone told me that girls who wear glasses look more intelligent than girls who don't wear glasses. Do you think this is true? QUESTIONING

DEAR QUESTIONING: Possibly. But it's only an optical illusion.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teenagers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Potpourri

Judging from St. Peter's Couples Club Fall Dance Saturday night, half of Kingston is taking dancing lessons. There was a time one could bluff his way across the polished hardwood like a pro. No more. Either you've earned your Black Belt in the Hustle or you leave the floor free for those who have.

But the Bobby Farris Band took pity on the don't-know-hows and sprinkled in a Lawrence Welk-type tune every now and then. That's when the untutored troop took to the floor and let loose like there was no tomorrow.

Young Tom Gallagher was getting as much attention as the band. He had shaved his head bare as a cue ball... not that he had that much to begin with—sort of all around the edge, like a halo, Franciscan monk-style.

Everybody was wonderin' why. Some figured he'd bet on the World Series and lost. Others thought the price of haircuts got him down and a bald head made the battle-of-the-budget easier to win. We HAD to know for sure, so we asked.

Seems Kojak has always been Tom's idol; he feels bald is beautiful. If it's sexier to look like Humpty-Dumpty, young Mr. G. wants IN on the action. We don't know if he's bald will get him Telly Savalas fame, but one thing's for sure. He's guaranteed "no more tangles."

Gliding across the dance floor was a breeze for Edger Maurer. Ever since he's taken to joggin' 10 miles a week, he's got more pep than Cola. Almost every night Ed can be seen with his faithful German Shepherd, Bismark, runnin' the route behind MJM. Talk about The Odd Couple!

Actually, Bismark's doin' better than Ed. Seems Ed spent the weekend at Atlantic City and put on 15 pounds. Bismark's still as lean as a bone; he wasn't invited.

Hank Boice was head cuckoo at the party as per usual. Where he dug up the carrot-red, Shirley Temple-curl wig is a mystery. But with his sport jacket inside-out and the wig askew on his dome, he looked like an accident victim headed for O.R.

We can all be thankful Hank doesn't sing. If he sang the way he looked, he'd have sounded like Paul Lynde's mother. (Speaking of mothers, Hank's mother had her 93rd birthday last week.)

At times you could feel the dance floor vibrate under the weight of the dancers as they kept step to everything from the Irish Hop and Polka to the Paul Jones and Alley Cat. Jim Gilpatric and Jim McCordle drifted in midway through the soiree, after first stoppin' off to see the belly dancer at the Greek gala in the Armory, then the Exchange Club's Italian Night at Walnut Grove.

At Spada's secretary Marge Tompkins was there with her husband. Ron and Dolores Wolven chatted away like a pair of parrots. Dot and Joe Mikesh sat at the sidelines waitin' for Guy Lombardo-type tunes. Ed Diamond was tryin' to convince his listeners that he didn't GROW his beard, he was BORN with it.

One woman wore a jumpsuit so "loud" it must've been plugged in. A man, dancin' by, must've caught the shock; he started stompin' all over the floor on reflections from the revolving, mirrored ball on the ceiling. He had all the grace of John Wayne on ice skates.

Also on tap were Joe and Maggie Fautz, John and Lil Augustine, Art Crist, June and Johnny Bach, Mary and Curly Bosco who were observin' their 27th anniversary, Mary and Red Kennelly, the Mayor and Marilyn, Jerry and Ginger Houghtaling, Betty and Gene Radell, Ron and Flo O'Neil, the Frank Laverys, Clarence and Ann Uhl, Ted Musialkiewicz who's recuperating from eye surgery, Nat and Betty Phillips, and like that.

Rita Dymott was escorted by her husband Larry, a former bus driver who has driven about 3 million miles. On Larry's second day of retirement, he took a bus trip.

At midnight the buffet was served. Bread lines formed faster than a speeding bullet. In William Beymer's words, it was "eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow ye diet!"

Almost everyone stayed

'til the last gun was fired. Irwin Thomas held up until 1:30. Irwin enjoys a bit of golf now and then. But, come Sunday, he was just too-pooped-to-putt.

SPRINGTIME

There are a host of "minor bulbs" which can be valuable and attractive additions to any spring garden. They may be called minor, but they produce a major display of color and form, like Leucojum or spring snowflake, left, and Puschkinia or Lebanon Squill. And "minor bulbs" are available in all shapes and sizes when thinking about your spring garden for 1978.

IT's YOUR LANDSCAPE

Simplicity Is Always the Key

By GEORGE CREED

Simplicity is the keynote of all good landscape planning. This is especially critical in the case of small properties where space is limited. The tendency seems to be to add just a few more things to the landscape of a small yard and instead of attaining simplicity you get clutter. Planning for a small property requires very careful attention to detail and to the arrangement of areas.

In this plan an effort has been made to keep the backyard as "open in feeling" as possible within the fenced-in area. With a lot only measuring 40 feet by 135 feet and with an older house and detached garage occupying 1,116 square feet out of a total of 5400 square feet it is apparent that only a simple treatment will insure, or at least approach, an "open feeling." Much of this is accomplished in the accompanying plan by making the main element of the backyard a simple uncluttered lawn surrounded by narrow beds of flowers and shrubs.

An ample (16 foot by 20 foot) paved terrace is a private area with a fence on one side of it and a garage on the other side. Morning glories on a trellis provide a handsome floral display during the summer months while their foliage hides the side of the garage. English ivy used instead of the morning glories on the trellis would give a year 'round evergreen cover but no colorful blooms.

The view from the terrace is framed by two picturesque pine trees. These are planted in raised beds covered with English ivy. Included in this view is a sculpture at the rear of the property. This is placed on the axis or center line of the opening between the two raised plant beds.

This is a rather formal design but it could easily be made less formal by changing the lines of the flower beds into a series of curves as suggested by the dotted outlines on the plan.

Q. In a border planting I have some violet plants. These have begun to spread into a lawn. What can I do to prevent their spread?

A. Any preparation containing 2,4-D will kill these plants.

Q. Is there any way to control quack grass?

A. Yes, you can smother it by covering it with soil, tarpaper or a heavy mulch.

MR. MELTZER AND REAL ESTATE

Interesting But Not Easy Field

There are so many people interested these days in getting into the real estate field. It is an interesting business and can be very lucrative. But it isn't easy, and it requires a person with certain qualities.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: I have been out of college three years, and though I have a degree I can't seem to get located. I've had about five jobs, none of which have panned out. I'm a hard worker, but no ball of fire. I'm a quiet guy, and I guess I don't have a Robert Redford personality. But I'm honest, reliable and willing to work. But I have absolutely no push.

My dad has been after me to take some courses and obtain a real estate salesman's license. He's convinced I can take the world by storm if I just agree to become involved in real estate. He says that's the field of the future, the present and the past.

What do you think? — MEEK AND MILD

True, the real estate field is a fascinating one and can be very profitable. But remember, real estate selling is extremely competitive, and the art of selling is at the heart of the business itself.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: My husband and I have seen the house we want. This is after looking for eight months! We made an offer, it was accepted in writing by the seller, and we were in seventh heaven!

Then you'll never guess what happened! The broker called us and said the seller won't accept our offer, after all. He said he acted too hastily and unwisely, and did not intend to sign. Therefore, he's changed his mind and the house is not ours.

Not only are we heartbroken, but we've made all sorts of plans. Can he do this to us? — CAN'T BELIEVE IT!

Don't be downhearted. The house is yours. No matter what the seller says now, he signed a document accepting your offer and he cannot back out. At least, not for the reasons he gives.

If his signature had been obtained by fraud or trickery, then he could back out. But simply saying he acted too hastily and unwisely is not enough. The broker is well aware of that.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: My German shepherd dog, whom I love better than people, has made holes in my screen door by constantly trying to get in when I'm at the other side of the house.

They aren't large holes, but they do exist. Is this something I can remedy without calling in someone to repair it? — LOVE THAT CANINE.

You can patch screening either by shellacking a piece of mosquito netting over the hole, or by fitting a patch into place with lengths of wire similar to what is in the screen. In the second instance, you sew the patch into place, using the wire. Neither of these is a permanent solution, however.

Why don't you train your beloved dog to have more patience?

DEAR MR. MELTZER: We have a hook-and-eye type catch on our sliding windows that seem to need a little perking up. Is this a difficult job? — NOT WORKING WELL.

No, it's a simple job. A level pivots on a point so that the hook can fasten onto a part of the window frame. Yours probably needs to be reshaped to get a hook back in functioning form. The easiest thing to do is to replace it, since most of these simply screw into place. DEAR MR. MELTZER: As an owner of a number of properties, I'm wondering whether I have the proper insurance coverage. I hesitate to ask my insurance man because, after all, he's in the business to sell insurance.

What kinds of insurance should I have? — WANT TO BE COVERED.

Owners of real property usually carry one or more of the following insurance coverages in order to protect themselves against possible loss.

Although East Germany has a

DECORATING FOR DIMES

There's Hope for Base Cabinets

By BARBARA ACKERMAN
Q. I am a senior citizen and find it very difficult to reach anything in my lower kitchen cabinets. Is there anything that can be done about this?

A. This is not just a problem for senior citizens, I've always considered base cabinets a necessary evil, but there is hope. Take the doors off, have the shelves taken out and have a shelved cart with casters made for each cabinet. The cart should ride in and out of the cabinet opening and all items will be in plain view and within easy reach. The cabinet door can usually be replaced on the front of the cart so when the cart is pushed into the cabinet opening, it will look the same as the other cabinets.

Q. What are the most essential pieces for new-liveways?

A. Each other! Next would be a bed, a dining table, a couple of comfortable chairs or a sofa. If you're in a one room apartment, a sofa-bed would be a good investment. Use a large coffee table for dining. You really can get by with just two main pieces, the sofa-bed and the coffee table. Add some pillows (the big floor ones), a lamp or two and you're off to a good start. Remember that you will probably have the sofa-bed for many years so it would be best to get a good one. As you can afford it, add other carefully chosen pieces, keeping a finished picture in mind so you don't collect a mish-mash.

Q. We don't want our dog in the kitchen. The gate we use is ugly and annoying to open and close. We don't want the kitchen door closed as it's between the kitchen and living room and seems to close up everything. What else can we do?

A. We had the same problem with our dog. What we did was cut the door in half just above the knob. Leave the top open while using the bottom half like a regular door. It works great, especially for my dog, because he can still see over the door while standing on the floor. (He's a Great Dane.) Also, my cats can eat in peace and quiet in the kitchen without him snitching any of their food. So I save all the way around. Also, we finished off the bottom door with a shelf across the top that is very handy to sit things on when trying to open the door.

Q. We bought an old metal trunk at a yard sale and can't decide what to do with it. Can you give us some ideas?

A. Clean it inside and out. If you want to try to restore it, sand, stain, and varnish the metal if necessary. Sometimes just a good cleaning and waxing is all that's needed. If you are a collector of anything, a nice idea I've seen is to cover the inside of the trunk with fabric, leave it open, set a piece of plexiglass or glass across the top and display your collection on and under the glass. Unfortunately, I can't do this with my trunks because nobody would be interested in our winter or summer clothes stored in them. (Although I do have a snappy pair of knee socks I could lay across the top!)

Something my daughter and I thought about was table cloths with matching or color coordinated napkins. Although many people use paper napkins and place mats there is something elegant about using a cloth table cover and napkins. They are reusable too, so you can feel good about not cluttering up the environment. Some pretty fabric, some cutting, some hemming and that's all there is to it. Using the new designer sheets is very popular for these projects now. Stitch them up now and set them aside for trimming later. If you embroider, all the better. One simple flower in each corner can give a million dollar look.

Gardeners United

HAMBURG, West Germany (UPI) — Politics, walls and barbed wire borders do nothing to separate the divided German people in their common love of gardening.

In both West and East Germany, private plots of small gardeners contribute importantly to the economy and improve the surroundings.

Last year, East Germany's small gardeners not only produced fruits and vegetables for their own use, but also delivered 172,000 tons of fruit and 74,212 tons of vegetables to the state trading organizations, says Erich Wegner, first secretary of the East German Association of Small Gardeners.

West German small gardeners generally produce only for themselves. But in the past several years of rising prices and unemployment, vegetables seem to have replaced flowers in a majority of their plots.

In both West and East Germany, gardeners contribute significantly to maintenance of a friendly environment and to the provision of places for city dwellers' rest and recreation.

A small, tilled plot is known as a "Schrebergarten." The name commemorates Daniel Moritz Gottlieb Schreber, a 19th century Leipzig doctor who believed the poor of that city needed a healthier diet containing more vegetables and fruit.

At his urging, the municipality agreed to rent small plots of unused land on the outskirts of the city to poor families who planted them in potatoes, cabbage and other vegetables and fruits.

The idea spread quickly across the country, giving birth to a peculiarly German institution.

At least three times, "Schrebergarten" saved tens of thousands of Germans: during the food shortages of World War I, during the years of the Great Depression and during the hungry years following World War II.

About half a million of West Germany's 62 million families cultivate small gardens.

The proportion is much greater in East Germany. There, one in every eight families tills its own garden.

Although East Germany has a population of only 17 million, it has 620,000 "Schrebergartens."

Germans love to have parties on their garden plots. The air is clean there, and the noise of the city recedes to a distant hum or disappears altogether. "Our garden is the only place we really can relax," an East German woman said in a recent letter to western relatives.

Excommunication by the Catholic Church No Longer a Holy Terror

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Since it lost the power to burn heretics at the stake 200 years ago, excommunication has been the Roman Catholic Church's strongest weapon. Now it's impact appears weak.

Past pontiffs could and did topple kingdoms by excommunicating delinquent monarchs, thus absolving their subjects from oaths of obedience.

Bishops once could isolate a man from his friends, destroy his business and even drive him out of town with an excommunication decree.

Excommunication instilled such horror in Holy Roman Emperor Henry IV, for instance, that in 1076 he humiliated himself on his knees in the snow to beg forgiveness from Pope Gregory VII.

But for most of today's 700 million Roman Catholics, excommunication — barring a Catholic from receiving the sacraments and thus inflicting a "spiritual death" on the believer — is a holy terror no longer.

"The religious and social impact of excommunication were enormous in the small homogeneous societies which exist today in only a few Third World countries," explained one Jesuit theologian. "Every one would turn their backs on the excommunicated person."

"In today's pluralistic societies these kinds of penalties don't mean much. You might say excommunication is going out of style."

Because of its diminishing impact in the modern world, the church has become increasingly reluctant to wield its most powerful weapon.

But some excommunications are automatic and are thus incurred by the very fact that a person has committed a certain offense.

The 40 grounds for automatic excommunication include such obvious crimes as "laying violent hands on the person of the Roman pontiff,"

"casting away or keeping the host for evil purpose" and "stealing papal property."

Other grounds are surprising — not in the offenses they list but in those they do not mention.

Excommunication is the penalty for dueling, for example, but not for premeditated murder.

A woman who has an abortion is excommunicated but a rapist is not.

A woman who falsely accuses her confessor of attempted seduction is excommunicated, as is one who fails to report such an attempt.

There is no excommunication, however, for the priest guilty of "solicitation" in the confessional, unless he pretends to absolve his accomplice in sin of the "impurity."

A priest who breaks his vows of chastity might be in trouble — but he is not under pain of excommunication unless he makes it legal by getting married.

The most serious excommunication is one where the culprit is decreed "vitandus" or to be shunned. But with the exception of certain vile crimes, such as doing violence to the pope, it is rarely inflicted.

"The crimes for which one can be excommunicated vitandus are so terrible that people don't talk about — and probably don't do them anymore," said a Vatican legalist. "You know, things like doing things with dead bodies."

Once excommunicated, a Catholic cannot receive the Sacraments, cannot serve as a godparent and cannot receive a Christian burial, unless, of course, he shows signs of repentance at his death.

Although the sacraments are considered necessary to salvation, Vatican theologians stress that excommunication in no way means damnation.

"No one, not even the pope, can decide that a man will go to hell," said one Jesuit authority. "That is something that is between each man and God."

He said excommunication is "the church's way of saying you've got to change your ways was excommunicated in 1533 for refusing to bow to papal authority. Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro was excommunicated for "impeding the work of clerics in Cuba."

The church has also tried to fight Communism with decrees threatening automatic excommunication for any Catholic who voted Communist.

Under that ruling, 10 million Italian Catholics technically excommunicated themselves by voting Communist in the 1976 national elections.

The church has also used excommunication in cases of "public outrage" as a way of setting an example.

In such an effort, Archbishop Joseph F. Rummel of New Orleans in 1962 excommunicated three Catholic segregationist leaders who had tried to block his school integration orders.

One of the three, Leader H. Perez Sr., repented shortly before his death and was taken back into the church. The others, Jackson G. Ricau and Mrs. B.J. Gaillot, Jr., remain outside the church.

But in the last decade the church has been increasingly shy of using excommunication as a weapon against public figures. The case of rebel French Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre is a clear example.

Lefebvre was suspended from all priestly functions by Pope Paul VI last year because of his refusal to accept the modern language mass and his outspoken criticism of Vatican attempts at Christian unity and other reforms which he termed "concessions to Communists and freemasons."

Despite the suspension, Lefebvre has continued to defy the pope, whom he calls a "tool of communism," and in June ordained 14 new priests in direct violation of a papal ban.

Some Vatican prelates say the pope is unwilling to tackle Lefebvre because of the French rebel's large following throughout the world.

The pontiff, the prelates said, is afraid of sparking the church's first major schism since a German group calling itself the Old Catholics broke away from Rome in 1870 over the papal infallibility issue.

Other prelates believe the pontiff is acting wisely and mercifully in simply telling the 71-year-old Lefebvre he wants nothing more to do with him until the archbishop shows a willingness to bow to papal authority.

"In today's pluralistic societies these kind of penalties don't mean much. You might say excommunication is going out of style."

if you want to call yourself a Catholic."

Sometimes the Vatican uses excommunication as a political weapon — in an attempt to strengthen the enemies of a particular political group or leader.

For much the same reason that Britain's King Henry VIII fight Communism with decrees threatening automatic excommunication for any Catholic who voted Communist.

STUDYING BLUEPRINTS

Members of the building committee of the Wawarsing Gospel Church — Don Traver, left; Richard Craft, Rob Boyles, Harold Johnson and George Mathews — scan architect's blueprints for the expected beginning of construction of a new multi-purpose building in Wawarsing next April. A banquet is scheduled for Nov. 7 at Sunshine Acres in Napanoch to acquaint members and friends with the details of the building and stewardship programs. The committee members report that those who attend the Nov. 7 banquet will have the opportunity to pledge their support to the goals of the building completion by the fall of 1978 and $69,000 during the next three years.

Wawarsing Gospel Church

Evangelistic Services Set

WAWARSING—The Rev. David L. Cornell of Philadelphia, Pa., will begin a series of evangelistic, Bible-teaching services Sunday, Oct. 23, at Wawarsing Gospel Church.

The services will continue through Friday, Oct. 28, according to an announcement by the church's pastor, William Hollingshead.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. on Sunday and 7 p.m. during the week.

The Rev. Mr. Cornell has been engaged in the Bible-teaching ministry throughout the world for the past 35 years and has traveled into more than 30 countries and his many and unique fascinating experiences are said to be used effectively to illustrate the great truths of God's Word. His messages are considered very practical and are designed to relate Bible truth to

Rev. David Cornell the complex issues, problems and relationships facing a Christian in today's world.

The Rev. Mr. Cornell began his ministry in California as a pastor of an Independent Bible Church. In 1944, he and Mrs. Cornell left the pastoral ministry to begin missionary service with the Worldwide Evangelization Crusade, a non-denominational society which has 550 missionaries in 20 countries. He served in many capacities, the final eight years as the missions general director. In 1969 he resigned in order to devote full time to his present ministry and since that time has conducted crusades throughout the country.

During his world travels he has produced some very unusual and dramatic films. These are in full color and sound and include Japan, Vietnam, Indonesia, Thailand, the Middle East, Africa, Colombia and Venezuela. The film on Vietnam was an award winner and has been shown in public schools throughout the country.

World Community Day Service Set at High Woods

HIGH WOODS—Church Women United in the Town of Saugerties and surrounding areas will celebrate World Community Day on Friday, Nov. 4, at 11 a.m. at the High Woods Reformed Church.

The origin of World Community Day can be traced to the week of the infamous Pearl Harbor when the constituting convention of the United Council of Church Women met in Atlantic City, N.J. One of the first acts of this newly-formed Council was to inaugurate a day of peace in 1942.

The following year, this observance became known as World Community Day and was concerned with the price of an enduring peace. Every year since then World Community Day has been celebrated by Church Women United on the first Friday in November. Each year a specific issue is chosen to emphasize corporate action for justice and peace.

The theme for this year's World Community Day — "Heart Change, Global Change" — focuses on reaching out with changed hearts to the unfree people throughout the community, throughout the nation, throughout the world by striving for unity and world peace.

The offerings on both World Community Day and World Day of Prayer support the ongoing work of the Intercontinental Mission, the channel for Church Women United to foster global change through funding of self-help and development programs. Grants are made to meet the needs of people in six continents in the following areas:

Spiritual growth, community and family service, socioeconomic development, education, health programs, human rights, justice, peace building, women's concerns and hunger in the United States and globally.

In addition, annual grants have enabled nine women's Christian colleges in Asia to pioneer in education for women, helping them to develop their full potential and prepare them for national and international responsibilities.

All attending the Nov. 4 World Community Day service are asked to bring a sandwich and enjoy the dessert, beverage and fellowship following the service.

Witnesses Meeting At Monroe

MONROE — "Endure Through Close Association" is the theme of the two-day assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses convention now underway here.

Speakers from local congregations and two traveling representatives of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society are scheduled to deliver practical Bible instruction today during the closing of the two-day program. Their presentation will be through lectures and true to life situations.

The weekend program is being held at the Assembly Hall in Monroe. Opening sessions took place on Saturday.

A variety of subjects will be discussed today, including uniting the family and working what is good toward each other, both inside the congregation as well as to the neighbors, a Witness spokesman said.

Today's sessions begin at 2 p.m. and conclude at 4:30 p.m. Upwards of 1,500 persons are expected at the two-day sessions, representing 11 local congregations.

Unitarian Fellowship Speaker

KINGSTON — "What of Our Children" is the theme of the Unitarian Fellowship service today at 99 Henry St.

Led by Eleanor Lamb, religious education director, the 10:30 a.m. program will explore the hopes for the future of the parents who have had varied experiences and values which reportedly led them to become religious liberals. Raised in a liberal religious community, the children will not have many of those experiences, a spokesman said.

Some of the Youth Fellowship children will celebrate their birthdays by presenting a book to the religious education library at the Fellowship during the meeting.

In addition to the regular curriculum, the Youth Fellowship will be sharing some common themes this year. On Nov. 6 there will be a special "Johnny Sellers Day" when the entire Fellowship family, considering not only the special needs of the mentally retarded, but the special gifts they have to offer as well.

QUARTET TO SING

The Jacobs Brothers Quartet of Dillsburg, Pa., will be featured in a special program Thursday, Oct. 27, at the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf Street and Tremper Avenue. The musical presentation will begin at 7:30 p.m. The group is comprised of five talented young men dedicated to the gospel of Jesus Christ and since 1962 has produced more than 20 LP albums. Presently, the Jacobs Brothers' weekly television ministry is aired over more than 100 commercial and cable stations coast-to-coast. The group includes Bob Jacobs, Mike Jacobs, Mike Lawver, Jerry Plumley and "Sam" Samuelson.

BACKYARD OBSERVER

Hatches Closed for the Season

By JEAN DOLAN
Freeman staff

The garage is gorgeous and the cellar is colorful. Batten-down-the-hatches time is upon us and all the paraphernalia of the summer patio-living room has got to be stored, repotted or put in dormancy.

The geraniums, in wooden tubs, line the garage. For some reason they seem to be brighter than they were all summer. The hanging baskets are making a final fling of blossoms in defiance of the approaching season of sleep.

The wind chimes, battered and twisted by last week's nor'easter, repose now in soundless splendor just down the beam from the onion braids and drying herbs.

That nor'easter incidentally blew hope into the hearts of the confirmed winter watchers—reassuring a weather pattern that can coat the slopes with snows that have been in short supply in recent years.

It also reinforced the urgency of winter preparations and led to changes for the backyard birds. The picnic table, devoid of its summer covering, was ready for its traditional foul weather role as a king size feeding station.

As the storm pelted cold rain in changing patterns, birds familiar with the arrangement sought out the remembered smorgasbord and I obliged them.

I stood at the kitchen window after the spread was prepared making mind bets as to who would be the first to the feast. The chickadee, absent these many summer moons, darted in dine, with the tufted titmouse a close second. And I won with the return of the chickadee.

That pair of winter favorites were followed the constant jays. The cardinals were next, teaching their youngsters the way to winter quarters.

There is one aspect of the seasonal change that is missing this year. My usual gleaming of dried blossoms was somewhat curtailed by the mower. A favorite field that has yielded many a handsome bouquet was kept close cropped and while it may have looked neater

A single fall frond remains through the summer, it did not reach its autumn splendor.

No matter though. As the dogs and I wandered farther afield we found other joys. Pheasants and squirrels held their attention while I took in the crisp brilliance of the scene, filing it away to remember on some cold winter day.

SOCIAL SECURITY AND YOU

Should Plan Ahead on Money

By: George J. Habernig,
Kingston District Manager

Today's workers should be aware of the role social security retirement benefits will play in their financial planning for retirement.

Men and women now working in jobs or self-employment covered by social security should be aware that retirement benefits are intended to be only a partial replacement of pre-retirement earnings. For example, social security retire-than that for workers with median earnings.

To assure sufficient income to maintain a person's pre-retirement standard of living, the worker should plan well in advance of retirement to supplement his social security benefits. This can be done through savings, investments, insurance, and other income protection plans. And, income from these other sources will have no effect on benefit person's social security tax dollar goes to pay for this kind of protection. And then there is Medicare for people 65 and over as well as for certain younger disabled people and for insured people and their dependents who suffer permanent kidney failure.

Additional information about social security retirement, survivor, and disability benefits and about Medicare may be obtained at any social security office. The address and telephone number may be found in the telephone directory.

QUESTIONS, ANSWERS

Q. Several years ago, my husband died and I started getting reduced widows benefits when I was 60. I'll be 65 soon and eligible for retirement benefits on my own work record. Will my retirement payment be affected by the widow's benefit I've been getting?

A. Yes. Your retirement benefit will be reduced, too. Generally, once a person receives reduced benefits, he or she will always receive a reduced payment. This reduction takes account of the longer period of time over which the person is likely to receive payments.

Q. My wife died two months ago. I'm her sole survivor and I've heard that widowers can get social security benefits even though they weren't dependent on their wives. Can I get payments? I'm 47.

A. No. It's true that widowers and husbands no longer have to prove dependency to get benefits on their wives' work records. But, if a widower doesn't have young children in his care, he must be either 60 or older or between 50 and 60 and disabled to get survivors benefits.

Q. I plan to retire at the end of the year. The monthly pension I'll get from my union is taxable. Will I have to pay federal income tax on my social security benefits too?

A. No. Social security benefits are not subject to federal income tax.

Q. What is considered a car of "reasonable value?"

A. In general, a car which has a retail value of $1,200 or less, or which is used for transportation to a job or to a place for regular treatment of a specific medical problem, is not counted.

Q. Suppose a person changes his mind about disposing of excess resources after he has already started getting SSI payments?

A. Refusal to dispose of excess resources after payments have started means the recipient will be found ineligible and will have to return the payments received.

Q. I have about $1,200 in a savings account left from my husband's life insurance. Will this count against my receiving SSI payments?

A. Not if your savings plus your other resources total less than the $1,500 maximum allowed for eligibility for SSI.

Mobile Guide Explains Ratings

Travelers' Check Points Advised

NEW YORK—How long does it take water to drain out of the bathtub in room 318?

Do all three brightness levels work in the three-way lamp? Is there a trace of dust on the top shelf in the closet?

These are some of approximately 100 check points which help determine the rating given more than 15,000 hotels, motels and resorts by the Mobil Travel Guide.

According to Arnold Fury, manager of Mobil Travel Services, the four basic criteria for judging hotels, motels and resorts are facilities, maintenance, service and house-keeping.

"When checking facilities and maintenance we consider both the exterior and interior of an establishment," Fury explained. "Outdoors, the condition of the building, grounds and landscape is noted along with the presence or absence of an outdoor pool, tennis courts and other sports facilities. Indoors, we first consider the lobby and other public areas. They are rated as either "elegant," "attractive,"

"plain" or "unattractive." We then turn to the guest rooms—they are very large, large, medium or small?

"We pay careful attention to details such as the condition and quality of furnishings, including mattresses; the efficiency and working order of heating and air conditioning systems and the availability of an adequate number of towels, to name a few.

"In rating service, we look initially for numerical adequacy of staff—desk clerks, bellmen, cashiers, waiters and waitresses, housekeeping personnel."

"When it comes to house-keeping, the inspections become more deliberate. Here a distinction is made between "good" and "poor." Dust in a closet or under a bed, a poorly vacuumed carpet, or lamps that don't function properly warrant demerits. Slow drainage of tub or wash basin, chips in bathroom tile, faded stained or worn carpeting, scratched furniture, likewise detract from top ratings."

"Age has little to do with determining an establishment's rating. The condition of the facilities and caliber of service and house-keeping are more important. An older, meticulously cared for hotel gets rating precedence over a flashy new one where maintenance has been slipshod," Fury said.

The guide lists the number of guest rooms in an establishment, whether there are direct dial telephones, color television, pool or sauna, meeting rooms, hairdresser and barber, facilities for handicapped persons and garage space, along with rates for rooms and suites.

"We try to give guide readers a comprehensive appraisal of each hotel, motel or resort, based not only on obvious features but also on those not always evident to the casual observer," Fury said.

Rating information comes to the travel guide editors from a network of independent researchers who have been inspecting establishments since 1958. Each year, from May to September, more than 80 men and women visit about 15,000 lodging establishments throughout the United States. Their reports assure that guide information is up-to-date.

Besides information from researchers, the comments of guide readers play an important part in determining ratings. Each edition of the guide includes an insert that gives travelers an opportunity to express their opinions and relate their experiences at establishments they visit.

The form asks: "Was our description correct?" The traveler then gives his personal opinion of service, management, rooms and food, and rates the establishment on a one-star to five-star basis.

What about public response to the questionnaire? "We receive tens of thousands of them every year," Fury said. "Each traveler who returns a questionnaire is helping us to make the Mobil Travel Guide as accurate and helpful as possible."

In London Town

Shakespeare Watches Tourists

LONDON (UPI) —

Thousands of tourists parade along Carnaby Street every day unaware that William Shakespeare is leaning out of a window and peering down at them.

Hundreds more trudge into the National Gallery and unknowingly walk all over Greta Garbo.

"London is full of surprises," says Andrew Lawson, who knows most of them.

Now Lawson, a Londoner by adoption, has collected the oddities and unusual details of this quirky city into a glossy new book called "Discover Unexpected London."

He uncovers a London tourists seldom glimpse and which even residents hardly know—a city like a coral reef, growing slowly and without plan and made up of things living creatures have left behind.

"It has absorbed and preserved the deposit of all those centuries," says historian Hugh Trevor-Roper in the book's introduction. In London, "everything is gradually changed but nothing is ever ended."

Lawson trained as a doctor but switched to painting. Both a painter's eye and a doctor's care for detail came into play when he began roaming London with a camera.

Moreover, he looked at London from an insider's eye. He is a Freeman of the City of London and a liveryman of the Worshipful Company of Fishmongers—one of the city's ancient guilds, some of whose lesser-known activities his book depicts.

But his 278 color photographs and extensive text also show you where to sit on a metal camel—and not at London zoo—and where to find Dick Whittington's cat.

They show Shakespeare leaning from his window on the Carnaby Street pub called the Shakespeare's Head, and Greta Garbo in mosaic—along with a mosaic Christmas pudding and mud pie—on the National Gallery entrance floor.

"London is a shy old lady, discreet, reserved and unostentatious about her charms," Lawson says.

"She does not reveal much to the man in a hurry, or to the tourist who is most intent upon ticking off his list of official, or even unexpected, sights."

"London speaks to the dawdler, to the wanderer up side streets."

Dawdling up side streets, Lawson photographed dozens of quaint shops and charming signs. He fills two pages with pictures of notable doors.

He has a chapter on "London's Countryside"—its unusually numerous parks—and another on colorful ceremonies from odd little charities to events like Trooping the Color.

Lawson's inside knowledge reveals that "the hustings" is not just any political platform but the name of the dais where the election of London's Lord Mayor takes place. Inside the Eccentrics' Club, appropriately enough, he finds a clock which runs backwards.

"Some of the most delightful details of London buildings," Lawson says, "are so high above the ground that they seem to have been designed for the exclusive enjoyment of steeplejacks and window cleaners."

The bulk of what he pictures, however, can be seen by anyone—though few ever notice. Like the chimney rising from a railing of Tower Bridge, serving the fireplace of a tiny guardroom below. Or charming little statues all over the city of children in quaint, 18th century costume—"charity boys and girls" which once identified schools run by charities.

NUTRITION

AND SURVIVAL
HEALTH — A to Z

becomes necessary.

SUNSHINE is an important source of health, if not, overdone. Make the most of sunny days.

TOLERANCE is especially necessary as one gets older. Younger people may irritate you and their ideas may seem far-fetched and difficult to understand, but remember you were there once!

USEFULNESS to be of assistance or value to someone or to an organization, even in a small way is helpful for our morale. What may seem to be an insignificant service to you can mean a great deal to the recipient.

VITALITY — Eating correctly helps retain and rebuild energy and stamina. Try raw fruits and vegetables, some dried fruits, large salads, some soy products, eggs, cheese, nuts and seeds. Eat less of starchy foods and animal proteins.

WHOLE grain breads and cereals are recommended by all nutritionists and dietitians. They are much more satisfying and healthful than those made from devitalized white flour.

EXPENSIVE foods, especially expensive steaks and chops, can either be dispensed with entirely or kept down to a minimum. Choose mainly salads, fruits and vegetables, soy products, eggs, cheese, nuts and some grains.

YOUTH CANNOT LAST FOREVER. BUT FOR THE YOUNG IN HEART, LIFE HAS SOMETHING TO OFFER AT EVERY STAGE AND AT ANY AGE.

ZEST for living and a determination to make the best of each day is one of the secrets of happiness... as is greeting trials and tribulations with fortitude and accepting small pleasures with a thankful heart.

Dr. Soltanoff, a West Hurley chiropractor and nutritional counselor, does not prescribe and diagnose in these articles. He reports on various areas of health and welcomes questions from our readers.

need some hobby or interest in order to stay well and happy. This becomes more important as one grows older and horizons narrow.

JOGGING is an excellent way to keep in top-notch condition. Should be practiced daily for best results and not overdone; especially in the beginning. An initial physical check-up by one's family physician would be a good idea.

KEEP alert and active in body and mind. Walking is one of the best exercises but those unable to do so might try light calisthenic movements or yoga regularly. Gaining more knowledge through reading worthwhile books and magazines can be very helpful. It also broadens your horizons.

LEND a willing ear. Being a good listener is an art well worth acquiring. Most people like to talk and appreciate your listening which indicates your interest. Many a life-long friendship has begun in this way.

MASTIGATE your food well. One of the important secrets of health. You will eat less with more benefit and enjoy more.

NUTS make a pleasant addition to fruit and salad meals. Walnuts, almonds, pecans and hazel nuts are preferable.

OCCUPY each day as fully as possible. The happiest people are usually those who have learned to adjust their lives to their own individual circumstances by keeping busy... even with severe physical handicaps.

PLAN for tomorrow. Do not dwell on the past.

QUIET repose and relaxation are essential to health. Try to set aside some time daily to escape the tensions of modern existence. Most of us can take some small amount of time available to sit, relax, let go and even meditate for a while. It is well worth the effort.

REGULARITY of one's daily routine is important but rules may sometimes be broken. A little flexibility or occasional change of pace in the daily regimen is sometimes better than getting into a rut that may be difficult or impossible to change when it

AGE — No secret when we are young but about which we usually tend to show a curious reticence until we are over 70 or 80...when it becomes a matter of pride. How to stay healthy until that age, is something we are all concerned with and should be striving for.

BREATHING — Health authorities generally agree that proper use of our lungs may help us enjoy better health. Full breathing combined with standing and sitting correctly also helps reduce nervous tension and aids relaxation.

CULTIVATE a cheery outlook. Life brings us all some good and bad, ups and downs; but even the darkest day eventually passes. We all know people with really "heavy" loads who set an example for the rest of us.

DEVELOP the ability to stand still and observe. In our headlong rush for gain or pleasure, rushing from here to there we tend to overlook much of the wonder and beauty all around us.

EAT sparingly. We should always enjoy our food but never let it lead to over-indulgence. NO DESSERTS!

FITNESS is a precious gift. Those who have it do not always appreciate it. Daily exercise and attention to diet help maintain good muscle tone, flexibility and endurance and also helps toward regaining health when it is lost.

GROW something even if it is only in a pot. Those who are able to, and have a plot of ground, however small, can find gardening a most satisfying and rewarding avocation.

HEALTH foods are gaining increasing popularity in every strata of our society as more and more people become dissatisfied, and sometimes develop health problems due to mass produced, plastic chemicalized foods. Search out information about natural foods by subscribing to one or more health magazines and reading books which are available in every health food store.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Sunday, October 23

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: The Sun changes sign, enters Scorpio at 8:42 a.m. EDT. Life has a gentle, theatrical quality now, so you can enjoy the whole year as if it were one big, slow-paced party, oftentimes with circus-like events. Work steadily, waste no energy on frivolous habits, don't lean too much on others. Relationships seem easy, require a lot of care. Today's natives seek truth; those born this year take the attitude they've found it, need activity that provides better perspective.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): No business! In holiday mood pursue fun pastimes, sentimental impulses, set up a calendar for the coming season. A late party is overrated, not worth the fatigue.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Today is a bridge from one state of affairs to a better one. Renew contacts for the long pull. Family talks offer a chance to forgive, be forgiven for past errors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): With much energy, motivation to stir about, you can make extra money today or a deal for the week ahead. Assert leadership through good examples, not boasting.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Set a quota of chores often neglected during the week. Look after hobbies, pets, your health regime. Discuss business with people who can help — make it brief.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Inspire others to manifest their better qualities, recover from ills. Remember that virtue can't be bought, not every problem is solved by financial maneuvers, loans.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Communicate, reach out to those of similar taste, set the tone for effort toward common goals. Put possessions to right so you can function freely next week.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Glance back, recap progress; look ahead, plan for long term. Get busy on a happier today for yourself, loved ones; persuade youngsters to join in.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Creative ideas lead to unaccustomed action—get snapshots, notes, build on the experience later. Romantic ventures thrive according to your spirit, circumstances.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You have a lot going for you, can make a favorable change, effective public appearance, settle old differences. Main initiative has to come from you, however.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Find out how neglected friends fare. Resolve to stay more in touch in future. Rest from heavy projects, business. Come back refreshed, with a brighter viewpoint.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Not everyone has heard stories going the rounds. Let others tell them while you search for new ideas. The very young want guidance; offer it to good advantage.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Let all take their accustomed course without meddling. You have enough interests; dodge anyone disposed to argue. Children need attention; be generous with yours.

Monday, October 24

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: You're entering a holding pattern, a cycle of repetition. See that it's a comfortable one, so you won't mind doing similar things regularly. Thursday night will be the best time to launch new program, make resolutions, even celebrate. Relationships are balanced delicately, a joy if you're truly involved. Today's natives are good-natured, humorous, but generally achieve much political power, have no hesitation using it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Initiative is yours whether you want it or not. A soft sell works best, attracts fewer reversals. Don't force personal issues until you hear the whole story.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A problem is of your own making; check what you did to bring it on. Correct causes before calling in help. A strenuous job is different—single-handed you spoil it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): There's no way to keep up with competitors or stay even with companions who have more cash to work with or enjoy. Their advice is off base for similar reasons.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Family life, its fallout cast a shadow on some career image if anything is overdone. Tact is a good part of the solution, sincerity is a still greater part.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Inquire if people you plan to see are really there, ready. If not, save tension, put off the visit. Past events have repercussions where obligation is left standing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Fast talkers glide glibly over disparities. Listen, be equally quick to say "no" firmly. What begins today lasts only long enough to be a bridge to something else.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Secrets pop into the open, become public knowledge unexpectedly. People express their insecurity in the form of criticism—you are not the actual target.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): In pursuing success, don't push further than energy, resources will hold out. Better a small deal in the bag than to stop exhausted, short of closing a big one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Write off losing ventures, look into experiments before investing any great sums. Those who should deliver some item are unable or unwilling. Patience!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Progress is slow as you turn a corner in a cycle of development. In breaking budgets, be sure your motive is sound. Personal questions deserve direct answers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Surfaces are deceptive some by nature, others by design. Evaluate each independently before you put money into new or extensive things Obey all safety rules!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Finances are upset by factors you failed to consider. You seem to spend more than you earn—with no means to recoup. Gambling, speculation are definitely out.

ERMA BOMBECK

Mate's Tennis Elbow of Eye

I take my marriage vows seriously.

All that jazz about better or worse, richer or poorer, sickness and health. I've handled it all — until my husband developed blind spots on the tennis court.

His first attack hit about seven months ago. I hit a ball well inside the serving court when I heard him yell, "LONG!"

I placed my second serve which I watched clearly land on the line and he yelled, "WIDE!"

Naturally, I didn't want to upset him, so I waited until the end of the set (which he won) and led him off the court. "Be careful, dear," I advised gently, "there are two steps in front of you at 12 o'clock, then there are exactly 65 steps to the car with only one curb in between and I'll tell you about them."

"I am not blind," he said irritably, shaking his arm loose from mine.

"Of course you're not," I condescended. But I was worried.

However, at home, his super vision returned. He noted a phone was off the hook just by looking through a wall, correctly predicted his son was wearing his underwear right through a pair of shorts, and took me to task for the dust on top of our seven-foot refrigerator.

That weekend, when we returned to the court for a rematch, his vision once again failed him. Lobs that landed on the line were called "out" or "in," depending on whose lobs they were. If I had so much as a shoelace that went over the serving line, he would call, "FOOT FAULT!"

A girlfriend of mine said her husband suffered from the same malady. "It's tennis elbow of the eye," she said.

"Are you serious?" I giggled. "It's not funny," she said.

"It's painful as all get out. Comes from missing too many shots that are in."

"Surely we can't be talking about the same thing."

"Maybe not," she said.

"Does your husband sometime call it out before you even serve the ball? (I nodded.)

Does he sometimes win an entire set without stepping a foot on the court? (Again I nodded.)

Does his vision return when he is in the pro-shop? (Again I nodded.)

There was a cure for it last year," she said.

"Of course, I don't know what they call it this year."

"What did they call the cure last year?"

"Divorce."

ROLLING STONE

Rumour One of the Hottest

BY DAVE MARSH
GRAHAM PARKER AND THE RUMOUR: "Stick to Me" (Mercury SRM-1-3706) 4 Stars.

Graham Parker is the most talented performer to emerge in mainstream rock & roll since Bruce Springsteen, but his first two albums passed almost unnoticed, except in the music press. "Stick to Me" is meant to change all that; its best moments deserve to. Songs like "The New York Shuffle," "Stick to Me," "The Raid" and "Clear Head" rock relentlessly, serving notice that the Rumour is one of the hottest groups this side of Bruce Springsteen's E Street Band. Parker's vocals, which are a kaleidoscope of the great rock & roll mannerists, are as powerful as the music. If the album is flawed, in fact, the problem is that the material is not always as strong as it might be and that the production doesn't have the tough brightness such heady music demands. But these are minor complaints: Parker is a major rock & roller, and "Stick to Me" demands to be heard.

HIRTH MARTINEZ. "Big Bright Street" (Warner Bros. BS 3031) 3 Stars.
Martinez is a sort of space-rocker: That is, he firmly believes that this planet is a madhouse, love is the only hope and it's impossible (or at least highly unlikely), and that the only hints of salvation lie outside. He is accompanied on these protestations of cosmic corniness by a cast which includes Dr. John and Garth Hudson of the Band, both of whom have at times seemed in touch with the outer spheres themselves. A weird record, for weird tastes.

THE STAPLES: "Family Tree" (Warner Bros. BS 3064) 2 Stars.

After working semi-successfully with Curtis Mayfield for a couple of years, the Staples are joined here with producer Eugene Record (the Chi-Lites). Unfortunately, Record lacks Mayfield's feel for the Staples' gospel roots, and much of this material is too overtly sensual for the group to handle. The title cut is a bit of an exception, but "I Honestly Love You" and "Let's Go to the Disco" are as wrong-headed as anything you're liable to hear soon.

"GEORGE THOROGOOD and the Destroyers" (Rounder 3013) 3 Stars.
This trio is far too steeped in Chicago blues and R&B — they even do "One Bourbon, One Scotch, One Beer" — to qualify as punk or New Wave, although they're scruffy enough, if that counts. This is bar band music in the tradition of the J. Geils Band, and while it is not up to that standard, the Destroyers are worth checking out for devotees of the form. The oddest thing about the disc, incidentally, is the record company; Rounder has heretofore specialized in making mostly acoustic modern folk records — they have a catalog well worth investigating. ## Students Take to Outdoors

KYSERIKE—The Rondout Valley Middle School has begun an Outdoor Education Club under the leadership of Miss Sandra Parker.

Club membership totals 25 students, selected from grades five through eight.

The club, using the outdoors as a classroom, meets each week to examine the commonplace wonders in nature that are many times overlooked.

The students are learning, with the aid of magnifying glasses, to take a close look at trees, flowers and insects as well. Students, referring to guide books, also are learning to identify the different species. Although the emphasis is on identification and examination, members also are shown how to make collections.

One of the larger projects for the club this year will be to get the existing Natural Trail into condition so that it may be used by the rest of the school, it was pointed out. Another priority is that an outdoor classroom will be set up in a clearing in the woods adjacent to the school.

Miss Parker said the club hopes to make some field trips to visit nature trails already in operation in order to obtain ideas about setting up the one at Rondout Valley.

RH Band Headed By Pulver

RED HOOK—Ralph Pulver has been elected president of the Red Hook Central High School band.

Other officers include: Pete Kelly, vice president and Jason Kahn, treasurer.

The school's department is now planning for this year's events.

The first of these will be held Oct. 27 when the stage band will entertain during Red Hook High School's open house.

The first music department concert is planned for Dec. 12, and will feature the concert band, stage band and chorus.

The music department will sponsor the appearance of the Giants of Jazz on Nov. 1. The Giants of Jazz feature artists who played with several of the famous bands of the 40's including Glenn Miller, Duke Ellington, Jimmy Dorsey, Tommy Dorsey, Louie Armstrong, Benny Goodman, Count Basie and others. The band has appeared on several occasions at the Dutchess County Fair and has always attracted a large gathering.

Kingston Is Too Strong for Sawyers, 38-0

By BRUCE GOLDBERG
Freeman staff

SAUGERTIES—The annual battle for the bragging rights to Route 9W turned out pretty much as expected Saturday. Kingston High School did everything except mash the hometown's prize mums as the Tigers rolled over Saugerties, 38-0, in a Dutchess County Scholastic League football game.

In the process, the Tigers again had all the subs in by about the middle of the third quarter, utilized three quarterbacks plus five running backs, accounted for 356 total offensive yards, recovered two SHS fumbles and picked off five passes, returning one for a touchdown. KHS also had its season high in points scored as it opened a two-game lead in the DCSL.

But the 5-0 victors were in a battle all the way as SHS coach Hank Smith did a masterful pre-game psych job on his Sawyers which had them fighting all game long. It wasn't enough as they were not physical match for the bigger, stronger and quicker Tigers.

KHS running back Jim Brown had an excellent game, almost all of it in the first half, as he scored three touchdowns, rushed four times for 92 yards and caught two passes for 59 yards. One of his TD's came on a 69-yard run; another on a beautiful 47-yard pass from starting QB Jay Foust.

"We played a damn good game," said KHS coach Tony Badalato. "Brown and our offensive line were just super."

Despite the one-sided score, Badalato was not entirely happy after the contest. "I am upset about so many penalties (15 for 170 yards)," he said. "It seems that every time we start dominating a game, the officials give us a lot of penalties. You can call penalty on just about every play in high school if you look for it."

"But I'm proud of our kids for keeping their poise, not blowing their cool, not yelling at the officials, not getting into fights. I'll tell you, the only thing that kept our offense down was the officials."

In the game's earlier moments, it was the fired-up Sawyers who kept KHS down. Mike Dickman, who was one of the hardest battlers for SHS, intercepted Foust's pass on third down during the Tigers' opening series. The second series saw the Sawyers force the Tigers to punt from their six after losing several yards on two carries.

But Kingston's captain Phil Razey returned the favor on the Sawyers' series by intercepting Jay Peter's pass to set up the Tigers on the KHS 36. Brown ran once for 21 then immediately caught a pass, broke two or three tackles, and got down to the SHS 33. A 15-yard pass to Tom Rundle was nullified by a clip. Gene Jackson picked up 12 yards, Rundle 16 on a pass, and the Tigers were on the SHS 19. Brown ran left to the six, but that, too, was nullified by a holding call that pushed KHS back to its 34. Jackson made a great catch while being hit for 18 yards down to the seven. Following his one nine-yard run, and with 10 seconds left in the first quarter, he ran for a three-yard touchdown. Peter Altomare sent the kick wide, the first of two PAT's he was to miss.

Forcing SHS to punt on its next series, the Tigers took over on the SHS 47. It was then that Foust hooked up with Brown on a beautiful pass near the left sideline, and Brown scored. Altomare missed again. Two plays later, the Tigers got the ball back on Tom Loughlin's interception at the KHS 44. A five-play, 56-yard drive helped by two SHS offside penalties resulted in Jackson's 12-yard TD jaunt to make it 18-0. Two flags on the conversion attempt pushed KHS back to the 25, where a pass attempt failed. The TD series included Foust's screen pass to Rundle (28 yards) and Foust's 10-yard keeper.

Saugerties made what was to be its deepest penetration of the game on the next series. After all-purpose Chris Swech returned the kickoff to the SHS 38, he made a great running catch on second down as he cut across the field, gaining 30 yards. Bob Nunamaker picked up four yards to the KHS 29. Two near interceptions later, SHS turned the ball over on downs. It got no closer the rest of the game.

The Tigers took a 24-0 halftime lead when on second and eight from their own 31, a Foust-Jackson-Brown reverse sprung the latter free for a sensational 69-yard TD run near the left sideline. Again, the run attempt failed.

Each team had two series in the scoreless third quarter. The Tigers got to the SHS 15 once, but got pushed back by a couple of clipping penalties. Two booming Foust punts livened the proceedings, the second one traveling at least 50 yards.

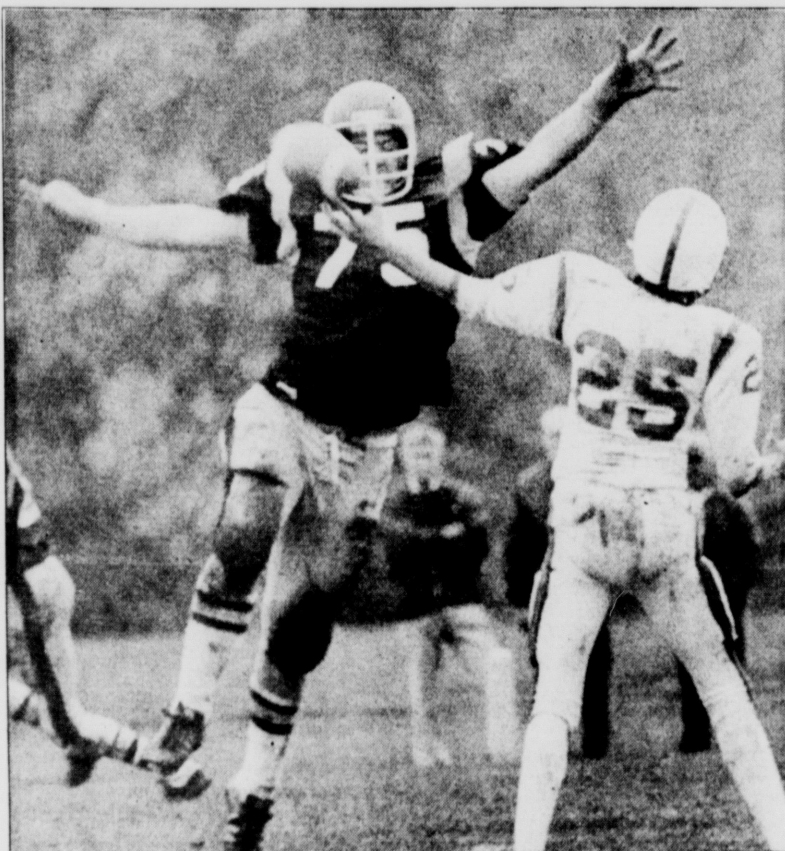

The teams exchanged fumbles to start the final quarter, with SHS on its own 20 after Joe Grimaldi's recovery. Foust, whose place at noseguard was taken by Matt Brancato in the early going, rose up to grab Peter's second-down pass and returned it 10 yards for a TD. Jackson's run made it 32-0. The rest of the quarter was a disaster for the home team as John Fagan recovered a SHS fumble and Paul Rundle intercepted a pass to end SHS' series. He ran 13 yards to the SHS 12, and on third down, QB Kirk Jacob hit Ed McCullough with a two-yard scoring pass. The run attempt failed (five of six PAT's failed) and the final score was posted: 38-0. The game ended with SHS in possession.

"We got beat on the offensive line," said Smith. "But I'm not going to be disappointed about this. The kids played their hearts out. We'll be back next week."

Besides Brown, the leading KHS rushers were Rundle (6-28), Jackson (8-29) and second QB Jim Salzmann (6-30), who ran the option well in the third quarter. Foust completed six of nine passes and showed take-charge ability. Rundle (2-44) was second to Brown in receiving.

Chris Swech did a bit of everything for the Sawyers, receiving (6-61), rushing, punt returning and playing defense. The Sawyers went to the air much of the time (13 for 30).

EXTRA POINTS—KHS line-backer Dan Langton did some hard hitting... Dan Curlin also had an interception for KHS...Sawyers, 0-5 overall and 0-4 in the DCSL, host Arlington Saturday, while the Tigers host Beacon in the Homecoming Game. Peter was one of several injured Sawyers who returned to the game...Badalato also had praise for Jackson and his linebacking corps of Langton, Loughlin and Kirk Maisch.

New Paltz Streaks Past Wallkill

By STEVE KANE
Freeman staff

NEW PALTZ—There may be no stopping the New Paltz High football team now. Saturday the Huguenots took a giant step toward an Ulster County Athletic League title as they administered a 27-6 beating to the visiting Wallkill Panthers.

The win left the Hugies unbeaten after six games this season and gave them a two game lead in the UCAL with just three games to play.

With most of the strong opponents behind his club, coach John Ford thought New Paltz might have "come around the corner." He said, "They were up and ready for this one. They found out last week against Ellenville you can't lay down."

It was the Panthers who spent most of the afternoon on their backs. Randy Freer scored three first half touchdowns as New Paltz dominated the contest, and the lone thrill of the day for Wallkill fans was a 97-yard kickoff return by Panther Guy Jollie that came after the Hugies had put all their points on the board.

The two elements that opened the game up quickly were New Paltz's clear superiority on the line and Wallkill's backfiring offensive strategy. The Panthers planned to throw the ball from the start, but the Hugies were waiting for it.

"We thought they were going to throw 20 times," said Ford. On the first play of the game Wallkill quarterback Charlie Carver put it up, but New Paltz lineman Will Scott picked it off and the Hugies were suddenly sitting on the Panther 14. Five tries later Freer took it across, and Todd Krieg ran a two-point.

New Paltz fumbled away a golden opportunity to score again just minutes later after a weak Panther punt, but the Hugies struck like lightning the next time they tried. Wallkill punted for the second time in the game, and New Paltz proceeded to cover 71 yards in just four plays.

Dino Toscani ripped off 45 yards to start things off, and Freer went the last 26 for his second TD. There were still a minute and a half left in the opening quarter.

"Their getting in front of us so quickly was probably a major factor in the way things turned out," said Wallkill coach Larry Baney. "We got ourselves in trouble at the start, and when you have to throw, you're giving up a lot to the defense."

The New Paltz defense took advantage of all that was offered them. The Hugies sacked Carver seven times in the game and continually had his receivers covered. The sixth time Carver tried to pass Jim Polhemus intercepted. That happened early in the second quarter and left the Hugies just six yards away from their third touchdown.

The winners capitalized quickly. On the second play from scrimmage Krieg made a fine call, and Freer slipped through the line unmolested to catch a pass that made it a 20-0 game.

Wallkill gained 47 total yards in the first half and endured poor field position throughout. It looked like nothing had changed when the second half began. New Paltz came out of a punting exchange on the Wallkill 41 and ran eight straight running plays to another score. Toscani bulled in from the one, and Gordon Pine kicked the 27th point of the afternoon.

Even at that late stage there was still life in Wallkill. Jollie fanned the flames when ran Pine's kickoff down at the three, eluded some over-eager tacklers and outlegged everybody to the end zone. On the very next play from scrimmage Jollie again created some excitement by recovering Clay Bell's fumble to give Wallkill possession on the New Paltz 31. As if that weren't enough, he then gained 16 yards on the Panthers' first down.

That's where the hopes for a miracle comeback died. The Hugies sacked Carver twice and batted away another throw to regain possession.

"We came out of the game in good shape," said Ford. Baney couldn't say the same. Bob Koonz and Bill Hecht, two key Panthers, left the game with injuries.

"We weren't flat at the start," Baney said. "And we feel you have to throw and run to be a good football team. I was pleased with the second half. We started doing some things right."

KHS' Wilson, Casey Win X-Country Titles

STAATSBURG—Kingston High produced the individual winners and Arlington won the team crowns Saturday at the Dutchess County Scholastic League cross country meet.

Bill Wilson, the Tigers' ace harrier, won the boys race, covering the three-mile Ogden Mills Estate layout in 15:57, a full 14 seconds better than second place Dave DiCambio of Spackenkill.

Eileen Casey, meanwhile, won her third consecutive girls crown, breezing to victory in 19:04.4 despite a slightly sprained ankle. Her closest competitor, Newburgh's Paula Brown, finished 20 seconds behind.

Arlington, which has dominated this meet but which was not a clear-cut favorite this year, managed to win the boys title with 52 points. Spackenkill was second with 64, Newburgh third with 78, Roosevelt fourth with 105 and Kingston fifth with 139. Saugerties took sixth with 147.

The Admirals also took the girls race with 64 points. Roosevelt had 76, Newburgh 82, Pine Plains 119, Ketcham 125, Jay 141 and Kingston 151.

"Bill and I talked before the race about how he was going to run it," recalled KHS coach Dean Short. "We decided that he should go all out as fast as he could at the beginning. I think that worked to his advantage, because when it became clear he was in front, the rest of the schools began worrying about the team results. I think Bill might have run a faster time had the race been closer."

"Arlington must have booby-trapped the course," Short laughed. "Spackenkill had the team title won but the man running fourth in the race sprained his ankle and couldn't finish. And Newburgh, which also had a chance at winning, also had a man sprain an ankle. They were the only two to go down all day."

Kingston's Eric Pearson took 12th in 16:48 to post the Tigers' next best effort. Saugerties' Al Gardeski was 13th.

Casey had little trouble repeating as girls' champ, although the slight injury she suffered hurt her time.

"The course was mostly on woodlands paths," said Smith. "There were a lot of hills, lots of sharp turns. Luckily it was dry. That's the first time in three years it hasn't rained."

Saugerties' Monica Gaebel placed 13th. KHS' Judy Ford took 24th.

While Casey was winning for the third straight time, Wilson's boys victory was the first for Kingston since John Cabell completed his dom-

Fallsburgh Tops OCS for Field Hockey Crown

By EMILY SPOLJARIC
Freeman staff

WALLKILL — A new field hockey champion was crowned in the Ulster County Athletic League Saturday.

Fallsburgh High, Division II leader, took its undefeated regular season one step further and prevailed 2-0 over Division I pacer, Onteora, in a rough and ready affair.

Both teams came to play hockey, but got a little more than they bargained for as aggressive tendencies wove their way into the order of things and caused an added sidelight.

An altercation midway through the second half was the culmination of a simmering hostility wrapped within enthusiasm and spirit and a genuine desire to rule the league.

"It was a fast and rough game," said Onteora coach Carol Okoren. "Fallsburgh is a tough team, and I was proud of the way my girls played."

At the other end of the field there was a victory celebration in progress, and the words of Fallsburgh coach Esther Grossman left no doubt about her team's capabilities.

"Two to nothing is conclusive proof that we're the best team, she bubbled. "We didn't need this one to prove it."

On paper, however, it was not quite so decisive. Onteora's control of the second half was a very real factor, it just failed to produce from in close. The Indians spent 3:34 in control inside the Fallsburgh 25-yard line, and only 58 seconds of that time was in the first half. The Comets were only able to amass 1:16 in total penetration time.

"We should have won the game with the amount of time we controlled the ball," said Okoren.

The first goal came with two minutes left in the first half when Onteora failed to clear the ball in a scramble in front of the net. Suanne Berger dug it out of a crowd and fed Maria Divita, who put it to the right of Lori Bedell in the Onteora goal from about five yards out.

Prior to that goal, the pattern of play was erratic with no sustained possession on either side. Fallsburgh's Cathy Dill had the only other good scoring opportunity, but as she came down the wing to the right of Bedell, she lost control of the ball and it rolled harmlessly out of play.

Onteora appeared revitalized after halftime, and it completely dominated the field. The Indians refused to let Fallsburgh inside their 25-yard line and kept forcing the play the other way. Three corner hits in succession were turned away by Comet netminder Sandy Williams, or knocked wide by a foreign stick.

Debbie Oathout raced down the left side unattended, but that also went astray as the ball bounced out of play.

Then, as so often happens, Fallsburgh got a break and sent Sandy Wexler in for the clincher at 21 minutes of the half. Wexler flagged down a pass from Jackie Greck and beat Bedell to the lower left corner from close in.

"We showed a lot of hustle and a lot of spirit," said Grossman. "and we showed that we're the better balanced team. Once we got through their forward line, it was easy."

The Comets did manage 11 shots at Bedell, who played a good game in the nets. The Indians countered with eight.

Both teams will continue their post season play in the Section Nine tournament with the pairings to be announced. Action will commence Tuesday. Fallsburgh will enter the competition with an overall mark of 8-1-4, while the Indians sport and 8-1-3 record.

Rondout Outscores Pine Bush, 30-26

KYSERIKE—Rondout Valley High's brother act of quarterback Paul Perry and receiver Randy hooked up for three long touchdown passes Saturday and the Ganders overcame two two-touchdown Pine Bush leads to come back with a wild, 30-26 Ulster County Athletic League football victory.

It was the highest number of points by the Ganders since the season opener when it crushed Liberty, 34-2. Their comeback victory took the sting off of Ken Frye's two lengthy TD runs for Pine Bush.

RVC improved its record to 3-2-1, while Pine Bush fell back to the .500 level at 3-3.

"It was a very exciting game," said RVC coach John (Mickey) Million.

"The teams just went back and forth across the field. I was surprised. I expected pretty much a defensive battle. We didn't play too much defense." Pine Bush started the first a one-yard run, with the pass conversion failing. Walters wound up with just 35 yards rushing, leaving the game with an injury.

The Ganders tied it on a 26-yard Perry to Perry scoring pass in the opening quarter.

The kick failed.

The Bushmen got their first of the two-touchdown leads in the second quarter as Frye ripped off TD runs of 59 and 45 yards. He led the Bushmen with 144 total rushing yards, more than half their 281 final figure.

Trailing 20-6, the Ganders brought it to within 20-14 at halftime as Dave McBride hit paydirt with a four-yard plunge. Paul Perry passed to Rod McClain for another two points. The TD run was set up by Perry's completion to Tony DeStefano earlier in the series. DeStefano replaced Randy Perry, who sat out one quarter with an injured thumb.

The Bushmen got their second two-TD lead in the third quarter when after recovering a Gander fumble, a PB series was climaxed with Buzzy Josefaki's four-yard TD run. The conversion run failed. PB led, 26-14.

The Perrys went to work. Before the third quarter ended, Paul hit Randy with a 39-yard scoring strike, with McBride running for two to make it 26-22.

The Ganders went ahead for good with just 4:30 remaining in the game as the Perrys hooked up for a 67-yard pass play, with McBride again running for two. Tom Pumila set it by with a fumble recovery at the RVC 33. The TD play came on first down.

RVC's ability to convert three of four PAT's, compared to PB's one of four, spelled the difference.

Walters retained the UCAL scoring lead with eight touchdowns and a total of 50 points.

The Ganders host Marlboro Saturday. Pine Bush will be visited by Onteora.

Onteora Hangs on for 14-6 Win

BOICEVILLE—Onteora High School stopped Liberty on their four-yard line with three seconds remaining in the game Saturday to post its second Ulster County Athletic League victory of the season, 14-6, in the annual Indian Bowl.

Threatening to tie up and possibly win the game on its final series, Liberty got to the OCS 40 after a 15-yard pass play by quarterback Rick Ellison. Two pass interference calls against OCS brought Liberty down to the OCS 15. Ellison kept to the four, but his second sneak gained no yardage and the game ended.

"The defense played well," said OCS coach John Meehan. "We're bending but not breaking, not letting up that many points."

OCS improved to 2-3-1. Liberty has just one win in five games.

The Sullivan County visitors went ahead, 6-0, in the opening quarter on Keith Bertholf's one-yard dive. The PAT kick was blocked. The drive began on the OCS 34 following a fumble recovery. Bertholf carried the ball 27 yards to the seven.

Onteora made it a 6-6 half-time score with a nine-play, 54-yard drive that finished with Tom Gran's one-run run. The pass attempt failed. The series included an 11-yard pass to Paul Pierce and two rushes for 25 yards by Greg Ballinger.

The home squad put together a 12-play, 60-yard "grind-it-out" drive in the final quarter, with Ballinger springing to paydirt from two yards out. Quarterback Stan Tentowski passed to Pete Kraft for two points to post the final score, 14-6.

Bertholf led all rushers with 114 of Liberty's total of 181. Meehan's "bend, not break" theory again worked. His squad has given up the most yardage of any in the UCAL, but only 64 points in six games.

"We gave up a lot of yards, 212 total," said Meehan, "but much of it came on their first series of the game. They got 69 yards but we stopped them. They also got yardage on our prevent defense late in the first half."

The victors got balanced running from Tom Bran (14-54), Ballinger (10-52) and Chris Smith (5-23).

"I'm pleased with the offense again," said Meehan. "We're improving each game. And we got some good games from our subs, like nose man Henry River and linebacker Dan Ross in the second half."

He also praised linebackers Smith and Glen Beck, punter Pierce (a 40.3 yard average for three punts) and defensive tackle Rick Frankel.

Liberty, while gaining ground yardage, couldn't do much in the air. It completed just two of 10 passes for 21 yards, a common happening against the strong pass-defending OCS crew.

"Our defensive secondary of Peter Humphries, Kraft and Ballinger is doing an excellent job," said Meehan.

Meehan praised Liberty first-year coach Andy Kavleski. "I think Andy's done a super job. He's got a real aggressive ballclub. There going to be good in a year or two."

OCS visits Pine Bush and Liberty hosts league-leading New Paltz Saturday.

Red Hook Whips Ellenville

ELLENVILLE—Ellenville High had the right strategy to combat Ken Staats' effectiveness as a punt returner Saturday. What they didn't count on to happen was Staats completing three touchdown passes. He led Red Hook to a 21-6 Ulster County Athletic League football victory.

Staats, a superb all-around athlete, has returned two punts for touchdowns already this season, and Ellenville coach Jack Sovak didn't want to become the third victim. "We gave up field position with our punts (26-yard average) to keep the ball away from Staats, and that worked," said Sovak. "But we didn't expect him to throw the ball so well."

The victory raised the Raiders' record to 4-2. Ellenville remains winless at 0-6.

The first RH touchdown came in the opening quarter as Staats and Bob Gehrer teamed up for a 20-yard scoring fling. John Moore kicked the PAT. "Staats scrambled about five seconds, it was an unbelievable play," said Sovak. "I can't wait to see the films. I'm sure there were two men downfield illegally on that play."

In the second quarter, Staats passed to Chris O'Connor for a 32-yarder on first down. The kick failed.

Ellenville got on the board in the second quarter with a 17-play, 52-yard drive that resulted in Joe Cepeda's one-yard plunge. The pass attempt failed. The series included 30 yards on two rushes by Santos Quiles.

The Raiders wrapped up the scoring in the final quarter as Staats and O'Connor agme for two yards. Staats hit Moore for the two-point pass. The opportunity for the TD series was made by an interception. The drive took six plays to cover 21 yards.

"The second touchdown pass was well-earned," said Sovak. "O'Connor threaded the needle through three defenders."

Ellenville linebacker Jeff Hook recovered two RH fumbles.

Raider linebacker Glen Coon made 20 tackles to again pace the defense.

"I feel we played a very good game last week against New Paltz," said Sovak. "We had a little letdown this week. We weren't hitting hard."

"We feel the kids haven't given up on the season. They're still trying. We'll catch someone before the season is out," Sovak added.

Ellenville visits Highland while the Raiders go to Wallkill in Saturday's games.

A Productive Program

Dear Sports Editor:
The Exchange Club of Kingston has given many young boys from the Saugerties area a tremendous opportunity to learn the fun, thrills, frustrations, muscle aches and pains that go with playing football.

It hasn't been easy to be one of the 11-13-year-old boys trying to master the game. They have been faithful to practice three nights a week through August's 90 degree heat, September's torrential rains (Cantine Field's lighted men's softball field has yet to dry up and many a Saugerties mother may have to replace the family washing machine) and now the cold October nights and most of the original group is still hard at the game. While our Gemini team has not won a game yet this season, these boys have learned a great deal towards disciplining their young bodies and minds.

I have nothing but praise for our sons and the fine young men who have also endured the frustrations, fun, thrill, heat, rain, mud and cold in coaching them and have done so much to teach them the basics of football. Three of these young volunteer coaches are not married, one is newly married and the other coach has sons out of the age group, so they don't have children participating but they have given generously of their time, interest, talent and patience.

So a very large THANK YOU to the Kingston Exchange Club for outfitting our boys with good, safe equipment and the football program on the whole; to the Saugerties Athletic Association for helping bring junior football here; to our coaching staff; to all the loyal and, at time loud, fans for their support; and most of all, thank you to all the boys for hanging tough. Next year the Saugerties Gemini team will be one of the experienced teams...you have done well and learned much this first year.

Berle's View Confusing

Dear Sports Editor:
Commissioner Peter A.A. Berle's statement in The Outdoorsman that appeared in the Sunday Freeman (Oct. 16) is aimed at confusing the grassroots sportsmen on separating the Division of Fish and Wildlife to Fish and Game Commission, the ann

At the annual New York State Conservation Council meeting held in Binghamton between Sept. 14 and 17, 1977, the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County pushed the resolution to change the Division of Fish and Wildlife to the Fish and Game Commission.

The grassroots sportsmen want to spend their money on more fish being stocked, more pheasants, more game of all kinds, being stocked within New York State and Ulster County.

As far as the 8.1 million that we receive from the general fund, if we can do away with 200 of the 300 biologists who make $20,000 a year or more, that in itself would take care of $4 million. Take away the right of the employe to take the DEC cars and trucks home each night all across this state. That would save another $800,000 each year. Reduce the size of office space across New York State and Albany and you could save one million dollars in rental fees.

I am quite sure letting grassroots sportsmen run the Fish and Game Commission we could save another two or three million dollars that have been wasted to send commissioners, and other staff people, all over the country making speeches on how good fishing and hunting is in New York State. Also, we could do away with a few airplanes the DEC has that are setting in Albany collecting dust.

We do not need to increase hunting and fishing license. I would include the turkey license with the small game hunting license with no increase. It's time to get the port out of hunting and fishing license money.

The DEC holds 100 public meetings in New York State each year, but then they go and do what they want anyway. In unity, Commissioner Peter A. A. Berle, the grassroots sportsmen are united and we want to run the DEC in 1978 and if I have anything to do about it, there will be a Fish and Game Commission elected by the sportsmen.

As far as the Fish and Wildlife people in one department knowing what solid waste disposal or other departments are doing, they hardly talk to each other and I have the facts to back it up.

Frustration Pushing Saugerties Out of DCSL

SAUGERTIES — This is the place they like to call "the biggest little sports town in America". They're proud of their involvement in sports here. Depending on the time of year, hundreds of kids and adults are participating in some kind of organized activity, many under the auspices of the now legendary Saugerties Athletic Association.

And then there's high school sports. It's big news here. Everyone is interested in following the exploits of the local kids. For the most part they've been pretty darn spectacular, too. Start counting all the young athletes who've gone on to star in college, throw in the really exceptional performers who have signed pro contracts, then consider the percentage as compared to the population and you've got an impressive number.

But frustration has set in at Saugerties High over the last several years. To a degree it's uncalled for. Most Saugerties sports teams have done admirably. Not so in recent seasons, however, basketball and football, particular the latter. Football is the glamour sport. It's also been a source of much of this town's pride. As it has nosedived, so, in part, has some of the locals' morale.

It was with that frustration in mind that the local school board initiated its formal action to try and get things changed. Board president Rev. John Needham made the plunge by appointing a committee to investigate pulling Saugerties out of the large Dutchess County Scholastic League and into someplace more conducive for its athletes.

"What prompted me were really two things," Rev. Needham said Friday, 24 hours before the David and Goliath Saugerties-Kingston football kickoff here. "The first was the distance we have to travel and the second was the size of schools we compete against. I am aware of the frustrations some of our teams have felt. It's mainly football now, but it could be other teams at other times.

"I feel a sense of responsibility as president of the board to make sure our kids have the best chance of not competing over their heads. I have no recommendations of my own. It may turn out that the committee says we should stay where we are. I recognize we are competitive in many sports. Our girls' volleyball team is in first place; we've always done well in baseball and in other sports. I realize that. All I've asked is for the committee to meet and discuss what the possibilities are for us."

A move out of the DCSL is not a new topic. It's been discussed on these pages many times over the years. Generally the reaction from Saugerties residents has been negative, an almost shocked tone of one who's been insulted by such a demeaning idea. There have been in the past at least three feelers about gaining entry into the Ulster County Athletic League. Each time the UCAL has said no. This latest effort is the most determined.

"I'm open on it right now," said superintendent of schools Daniel Lee, one of five members on Needham's study committee. "We have our first meeting Tuesday night. I've been going over enrollment figures. I've been interested in the geographical situation. I've been looking at the possibility of realigning within the DCSL. I've looked at apply to the UCAL.

"Frankly, I'm leaning towards the UCAL. I think it would be better not only geographically, but because we share a rural commonality."

Saugerties is indeed tiny when it compares with many other DCSL schools. Its current enrollment is 1494. That stacks up poorly with schools like Arlington, John Jay and Kingston, all twice its size. Next year Newburgh Free Academy, another giant, comes in full-time. It is already competing in some sports.

If Saugerties goes into the UCAL, however, its 1494 would be the largest figure. Lee has the digits on the tip of his tongue and he quickly recites the 434 at Fallsburgh, the 584 at Coleman, the 616 at Liberty, the 717 at New Paltz. The largest school in the UCAL is Pine Bush at 1269. The word is Pine Bush is all but assured the berth its seeking in the Orange County League. So much for Pine Bush in the UCAL. Lee knows what the numbers spell.

"It means we'll be doing to the UCAL what the other schools are doing to us in the DCSL." He's not necessarily talking about wins and losses but size. How much one translates into the other is where we came in.

Meanwhile, Lee and athletic director Fred Seither have been campaigning. Past occurrences indicate the response from UCAL ADs will be anti-admission. At least one already indicated that to the Freeman.

The difference this time, though, could be the cases of Newburgh and Pine Bush. The former was without a home for six years after the DUSO folded. Nobody wanted NFA and the problems they saw this big city school bringing into the country league. After a time, NFA threatened to get the state to step in. Before that became necessary, it was accepted. Pine Bush, meanwhile, will leave a hole in the formerly compact UCAL. Previously, Saugerties would be intruding on a nice setup. Now, it might be just the school to take over, and with only an increase of a couple of hundred to the league's enrollment chart.

"I have mixed emotions," said Seither, who originally was not listed as a member of Needham's committee (school attorney Albert Hdrlicka and board members Everett Vail and Ray Fuller are the others), but was included when the president realized the "oversight".

"We've always had a good relationship with the DCSL. But as the other schools get larger and we add schools like Kingston and Newburgh, it gets kind of tough to compete with our kids."

Seither is only too aware that football has had the most problem. He coached the varsity team for years until stepping down last spring, after a second straight winless season.

"In other sports you don't need the kind of numbers you need in football and that's where enrollment figures come in. And in the other sports, like basketball and track and this year baseball, there is a split into two divisions, and that's helped."

Seither insisted he doesn't look upon the current state of the football team (still winless under new coach Hank Smith following Saturday's 38-0 loss, just as it had been winless for two years under Seither) as one which has taken the critical heat off him.

"I haven't given that a thought. This team is fairly young, they're in a tough league. But they're good kids, they have hustle and desire."

Lee indicated that the general feeling locally is to wait and see how Smith's youngsters develop over the long haul before making any value judgements of that type.

But the timing of Needham's committee formation and his own admission of frustration are a little closer to the man on the street.

Saugerties' sports-minded residents finally realize the DCSL is not for them. Now they must convince UCAL officials their league is.

Vizvary Will Live With Ulster's New Policies

George Vizvary has heard the critics and the whispers for quite some time now. He built a successful and nationally prominent soccer program from nothing at Ulster County Community College, but got criticized due to some of his means. His use of players from outside the county was the main complaint.

Vizvary has heard all of it and more. And now he has a few things to say, beyond the facts that he'll be back at UCCC next year and that he'll live with the new recruiting policies set forth by UCCC president Robert T. Brown.

"It hurts," he said of the new policies. "To stay at the top, you don't make it in one year. It took us eight years...Some people go through life as it presents itself and do nothing about it. Others shoot for high accomplishments. I'm one of those persons. I have a responsibility to the college, the county, New York State and the U.S.A. to promote soccer as best as I can."

So will he be able to live with Brown's policies which limit recruiting to mostly within Ulster County? Can he live with policies which will gladden county residents but will take away much of the glory attached to UCCC soccer and basketball?

"I have to live with it," he said. "Certainly I have some resistance to it. But knowing how it happened, I'll do my best to live with it."

Vizvary is a reporter's delight when it comes to quotes. His bluntness and thinly veiled sarcasm make for great copy. So it was when he said: "The new policies are a result of polluted foreplay, a result of many undesirable conditions and happenings from the past. They prompted Brown to make a move to control athletics. Chances are, I would've made the same decisions that Brown did, due to pressure from people on recruiting."

The "polluted foreplay" is past recruiting policy, the type which results in forfeits of an entire season (is Michael of Arabia listening?).

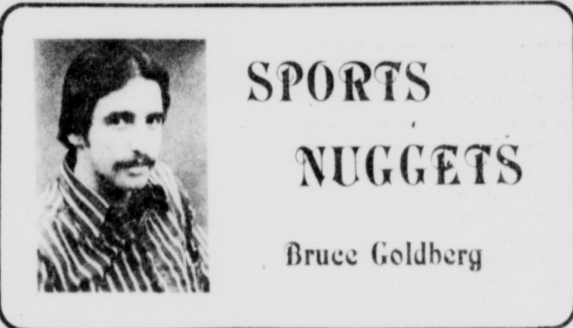

"The way I interpret Brown," said Vizvary, "is that eventually, it will come anyway (the use of county players) As we phase out the 'sought-after' students, we'll phase in more local talent. After the next three or four years, we'll see maybe 70 per cent local players on teams and 30 per cent from the outside."

Vizvary feels that the critics were the final factor in getting Brown to change the recruiting policies. He has a message for them.

"A handful of people in the community are constant complainers about our recruiting policies. They are misinformed. They think we are handing out scholarships on a silver platter," he said.

UCCC has no athletic scholarships.

"I hear through the grapevine that we should use local talent," Vizvary said. "And I ask them: please give me local talent. The material that comes is inferior...You want a player who is 10 years old now to be a varsity player when he is 18? Then what are you doing about it? Did you go to a county legislator and demand a soccer stadium? I started the Mid-Hudson Soccer Association. I moved and lined fields, constructed goal posts—where were the critics then?

"In Ulster County," Vizvary added, "we don't have enough qualified coaches, we don't have enough parents who care, we don't have enough facilities for youngsters to learn to play soccer. In the past, a player from the county has come out for my team with limited ability at age 18, asking for a place on a team that has reached a high junior college level. Some of them had only 10 months of total soccer experience, four high school seasons of two and one-half months each.

"The level of Ulster County soccer is not as good as in the strongholds of soccer where the parents have taken an interest. Ulster County is not known as a stronghold of athletics. A (county) player comes here from a losing background with bad facilities. When they come here at age 18, there's not much you can teach them in two years."

Vizvary feels UCCC started out with "three strikes against us" in recruiting county athletes. "First, a young man doesn't want to stay at home in college. He may want to go away and spend possibly the four best years of his life. Second, his parents believe their child would not gain as good an education at Ulster as at a 'Poison Ivy' League school. Third, there's a misbelief among youngsters that we're not a strong academic school. That's not true. The students who come here find out very pleasantly about our school."

Some excellent local players have distinguished themselves in UCCC soccer. Dave Farrell, a Kingston High School graduate now at the University of Baltimore, was

LeCar Proves Unlikely Racer at Lime Rock

It was a day of wine and racing at Lime Rock Park last Saturday as Renault U.S.A. hosted Le Car Grand Finale. Sanctioned by the Sports Car Club of America as an official showroom stock sedan race, the event was also a lavish and successful promotion for Renault, which provided French hospitality at its finest for its guests.

On the surface the Renault Le Car is an unlikely racer. Compact sedans with a top speed of maybe 90 m.p.h., Le Cars are seemingly more suited to weekly dashes to the supermarket than to actual racing. The little French cars are tough, reliable and quick, however. Renault discovered that Le Cars dominated their class in showroom stock sedan racing and hit upon the idea of the Le Car Grand Finale as a promotional vehicle for their product.

I was told that more than one hundred entries were received from Le Car racers all over the country. About 70 showed up at Lime Rock including cars from as far away as Utah and California.

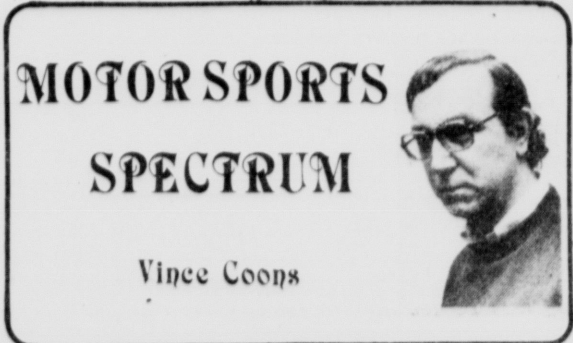

The races turned out to be nothing less than great. After two heats to determine starting position, some 40 Le Cars roared (well, hummed) down to take the green flag.

Veteran showroom stock racer Paul Hacker and long time rival "Dyno Don" Sherman of Car & Driver Magazine immediately began to pull away from the pack and locked in a race-long duel for first place. In the course of the 25-lap race the lead changed hands at least 10 times and the leaders were never more than a car length apart. Toward the end it looked as if Sherman had the win, but in a daring and skillful move Hacker got inside on Lime Rock's notorious Big Bend forcing Sherman to take to the grass. With less than three laps remaining, Sherman was unable to make up the deficit, and Hacker held his lead to the end.

The Le Car Grand Finale was one of the most entertaining and ex-citing events this reporter has attended with more real racing than in many "big time" events. One hopes that Renault will see fit to make this an annual event or even a series.

Andretti, Hunt Win Poles

GOTEMBA, Japan (UPI) — Mario Andretti and James Hunt won pole positions among the 23 drivers from 15 nations who will demonstrate their skills in the Japan Grand Prix Sunday, this year's 17th and final Formula 1 world championship race.

Although the event has lost some of its luster with Austria's Nikki Lauda out of it after being declared the year's world champion, tens of thousands of fans are expected to pay admission fees ranging from $5 to $118 to see the race.

Top favorites are Andretti of the United States and Hunt of Britain, who won the pole positions following qualifying sessions held Friday and Saturday over the 73-lap, 2.71 mile Fuji International Speedway circuit.

Andretti, 37, broke the course lap time of one minute 12.77 seconds he established last year.

in Troy that were for sale, along with the building, for back taxes. For one reason or another Jim missed the auction but learned that a service station owner had bought both cars. In deep winter he arrived at the station to find the HAL and another car, unidentifiable because it was literally covered with snow.

After a little negotiation Jim paid cash on the spot (he won't say how much) and became the owner of the HAL and the mystery car.

After some snow shoveling, Jim discovered he had purchased a Miller together with trailer and numerous spare parts. Several years and some dollars later, Jim Haynes toured his track at Lime Rock in his fully-restored, circa 1930 Miller Sprint car, a collector's item if there ever was one.

The moral of this story, vintage car fans, is that there are a few out there, hidden in barns or maybe even under three feet of snow.

Two major end of season races fell victim to the continuing bad weather. Albany-Saratoga Speedway's Super Shoot Out III became super wash out for the third time last Saturday. C.J. Richards advises that he's rescheduled the Shoot Out for April 1, 1978.

Glenn Donnelly's Schaeffer 100 at Syracuse was the other, victim of the weather. This classic will run on Sunday, April 15, 1978.

Today, weather permitting, Orange County Fair Speedway will run the Eastern States 200. Twenty-four modified qualified in heat races Saturday. Starting at 1 p.m. today, two modified consolations will be run with four cars qualifying from each. At 3 p.m. the Eastern States 200 will take the green flag.

This is the last and best race of the year in this area. Tickets are still available. Don't miss it.

Pine Bush Stops Coleman In UCAL Soccer Surprise

KINGSTON—Pine Bush High School pulled the upset of the Ulster County Athletic League soccer season Friday as the Bushmen recorded their first victory, a 3-1 overtime conquering of visiting Coleman.

The PB victory gave Rondout Valley a little breathing room at the top. The Ganders helped themselves with a 3-0 shutout of Fallsburgh. In the other UCAL game, Onteora absorbed its second consecutive pounding, 7-2, at the hands of New Paltz.

The Statesmen got on the scoreboard first against PB with Mike Conti's goal at 23:28 of the second half. Conti took a leading pass from Tom Palmer and shot it past goalkeeper Kevin Findlay from 10 yards out. Findlay had replaced the injured Steve Wilken in the first half.

The Bushmen knotted the score when Ralph Cassagnol scored his fourth goal of the season with less than four minutes remaining. Bushmen Ray Harrington and Jim Zingerman both scored in the first overtime to wrap up the game. Neither had scored in a UCAL game before Friday.

"We felt we could beat them," said PB assistant coach Bill Stevens. "This is the best we've played all season. In the first half, we had the ball at their end of the field 90 per cent of the time."

Rondout also enjoyed one of its best games of the season in improving its league-leading record to 5-0-1. The Ganders outshot the Comets, 21-5.

Midfielder John Schaffer, overlapping into Fallsburgh penalty area, took a pass from Tyrone Dumas and pushed it past goalie George DeGrau to make it 1-0 at 9:07 of the first half. Mike Mills chipped one over DeGrau's head and Tom Byer scored on a penalty kick in the second half.

"We played well today," said RVC coach Andy Lutz. "Everybody took part in the action. We had one of our best passing games."

He cited hallbacks Dan Barry and Victor Cymbal and fullback Rich Kump for good play.

Rich Siegel and Scott Taylor scored twice each for the Huguenots as they were at Fallsburgh. 0-0-0. Rondout 1-2-3. 1st half: Schaffer (Dumas) 9:07. 2nd half: Mills 9:48; Byer (penalty kick) 16:54. SOG: F-5, R-21; CK: F-0, R-3; GS: F (DeGrau)-13, R (Little)-3.

KINGSTON—Pine Bush High School earned its way into the Section Nine girls field hockey tournament Friday with a 2-1 win over Ellenville to clinch the fourth and final berth from the Ulster County Athletic League. The game didn't count in the UCAL standings.

Pine Bush got goals from Sue Sawyer and Francine Jenks and outshot Ellenville, 11-7. Aranetta Wright tallied for Ellenville.

In a regular season UCAL game, Red Hook, which had already clinched a spot in the sectionals, blanked Rondout Valley, 4-0.

Altomare Sparks Kingston Booters, 7-1

KINGSTON—Kingston High School equalled its best offensive explosion of the season Friday as the Tigers walloped homestanding Webutuck, 7-1, in a Dutchess County Scholastic League soccer game.

Saugerties was shut out for the fourth time this season as John Jay posted a 1-0 victory. In other DCSL games Friday, Arlington (12-2) held on to the top spot with a 4-1 win over Rhinebeck, and Spackenkill (11-2) defeated Roosevelt, 5-0.

Peter Altomare rammed home four goals for KHS (11-2) to equal a single game school record he already shared with Erik ten Broeke.

Altomare's hot foot gave him 23 goals in 13 games, just over one-half of Kingston's 45 goals scored. David F. Jordan added two goals for a season total of 13. Altomare had two assists, Jordan one, and John Markes produced a goal and two assists. He leads the team in assists with nine.

The Tigers did their scoring in just 40 minutes of playing time as Jordan began it at 25:00 of the first half and wrapped it up at 29:30 of the second half. In between, Altomare had three consecutive goals on his way to four. The hottest streak came in the second half, three goals in under five minutes from Altomare (7:30), Markes (8:40) and Altomare (12:15).

KHS outshot Webutuck, 36-12. Jay Binney, who hasn't allowed a goal in his last 250 minutes, and Ed Barnoski split the goalkeeping for KHS.

Kingston had seven goals in its second game and first win of the season, 7-1 over John Jay on Sept. 21.

"The whole team played really well," said KHS coach Ron Chiasson. "Fred Muller was great at fullback. I haven't seen any DCSL fullback I'd take over him. It was probably our finest game of the year."

The prettiest goal was No. 5 when Greg Putnam dribbled three-quarters the length of the field and fed Markes with a ground pass in front of the Webutuck net that Markes pushed in.

Saugerties (5-8) outshot John Jay, 29-18, but Jim Wood's goal in the 23rd minute of the second half was all the victors needed. JJ goalie Frank DiConstanzo stopped 24 SHS shots while Tim Sheehan made 13 saves for SHS.

SHS coach Tony Elia praised midfielder Andy Limeri, fullback Dave Martin and forwards Bobby Benzenhoefer and Chris Bishop for their play.

Two JJ players were ejected for illegal sliding tackles. The Kingston High School junior varsity soccer team played its second tie of the

Suffolk Harriers Sweep

STONE RIDGE—Mike Robles of Suffolk Community College set a course record and his team almost made a clean sweep in a double-dual cross country meet Friday as it defeated both Orange and Ulster. Robles' time of 28:01.7 broke the old course mark of 28:11 held by Stu Gardiner of Sullivan CC. It was set on Oct. 6, 1976.

Suffolk defeated Ulster, 15-49, and topped Orange, 16-45.

Summary:	Orange 24, Ulster 31	Suffolk 15, Orange 45

Ulster fell to 0-5 on the season as it also lost to Orange, 24-31.

The first four finishers were from the Long Island school, as was the sixth man. Ulster's first finisher was Gerard Cooke, ninth in a personal best of 30:06 over the five-mile course.

The Senators were missing both Joe Olender, their top runner, and Greg Rafferty, due to injured ankles.

"I think if we had them, we could've beaten Orange," said UCCC coach Mark Cranfield. "Suffolk was very strong. They almost swept both of us."

The Senators will host Delhi at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

It's All Red Hook at UCAL Cross Country Meet

By BRUCE GOLDBERG
Freeman staff

BROWN STATION—Red Hook High cross country coach Jim (Buddha) Cauldwell emerged from the Ashokan Campsite lake, dripping wet but smiling after being tossed in by his runners. "I knew they couldn't do it!" he yelled.

What the Raiders couldn't do was fully immerse Cauldwell in the traditional victory celebration Friday after the Ulster County Athletic League meet. But the Raiders did everything else exceptionally well as they won all three races and took home the cider keg for the first time since its inception as an award in 1972.

In the battle for the overall UCAL championship, which combines the results from regular season dual meets with the finish in the UCAL championship meet, Coleman took a 20-19 lead over Red Hook. But the Raiders have an excellent shot at adding the final two deciding points Tuesday in a double dual meet with Highland and Liberty. It is one of three postponed, regular season-ending dual meets on the schedule that day.

The boys varsity race turned out even tighter than expected as Red Hook edged the Statesmen by just one point, 46-47. Pine Bush, making perhaps its final appearance in this meet (the school may enter the Orange County League for 1978-79) finished third with 80 points. New Paltz was fourth with 118, followed by Marlboro (121), defending champ Onteora (166), Wallkill (193), Highland (201), Ellenville (212), Liberty (237), Fallsburgh (288) and Rondout Valley (316).

Pre-meet favorite Rick Hoss of Red Hook won the three-mile race in 16:55, nine seconds and three places better than in 1976. Coleman's status looked pretty healthy as Jim Clarkin and Armand Benincasa came next across the finish line. But Red Hook's point-scorers (Hoss, Joe Kilmer fifth, Jon Dalzell seventh, Carl Schneider tenth, Ralph Pulver 23rd) managed to squeak by Coleman's (Clarkin, Benincasa, Steve McCordie 11th, Anthony Naghsh 15th, John Gibbons 16th).

The top 10 was rounded out with Kevin Kremer (PB, fourth), Mike Quinn (PB, sixth), Alex Bourdage (Marlboro, eighth) and Scott Thom (Wallkill, ninth).

"Man, am I happy," said Cauldwell. "I couldn't be happier with these guys. I've had these seven guys for four long years. They prepared and were ready."

Cauldwell's sixth and seventh men were Eric Whipple (31st) and Pat Mahoney (37th).

RVC's Bill Walsh missed the start of the race and didn't have a finishing time. Had he finished as high as expected, he may have caused displacement that could have changed the outcome of the Red Hook-Coleman battle.

Doriane Lambelet of Onteora won the girls race in 21:02, 42 seconds and one place better than in 1976. Again Coleman took second (Donna Wallace) and third (defending champ Betty Ann Jerkowski, who aggravated her ankle injury). Lorraine Farino (Marlboro), Lynda Devitt (RH), Mimi Emig (Onteora), Kim Simmons (Red Hook), Tracy King (Wallkill), Lisa Yusavitz (Liberty) and Elaine Cannon (Coleman) were in the top 10.

Red Hook took the girls race with 51 points, followed by Onteora (71) and Coleman (74).

Jim Rhodes of Marlboro won (See RH, page 40)

Jets Host Patriots Must Begin Making Their Move Against Colts

Jets Host Raiders

NEW YORK (UPI) — The World Champion Oakland Raiders have fallen to second place in their division and Ken Stabler is ranked dead last among starting quarterbacks in the AFC but Coach John Madden scoffs at any talk of complacency hurting his club.

"Those are the things some people write after you win the Super Bowl," Madden said earlier this week as he prepared his club to face the New York Jets Sunday. "They put it in a desk until you lose a game and then they plop it in."

The Raiders saw their 17-game winning streak end abruptly last Sunday when the Denver Broncos blasted them 30-7. Stabler, the Most Valuable Player in the Super Bowl rout of Minnesota in January, had seven passes intercepted in one of his most dismal days as a pro.

"It wasn't fun looking at those films," said Madden. "We go over mistakes so they don't happen again and then we want to forget about it. When it's your first loss in 18 games and that loss is 30-7 with eight turnovers, it's a depressing thing but it's something that had to be done."

"We just have to get ourselves going again, do the things we've been doing all along when we were winning. We have to start against the Jets and we can't take them lightly. We have a lot of respect for the New England Patriots — we barely beat them in the playoffs last year — and we're impressed with the fact that the Jets beat them."

"I'm also impressed with Richard Todd. He's shown tremendous improvement and he's the kind of quarterback who can put pressure on a defense. He's big and strong, can run the ball and can throw it. He can hurt you a lot of ways."

Todd, the second-year pro who like Stabler is a product of the University of Alabama, is ranked fifth in the AFC passing statistics.

Oakland's loss left the Raiders at 4-1, a game behind unbeaten Denver in the AFC West. New York is 2-3 under new coach Walt Michaels, who began his coaching career as an assistant at Oakland.

But the Jet team that beat New England might not be on the field against Oakland Sunday. Injuries to key personnel have hurt the Jets and there will be several second-line players in the defensive lineup against one of the most explosive offenses in football.

Outsider linebacker Bob Martin is definitely out and strong safety Shafer Suggs is doubtful. Tackle Carl Barzilauskas is questionable and linebacker Greg Buttle and end Lawrence Pillers will play despite injuries.

On offense, Marvin Powell, the No. 1 draft choice from Southern California, is questionable with a sore knee, wide receivers Richard Caster and David Knight are probable and rookie Kevin Long is scheduled to start at fullback in place of another rookie, Charles White.

"I'm not afraid of them," said Long, the first 1,000-yard rusher in history at South Carolina. "I know about the Oakland and the Pittsburghs. They try to intimidate you. They like to do things like throw punches at you but you can't let them ruin your mind. You've got to go out and play your game."

By UPI

The time has come for the New England Patriots.

If the Patriots intend to get into the AFC Eastern Division title race, they must defeat the unbeaten Baltimore Colts today at Foxboro, Mass.

The Colts, second only to New England in the AFC scoring race, have reeled off five consecutive victories and lead the Patriots, now 3-2, by two games. In between are the Miami Dolphins at 4-1; if New England intends to make the playoffs for a second straight year, they can't afford a loss today.

New England doesn't lack any confidence going in against the Colts.

"We feel we can run against any team and that's what we plan to do until someone proves us wrong," said fullback Sam Cunningham, the Patriots' leading rusher with 482 yards.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks will test the Colts' defense against the run.

"They're third in the league in defense against the run but their pass defense statistics aren't that good because they've shut other teams down running to the point where their opponents haven't tried to run on them," said Fairbanks.

"Also, other teams have been behind and have had to throw the ball a lot to catch up. That would account for a lot of the yardage gained passing against them because of the amount of times people have thrown against them."

The Colts and Patriots are very similar offensively. Both have good young quarterbacks — Bert Jones for Baltimore and Steve Grogan for New England — and both have solid running backs — Lydell Mitchell and Don McCauley for Baltimore and Cunningham and Don Calhoun for New England.

Both have strong tight ends in Ray Chester of the Colts and Russ Francis of the Patriots and the receiving corps are good, though not outstanding.

"McCauley and Mitchell are very good receivers and pretty good players," said Fairbanks. "They work hard yet open and they are difficult to cover. Jones has a special ability to be able to locate backs coming out of the backfield on the delay."

"If we can win this game, we help our own cause as far as having a chance to win the division rather than depending on someone else to beat Baltimore. A win is probably more important to us at this point, because of our record, than for them. They are undefeated and have a little more margin for error."

Baltimore Coach Ted Marchibroda exudes confidence over Jones.

"I can't say enough about Bert," said Marchibroda. "The thing that amazes me is the most is that he has done everything so quickly. He's picked up everything rapidly and he knows the defenses well now."

"I also think Steve is a great quarterback. He throws extremely well, he's tough and runs with the ball. I don't know what more you could want out of a quarterback."

The Patriots are 2½-point favorites to hand the Colts their first loss.

pa Bay, New Orleans at St. Louis and the New York Giants at Washington. Los Angeles plays host to Minnesota Monday night.

Dallas, the only unbeaten club in the NFC, is cruising along with a two-game lead and shouldn't get too much trouble from Philadelphia, which seems to be slowing down after a good start.

Atlanta, now 3-2 and tied for first in the NFC West with Atlanta, will try to hold that lead against Chicago, which needs a victory badly to get back into the NFC Central race.

Skins Need Win

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The bruised and battered Washington Redskins, who face "must win" situations every week trying to keep up with Dallas in the NFC East, try to break an annoying two-game losing streak against the New York Giants Sunday.

The Redskins, 3-2 and two games behind the Cowboys, lost more than a 34-16 decision at Dallas last Sunday. Fullback John Riggins and special teams ace Bob Brunet suffered injuries that will keep them sidelined weeks, if not the rest of the year, and several other Redskins came home with bruises and sprained ankles.

The news from the Redskin defensive unit, which carried the team until the Dallas game, is not good either. Linebacker Chris Hanburger, who calls the defensive signals, is listed as a doubtful starter with a knee injury, and cornerback Pat Fischer's pinched back nerve problem is becoming chronic.

Mike Curtis is expected to start for Hanburger, with Gerard Williams filling in for Fischer. Williams, a second-year player, was burned for two long touchdown passes in the Dallas loss.

Still, even with all the hurts, coach George Allen feels the Redskins are ready.

"When you're 3-2, the next game is a very big game," he said. "What we need, which we haven't had, are a lot of big plays. That's what has been slowing us down."

The Redskins are 11-2 against the Giants in the Allen era, but the two losses have come in the last two meetings, both at Giants' Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J. Last year, the Giants handed the Redskins a 12-7 loss that nearly ruined their season, then upset them 20-17 in this year's opener with 10 points in the final three minutes.

Giant quarterback Jerry Goldsteyn, who engineered that upset, has since been replaced by another rookie, Joe Pisarcik, who completed just two of six passes last week in a 20-17 upset win over San Francisco. Pisarcik, who likes to put the ball up, defended coach John McVay's decision to pass so little.

"There was a 20 mile an hour wind and we jumped out to a 17-3 lead real quickly, and they couldn't move the ball," said Pisarcik. "I talked to the coaches about it ... You have to play conservative sometimes. Maybe we played too conservatively. But we won the game, and that's what counts."

The Giants are mostly healthy. Defensive end George Martin, who returned an interception for a touchdown against the Redskins in the opener and also suffered a knee injury, is "probable" to return Sunday. On offense, wide receiver Emery Moorehead (hand injury) and tackle Ron Mokolajczyk (knee) are probable.

Bob Hammond (188 yards) and Doug Kotar (182) lead the Giant rushing attack.

Martha Bennett scored six points to pace the NP victory. The Hawks are 12-3 on the season. They visit Syracuse Tuesday to face the Orange and RIT.

UCCC Beats Hudson Valley

STONE RIDGE—Ulster County Community College's women's volleyball team climbed over the .500 mark Friday with a 15-6, 12-15, 9-15, 15-10, 15-10 marathon victory over Hudson Valley Community College.

It was UCCC's fourth win in seven matches to date.

Dorian Kruse led the Ulster offense with 16 points. Cheryl Clifton had 15 and Micki Stiphen notched 10. Coach Cathy Swenson also cited the play of Cindy Baldus and Anna Westlund.

Ulster visits Concordia Wednesday and closes the season Oct. 31 at home against Columbia-Greene.

Senators Win In Tennis

STONE RIDGE—Losing only four games in four matches Saturday, the Ulster County Community College women's tennis team won its first match in five tries with a 4-0 blanking of Westchester CC.

In singles matches, Joanne Winslow defeated Diane Jaulus, 6-0, 6-4; Sandy Mancuso downed Aretta Fleming, 6-0, 6-0; and Linda Van Wagner bested Kate Walsh, 6-0, 6-0. Rosie Provenzano teamed with Van Wagner to win the doubles match over Fleming-Walsh, 6-0, 6-0.

UCCC will visit Nassau on Monday.

Marist Takes Soccer Match

POUGHKEEPSIE—Goals by Firmino Naitza and Joe Curthays led Marist College to a 2-1 soccer victory Saturday over New York Institute of Technology. The win raised Marist to 7-2-1 and may have strengthened its bid for a post-season tournament berth.

The Marist cross country team beat Stony Brook, 19-42, but lost to Fordham, 19-45. Marist finished the season at 10-5. Gene McCarthy of Fordham won the race in 25:27 over five miles. The first Marist finisher was Jerry Scholder, fourth in 26:02.

Kingston, Sawyer Spikers Win

KINGSTON—Kingston and Saugerties High Schools prepared for their girls volleyball showdown coming up on Tuesday with victories on Friday which kept them in the class of the Dutchess County Scholastic League along with Arlington.

Saugerties (10-1) subdued homestanding Poughkeepsie in a hurry, 15-1, 15-3. Shelly Pfeil served the final 13 points of game one and Tracy Craft served up the first 11 points of game two. "Peggy Hain, Sharon Misasi and Patti Conley played well on offense," said SHS coach Andrea Ungarsky, whose team hopes to have a new winning streak. The Sawyers suffered their first loss Wednesday.

Kingston was extended to three games before defeating Beacon, 15-3, 14-16, 15-5. The junior varsity also triumphed, 15-2, 15-10.

"We videotaped the games and I think they were playing for the cameras," joked KHS coach Pat Burke. "Everyone performed well in her specialty; Theresa Thomas in serving, Diana Eaton moved well on defense, Lynette Byrd in all-around play, Chenise Evans and Nancy Gallagher as setters and Michelle McLane is getting back on the track," noted Burke. The Tigers are 9-2.

In other DCSL games, Arlington topped Roosevelt, 15-1, 15-3; Spackenkill topped Lourdes, 15-10, 15-8; and John Jay downed Ketcham, 15-13, 15-9.

The standings:

Team	DCSL VOLLEYBALL	PCT
Arlington	10 1	.909
Saugerties	10 1	.909
Kingston	9 2	.818
John Jay	8 3	.727
Beacon	6 5	.545
Spackenkill	5 6	.454
Lourdes	4 7	.363
Poughkeepsie	2 9	.181
Ketcham	1 10	.090
Roosevelt	0 11	.000

Friday's Results

Kingston 2, Beacon 1

Saugerties 2, Poughkeepsie 0

Arlington 2, Roosevelt 0

Spackenkill 2, Lourdes 0

Accidents Mar Qualifying For Eastern States Race

MIDDLETOWN — Approximately 55 cars will take the green flag today when the Orange County Fair Speedway hosts the 15th annual Eastern States 200 stock car race. Over 136 cars have signed up, with more expected to turn out for the two consolation events preceding the main event. Action begins at 1 p.m.

Thirty cars survived the test during Saturday's qualifying heats, which were marred by numerous accidents, with none resulting in serious personal injury. The first five finishers in each heat race will be entered in today's event.

First heat qualifiers include Buzzie Reutimann, J. Allan, Howie Cronce, Bobby Green and Stan Wetmore. The results of the second heat saw Gary Balough take first, followed by Jack Johnson, Frankie Schneider, Jack Bertling and Bill Minge. From the third heat comes Rich Smith, Paul Rochelle, Don Kreitz, Jim Horton, and Carl Van Horn, while fourth heat qualifiers were Dave Knisel, Frank Calston, Tom Hager, and Nick Ronca.

In the fifth heat, it was Sammy Beavers ahead of Johnny Harrol, Billy Osmun, Paul Brooking, and Jerry Morgan, while the sixth heat produced Harry Behrent in first, followed by Rich Ricci, Phil Misner, Peppy Peppicelli, and Butch Riddle.

Bobby Bottcher elected to forego his guaranteed starting position and failed to qualify in his heat race. He will attempt to be among the finalists by placing well in today's consolation test.

Pate Leads Miller in Southern Open Golf

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — Jerry Pate utilized an eagle two on the sixth hole to maintain a three-stroke lead Saturday over Johnny Miller after three rounds of the Southern Open golf tournament.

Pate, who started the day with a four-shot lead, chipped in his second shot from 30 yards on the 335-yard sixth hole for his most spectacular shot of the day.

Pate, who said his putting was off a little from the first two rounds when he went nine under par, had only one birdie to go with that eagle, however, and settled for a one-under-par 69 and 54-hole total of 200. Miller shot a 68 to remain Pate's closest pursuer at 203. Defending champion Mac McLendon, who shared the No. 2 spot with Miller after 36 holes, finished with even-par 70 and is in a group of four players at 205.

Andy Bean is also in that foursome after firing the day's best round, a six-under-par 64 which matched Pate's opening round. That enabled the former University of Florida star to jump from a tie for 31st place into a tie for third.

George Archer's 68 and Wally Armstrong's 69 also left them knotted with Bean and McLendon as 22 players remained under par over the 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.

Pate started the day with a bogey at one, considered the most difficult hole on the course, and saw his lead cut to two strokes as Miller birdied the third hole. But that was as close as anybody could get to Pate, the 1976 U.S. Open champ.

His eagle at six gave him a five-stroke advantage, his widest lead of the day.

Miller admitted his putting and irons were very good but was disappointed in his driving. He had birdie putts of 14, 12 and eight feet and chipped in from 60 feet on No. 14.

Bean blistered the front side of the course and turned in four-under-par 31. Playing with a new set of irons, he had six birdies without a bogey.

"My iron game was really good," he said. "I didn't get into any trouble."

Knicks Rip Bullets; Nets Lose

NEW YORK (UPI) — Earl Monroe led a balanced New York scoring attack that saw eight men in double figures with 22 points as the Knicks routed the Washington Bullets 141-115 Saturday night.

Leading 62-55 at the half, the Knicks, now 2-0, ran off an 8-1 spurt at the start of the second half and were never in trouble after that. They scored 79 points in the second half, including 40 in the third quarter which put them ahead 102-81.

Bob McAdoo, who missed Tuesday's opener with a leg injury, came off the bench to score 20 points for the Knicks, while Spencer Haywood added 18 and rookie Toby Wright had 17.

Elvin Hayes led the Bullets, now 1-1, with 26 points, 17 in the first half, while Mitch Kupchak had 18. Rookie Greg Ballard had 16 second-half points.

BUFFALO (UPI) — The Buffalo Braves, surviving a scoring rampage by New Jersey rookies Bernard King and Mark Crow, rode Billy Knight's 29 points to a 101-96 victory Saturday night over the Nets to stay unbeaten in the National Basketball Association.

King, the Nets' number one draft choice from Tennessee, poured in 12 of his team-high 26 points in the final quarter and Crow, a first-year man from Duke, got into the game in the last period and responded with 13 points. But the spree by King and Crow failed to avert the Nets' third straight loss without a win this season.

The Braves, in front 50-43 at half-time and enjoying a 71-55 lead late in the third period, had to scramble to hold off New Jersey. The Nets' leading scorer, Al Skinner, three times pulled New Jersey to within five points, the last with six seconds remaining at 101-96.

Buffalo guards Randy Smith and Chuck Williams tallied 22 and 16 points, respectively, and John Shumate added 13 as the Braves won their second straight at home prior to starting a four-game road trip. Smith limited Skinner to one field goal before the New Jersey guard got untracked during the final-period rally and finished with 10 points.

Former Brave Bird Averitt collected 18 points for the Nets and Darnell Hillman scored 11 before fouling out with 2:53 left in the game. Buffalo's Sven Nater collected 12 rebounds and Shumate 10, while King led the Nets' inbound work with 10 and had three assists.

Rondout Center Makes Plans For Cage Loop

KINGSTON — The Rondout Neighborhood Center will hold an organizational meeting for its basketball league at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday. The meeting will be at the center, located across from City Hall.

Teams interested in playing should have a representative at this meeting.

•RH
the junior varsity race in 18:03. The Raiders' total of 32 was ahead of 33-11-11 (54) and four others.

In the overall standings, Pine Bush (18), New Paltz (16), Marlboro (12), Onteora (11), Walkkill (nine), Ellenville (seven), Highland (six), Liberty (three), RVC (two) and Fallsburgh (one) trail the leaders.

The other Tuesday UCLAL meets are Marlboro and Walkkill at Fallsburgh, and Onteora at RVC.

The Section Nine meet follows on Saturday at Bear Mountain. Red Hook is expected to compete, despite any hemias suffered while carrying Cauldwell to the lake.

UNITED WAY DIALERS

New York Telephone, as part of United Way of Tri-State, recently held a kick-off of the Ulster County drive with these team leaders representing union/management—Rick Martini, seated left, C.W.A. Phyllis Whitaker, management coordinator for Ulster County; and standing, William Beal, C.W.A. and Mary Tillou.

Area Briefs

Debate Set

WOODSTOCK — All candidates running for Town of Woodstock offices this fall will debate the issues with the public on Thursday, Nov. 3, at 8 p.m. in Town Hall.

The Woodstock Democratic and Republican Committees, cosponsors of the event, urge all interested voters to attend.

Candidates of both parties, seeking the offices of supervisor, councilmen, town clerk, town justice and highway superintendent will speak at the Candidates Night, the only one scheduled in Woodstock during the campaign.

Welfare Reform

KINGSTON — Ronald Meyer, a Republican seeking a seat on the County Legislature from the City of Kingston, says he will take his fight for welfare reform to the state capital if necessary.

The candidate says the "working man is treated like a second class citizen" while "third and fourth family generations of welfare are sitting on their duffs collecting what amount to more than half of the Ulster County budget."

Meyer, a former member of the city board of education, says all able bodied social service recipients should be put to work "cleaning our parks and highways, painting our public buildings or working with senior citizens."

He said the county can set an example for welfare reform.

Meyer is being backed by the local chapter of the Civil Service Employees Association.

Can Low Voltage Hurt You

Elementary School Fire Raises Questions

WOODSTOCK—A smoke fire at the Woodstock Elementary School Wednesday afternoon raised questions more important than why 480 children had to stand coatless in the drizzle for 20 minutes. One of the main questions is: Can a brown out, or low voltage situation, cause your house to burn down?

Fires at the school and one at The Flowering Fish pet store on Mill Hill Road were caused by motors overheating due to the low voltage, according to Jeffrey Neher who was in charge of the firemen at the scene.

The lights in the school dimmed at about 12:45 p.m. Principal Ethel Donaldson pulled the fire alarm when smoke was seen coming from a storage room on the main floor, but, it didn't work. It, too, was affected by the low voltage. The smoke came from a ventilating fan.

Mrs. Donaldson directed the staff by a word of mouth chain to clear the school and this was accomplished in two minutes. "The staff and the children were wonderful. There was complete calm," Mrs. Donaldson said.

When the firemen arrived they ascertained that there would be no danger to bring the children into an unthreatened part of the school. "We used the smoke ejector and it worked beautifully," said fireman Neher.

The fire at the pet store was caused by an overheated motor that is used to aerate water in the fish tanks. In both cases, firemen disconnected the motors which were burnt out. The value of the motors was not determined.

There was no report of casualties among the fish but a squirrel was electrocuted and charred by 2,240 volts when he climbed a transformer at the Woodstock Central Hudson sub-station off Route 375. It was his body connecting a ground and a hot line that caused a 14 minute blackout for 500 customers and the brown out for about 350.

Superintendent of Schools,

Dr. Edward C. McFadden, rushed to the scene with the Ontario School District architect and engineer who, by chance, were working in the area. Dr. McFadden said a back-up emergency system for the fire alarm in the school is now under study. A recommendation by the architect and engineer is expected soon.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Audit Scores Ambulance Item

WOODSTOCK A state audit on the Town of Woodstock, released earlier this year, cited the town for making a $3,500 donation to the local Emergency Ambulance Squad. The town had no authority to use taxpayers' monies to support the ambulance squad, a volunteer group, the State Department of Audit and Control said.

The money donated to the squad by the town board came from revenue sharing funds. Such payments were illegal, auditors pointed out.

Following release of the audit, Supervisor Val Cadden was told by the state recently to reimburse the town's revenue sharing fund for the donation, made three years ago.

To balance the books, the town board has just transferred $3,500 from the contingency fund to the revenue sharing budget. That action makes that amount now available for allocation as revenue sharing.

The additional revenue sharing funds can certainly be used by the town or many of its organizational groups, Mrs. Cadden noted, but said she felt the illegality of the donation was "absolutely ridiculous."

Added the supervisor, "I still can't believe the town can't donate from revenue sharing to its own ambulance squad. Our volunteers have been of inestimable value to Woodstock."

Area Briefs

Sheriff's Drive Underway

KINGSTON The New York State Sheriff's Association has launched its honorary membership drive in Ulster County. Through funds collected, the association can operate its public service programs without calling for tax dollars.

A number of Ulster County residents will soon receive invitations for honorary membership, said Sheriff Thomas Mayone.

Any other residents wishing to join should contact the sheriff at 338-3640. Mayone said the cost of preparing and mailing the invitations is being paid by the association.

The association was founded as a non-profit corporation in 1934. Since then it has conducted training programs for sheriffs, awareness programs for the public and publishes a quarterly newsletter.

The association also runs a summer camp for disadvantaged youths across the state.

Gay Forum

WOODSTOCK An open forum on the problems of homosexuals will be sponsored by Woodstock Gay People on Thursday, Oct. 27 at 8 p.m. in the local Town Hall.

The forum will concentrate on the gay rights petition drive in Woodstock. The WGP has secured signatures on petitions requesting the Town Board to pass a gay rights resolution. Members of the group, emphasizing their minority status, urge a non-discrimination resolution for human rights in housing, employment and public accommodations on the basis of "race, color, ethnic background, sex, religion, age or sexual or affectional preference."

Ruth Simpson, WGP president, said the public forum will feature panel and open discussions "to explain the nature of our oppression." The community at large is invited to attend and express views on the meeting's themes, she said.

Koreans Deny Capitol Hill Bribe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The South Korean government Saturday denied it ran a Capitol Hill bribery operation and dismissed congressional testimony to that effect as "hearsay."

"Any wrongdoing that is said to have been done was not done with the knowledge, approval or cooperation of our government," Seoul's Washington embassy said in a statement intended to rebut three days of House testimony by former Korean officials.

It also, in effect, challenged the statements of special House Ethics Committee counsel Leon Jaworski and his deputy, Peter White, who say the covert, eight-year payoff operation can be traced to the Korean government itself.

"We are greatly disturbed by the allegations that have been made in congressional hearings," said the statement issued by embassy spokesman Su Doc Kim.

"Most of the testimony given during the course of the hearings has been based on hearsay... It is one thing to accept the word of the witnesses about what they saw and did themselves, and quite another to link the Korean government to the alleged illegal activities, as some of the witnesses have done."

On Friday, as the ethics panel concluded the first three days of public hearings in its long Korean lobbying probe, White said the testimony had eliminated any question as to whether a payoff operation had existed.

He said the evidence shows "an official plan was executed" and "tremendous sums of money were provided to Korean agents... to exert influence on American officials."

Jaworski himself was even more specific when he opened the hearings Wednesday.

"There are compelling indications," he said, "that the South Korean government, not only through (agent) Tongsun Park but as well through some elements in the government itself, was engaged in an effort to influence members of Congress by giving them valuable gifts."

The panel's public hearings have recessed, probably until next year, to give investigators time to develop the evidence they need to identify any members of Congress who may have been on the take. Jaworski said he still lacks adequate information on that score.

Some highlights of the testimony to date:

— Kim Hyung Wook, who ran the Korean CIA from 1963 to 1969, said he, businessman Tongsun Park and then Rep. Richard Hanna, D-Calif., cooked up Korea's original Washington payoff operation at a meeting in his Seoul office in 1968. He said Hanna helped set Park up as sole agent for California rice sales to Korea, a job that ultimately earned him $9.2 million, and to help Park distribute some of that money to key congressmen.

Kim Hyung Wook, a former chief of the Korean CIA, appears before the House Ethics Committee probe of the Korean bribery scandal Saturday and said in 1969 he had "with much ease" begun giving tens of thousands of dollars to U.S. Congressmen.

— Former KCIA agent Kim Sang Keun said he operated out of the Washington embassy as a middleman between the Seoul government and another lobby paymaster, businessman Hancho Kim.

On the Cover

The steps of the Kingston City Library boast a strand of laurel, ancient Greek symbol of honor and learning. This week Tempo devotes its pages to the library, its present, past and future, as it plans its move to new quarters. (Cover photo by Alan Carey)

Not all of our problems are going to be solved," says Caroline Matzen, cupping her face in the palm of one hand and surveying the jam of desks and papers and books and people that share her basement office. "But the base from which we'll be starting is so positive . . . so fresh . . . you can't help but get better."

The head librarian at Kingston library for the past eight years mentions in passing how she and her staff will finally have "room to breathe" in the "new" building, currently being renovated several blocks away. But she (and they) are more excited about what the expanded space and modernized facility will mean to library users and to the thousands of area residents who don't or can't visit the cramped turn-of-the-century building on Broadway.

Earlier this year the library board negotiated with the city school system to sell the 75-year-old library and one acre of land for $125,000 and take over the Sojourner Truth School on Franklin Street for a lease price of $1 a year for 99 years.

"What it means to us is double — more than double — the space. We can do so many things that are just impossible here. And it's going to be a place people will want to come to."

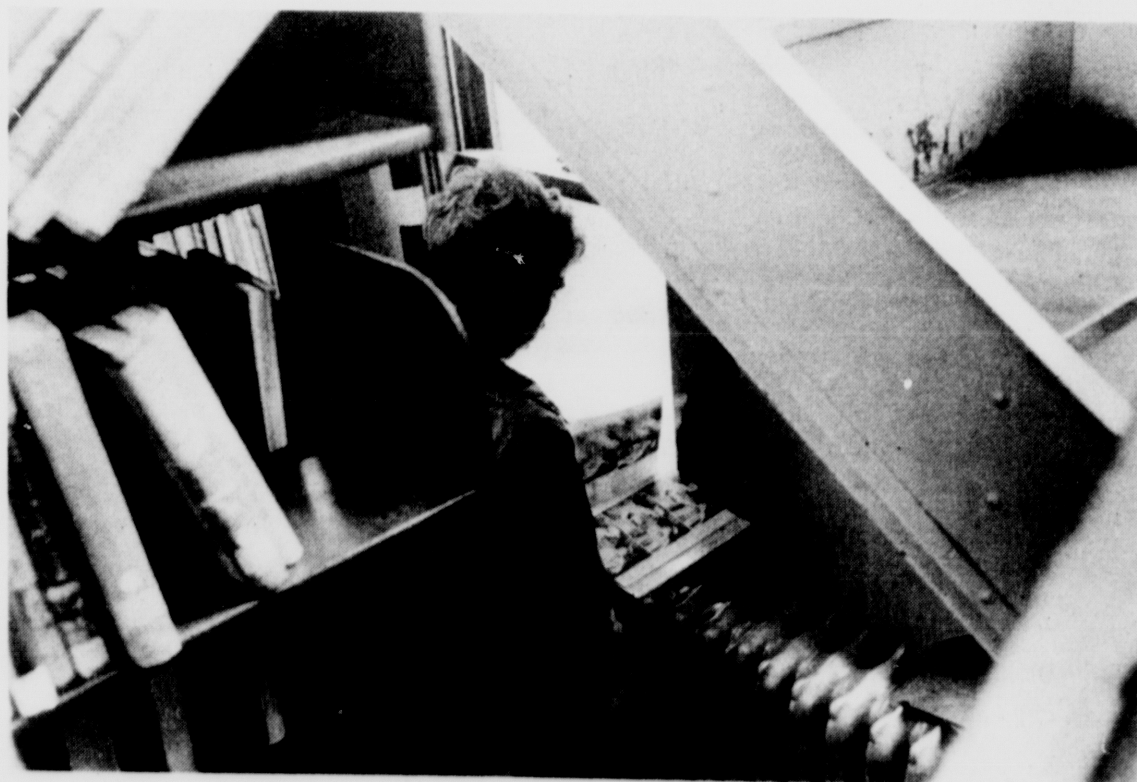

Mrs. Matzen, architect John McCullough and members of the library board use that phrase over and over.

"From the beginning that's what we had planned, opening up a whole new avenue to the community. We looked at an awful lot of options, but this was the one that adapted itself to the needs. And we've worked very hard to make it an attractive and comfortable place," says McCullough.

In completing the restoration work, McCullough, a lifelong Kingston resident, who remembers visiting the old No. 8 school with his high school singing group, says he tried to keep as much of the historical character of the building as possible.

"It's done in what is called Hudson River bracket style — built in two stages, 1878 and 1888. We've left most of the windows in to allow as much natural light as possible . . . and we're planning to re-create what was once an original Victorian-style entrance which was removed sometime after the building was built."

Although landscaping will have to be deferred until the library board can find a little more money in its slim budget, the architect, the board and the library staff have all contributed ideas and energy toward making the interior environment of the 16,000-square-foot edifice warm comfortable and functional.

"We'll have all new furniture, several couches . . . it will be completely carpeted. I know the board has spent a great deal of time selecting colors. They're so important. It will be a modern library," says Mrs. Matzen. "And it will be accessible to everyone."

Plans for the renovation include outdoor ramps for easy access by the handicapped or elderly, and the contractors will soon begin installing an elevator for persons who can't negotiate the stairs to the second-floor meeting rooms and children's library. "We've even designed the aisles at least three feet wide so that people in wheelchairs can move freely through the them."

As she tours the current library, pointing out piles of periodicals tucked away in corner closets, talking about sheet music and records and volumes stored or buried in the overstuffed crannies of the antiquated building, Mrs. Matzen talks about the hidden resources of her library that will soon see the light of day.

"I don't think people have any idea what we have here. We have 45,000 volumes — a very good selection of reference works, a great number of crafts and self-learn volumes, art history, and an excellent selection of periodicals.

"But a library is more than just books. Things have changed, and we just haven't had the space to display the other materials available to the public."

The new library will have a listening carol for the lending record collection, and room to set up a film cassette machine with its variety of teach-yourself materials on everything from the energy crisis to early American painters.

"We'll be able to provide film series, lectures, crafts demonstrations, special holiday projects — all of those things that are part of a modern library. I feel it should be and could be more of a community center."

Another major plus in Mrs. Matzen's eyes is the fact that "the whole library" will be back together again. "It was bad enough when they had to move the children's library next door, but after the fire (in 1975), that building had to be demolished and the children's section moved to two very small rooms in the Millard Building."

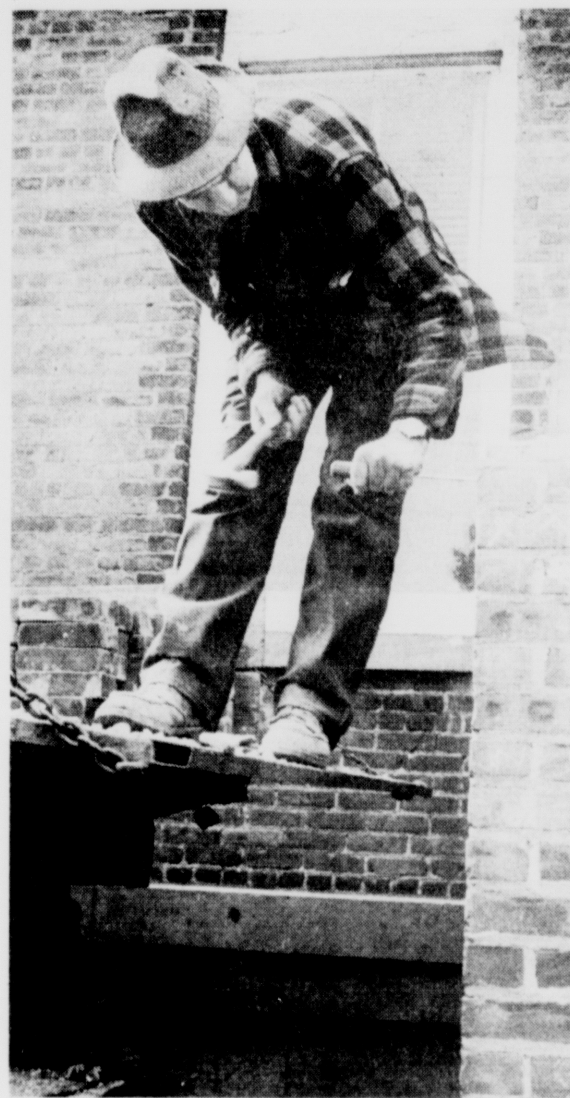

In the new library, half of the second floor will be devoted to the children, she explains, leaning over a model of the floor plan on display in the old library lobby. "We'll have plenty of comfortable seating, a story platform, and the people at Boces are building something new, a megaform, that is just a large carpeted structure that curves up and down on different levels so the kids can curl up and read if they want to."

"Libraries are more than books. Libraries are for people," says Caroline Matzen, in nothing of the hushed, forbidding whispers found so stifling in the libraries of her childhood.

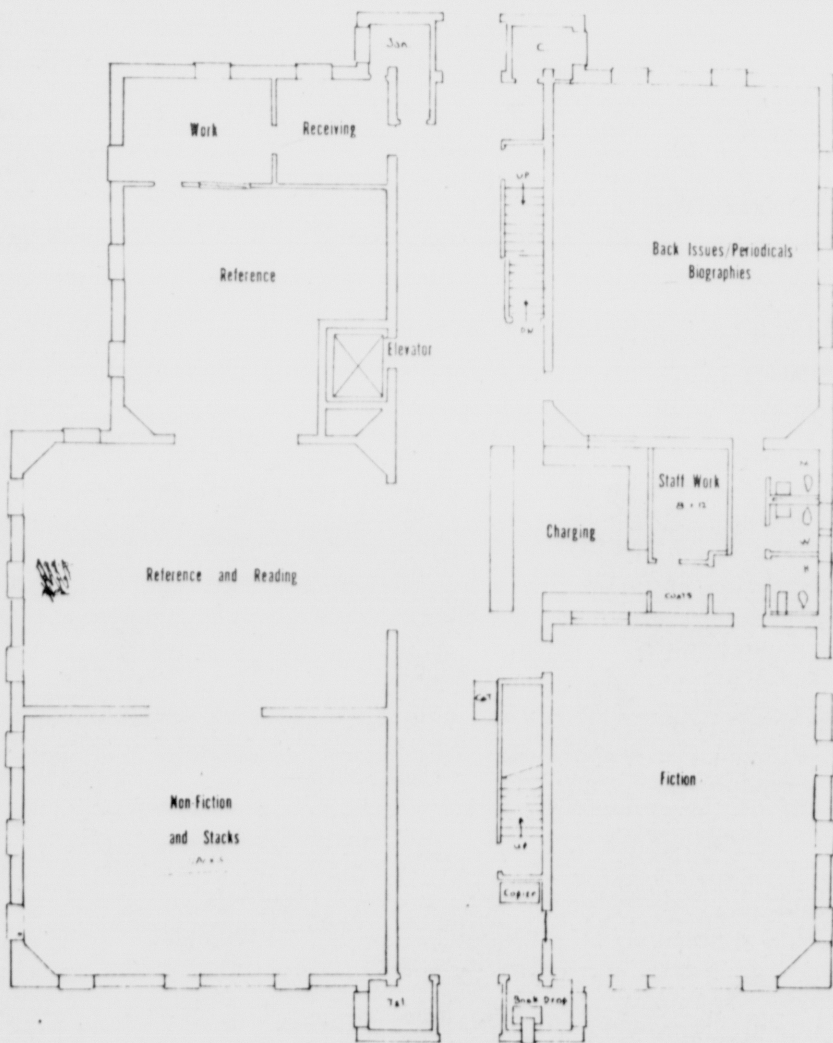

Kingston's new "people's" library opens early next year.

The Past Has Taken its Toll But the Future Looks Bright

It was said of Samuel D. Coykendall by turn-of-the-century Kingstonians that "when he does things he does them right and does not spare expense." So, when Coykendall bought a lot on Broadway opposite the City Hall in the summer of 1902 and gave it to the new library, the future looked bright for the fledgling institution.

After all, Coykendall was a wealthy industrialist whose support would insure the success of any project. His Cornell Steamboat Company dominated traffic on the Hudson River. His Ulster and Delaware Railroad never lacked for passengers or freight and, when he conceived Kingston Point Park as a resort for entertainment and amusement, people came by the thousands from every river city.

Another charity-minded industrialist, Andrew Carnegie, with a fortune in Pittsburgh steel, sweetened Coykendall's gift with another of $30,000. Now the future looked brighter still. Born in a little room in the City Hall in 1899, when it was granted a Regents charter, the Kingston City Library, only three years old, could hire an architect and build on its own.

The result was a small but pleasing red brick building that provided, among other amenities, a smoking newspaper room for gentlemen of the day.

Through those early years, reading for everybody was clearly an idea whose time had arrived. In a Kingston where radio and television were not even predicted, people read and re-read the first 4,000 volumes available. During that period before World War I, the library grew from infancy to young adult. By 1909, more than 40,000 books were being borrowed and lent.

The city, through its councils, had met Carnegie's requirements of annual guarantees on the library's maintenance, and found no argument with the frugality passed on to them.

Tight-fisted city fathers smiled paternally on such 1910 petty cash withdrawals as 40 cents for carfare, five cents for a mousetrap, and 10 cents for cleansing powder.

But when Kingston boys came home from France a few years later and began raising families, avid readers thirsting for knowledge put a strain on the library. Among other things, the overworked and underpaid librarian requested a salary increase to $1,200 a year.

She deserved it. If the building was turn-of-the-century Carnegie outside, its interior was a burgeoning beehive. It had become a storehouse of history, a center of topical information, a place where all sides of a question could be explored and an answer found. It now belonged to the average citizen, his wife and his children. The philanthropy that was then the realm of the rich had created it, but its users were the poor.

The wall of the first-floor reading room shows the ravages of time.

Proud of its growth and greater service, the library flourished for a time. But the unexpected Great Depression years of the 1930s took their inevitable toll. Increased operating expenses and inadequate financial support brought headaches and heartaches. Turning again to the Carnegie Corporation for badly needed money to enlarge or repair the building, Kingstonians were turned down. The corporation had discontinued such practices, they were told, but the Carnegie people wished them success in "securing the necessary funds from other sources."

But the Coykendalls and Carnegies, whose money had come from the people's labors

The Witch House in Salem, Mass.

The Witch House in Salem, Massachusetts, is one of the oldest houses in the country. It was built about 1642.

This is the best room in the Witch House where the accused "witches" were asked questions.

Mini Fact: Back when people believed in witches, there was a witch test. The "witch" was tossed into deep water. If she floated, she was a witch. If she drowned, she was not. Do you think that was fair?

Draw a line to the part in the story about this picture.

It all started in 1689 when a slave named Tituba was brought to Salem, Mass. She was from the West Indies.

She was said to be good at the art of "black magic."

Local girls started getting together with her at night.

They wanted to learn her tricks.

They started acting strangely.

The town-folk began to believe they were bewitched.

But who had put them under the spell?

The witch hunt was on.

The girls began accusing innocent people.

During the Salem witch trials in 1692, twenty people were put to death.

Then the citizens woke up to the awful thing they were doing.

One hundred and fifty people who were waiting to be tried were freed.

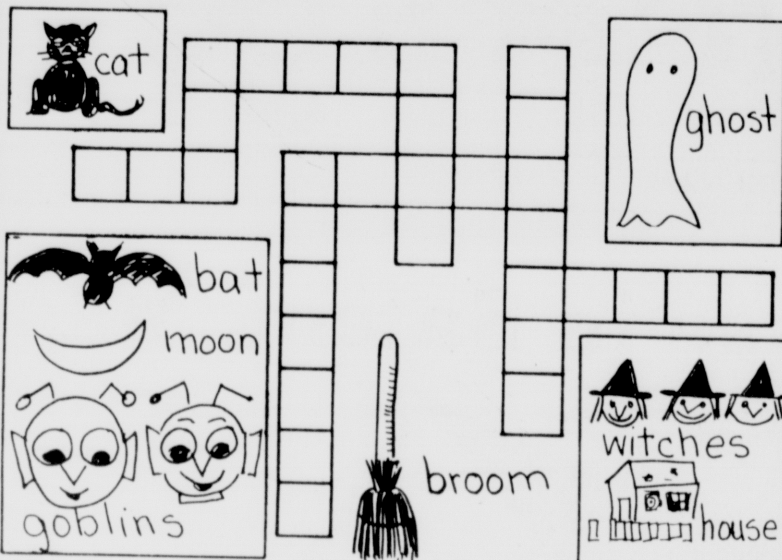

The Witch House where some of the "witches" were questioned still stands.

The house reminds visitors of the bad times when people really believed in witches, evil spirits, devils, goblins and ghosts.

New Idea For UNICEF Trick-or-Treat

This year, Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF will be different.

Each group raising money can pick one of three countries to help.

The countries are all poor. They need a lot of help.

The country of Senegal in Africa has a water problem. There has been a shortage there for the past five years.

Thailand is in Southeast Asia. This country needs doctors very badly.

Bolivia is in South America. It has a bad problem with unsafe drinking water. Many children in the country can't read.

Sciencing... The fun of finding out.

PROBLEM: How does light affect the pupil of your eye?

FINDING OUT: Observe the size of the pupil in a friend's eye while in a dimly lit room. Now move out into the bright day. What changes do you observe? Is the pupil larger in bright or dim light?

CLUE: The pupil is really a hole that lets light into the eye. The iris (colored part of the eye) is really a round muscle that helps protect the eye from getting too much light. It gets larger in bright light to make the pupil look smaller.

Super Sport: Gene Littler

Gene Littler is an amazing golfer.

Just 16 months after an operation for cancer, he came back to win a golf tournament.

And today, at the age of 47, he is still swinging.

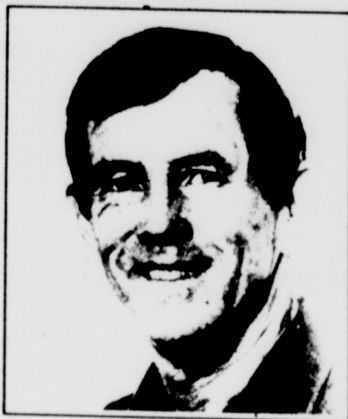

During his sparkling career, the mild-mannered star has won 28 pro tour tournaments. He has also won more than one million dollars in prize money.

He is known as "Gene The Machine" because of his sometimes excellent play.

When he isn't playing golf, he enjoys tinkering with his collection of antique cars.

IT'S YOUR FIRST KISS, CHARLIE BROWN

Charlie Brown, the same little 'Peanut' that brought you 999 straight baseball losses, non-valentines, jelly beans for Thanksgiving and an elusive magic pumpkin, turns his talents to football and romance, in that order, in 'It's Your First Kiss, Charlie Brown,' sixteenth in the award-winning series of half-hour animated specials, Monday, Oct. 24 on CBS-TV.

In 'It's Your First Kiss, Charlie Brown,' our unlikely hero is faced with two horrendous challenges (an escalation from his first major challenge of any day, which is getting up in the morning)—he is the kicker for the local team at the annual homecoming football game, and he has been chosen to escort the homecoming queen to the celebration dance and give her the traditional kiss.

As if that were not enough 'good grief' to dazzle the little roundhead, his ball-holder is Lucy, that ghoulgirl of the gridiron, and the queen is—the little red-haired girl named Heather.

and who saw duty-bound charity as an unavoidable responsibility, were no more . . . and other sources were few. Sadly, the problem-plagued library never enjoyed a return to its first flush of success.

In the beginning, people were willing to work in an effort to individualize higher education — to make it more effective and rewarding.

They remembered Thomas Jefferson's belief that "nothing would do more extensive good at small expense" than a small circulating library in every county. Jefferson had been right but now more than small expense was involved. Kingston's library was far ahead of its time and, for that most progressive of reasons, began to suffer from inadequacies in the modern age ushered in after World War II.

Cramped for space and finding it increasingly hard to balance the budget, it was called on to offer myriad services never envisioned when the first tentative distribution of books began.

Postwar Kingstonians wanted more than the original wall shelving for 8,000 books. They wanted weekly story hours, summer reading programs, microfilms, music, movies, lectures and discussion groups. They wanted special cassettes, records, paintings, films, large-print books. They wanted an Ulster County Reference Center, and they got it. For the research required of the independent college student, it provided the largest collection of reference books available in the area.

But people accepted the wide range of new services free of charge and with a community indifference that ignored the need to upgrade the outmoded building on Broadway and replenish its funding shortages. No longer a city institution only, it became the Kingston Area Library in 1968 through a charter amendment. The people recognized it as the heart of the life of the community — but they forgot it had been built many years ago for a far smaller population.

The building continued to erode both financially and physically. Ancient sewer lines caved in, floors peeled, walls chipped, space ran out, the building fell deeper and deeper into disrepair. Ironically, a leak in a neglected storage closet in 1965 unearthed such unknown historic treasures as a 450-year-old volume of Caesar's Commentaries — printed in Venice in 1511 — along with some rare early American printings.

But space and money remained the problems. In the recent past, the library was denied federal funds because of inadequate support from the community through donation or taxes. After more than 75 years in the same building, the only expansion in space had been a second level of book shelves in 1922 and conversion of a downstairs auditorium to a children's room in 1958. (In 1964 the Reilly Estate home next door was purchased and furnished as a children's library. It burned in 1975.)

In the 1960s, for a time, hours of service were reduced because of lack of funds. Borrowers streamed through the doors 10,000-strong then, but dollars-and-cents support was still lacking.

Eventually, a contract with Kingston City Schools for per-capita services to juniors and seniors brought some financial support. But even then, more than a dozen years ago, Kingston Library income was only $48,000 annually. Far smaller Ellenville was then supporting its library with a $54,000 budget.

Even as 1,000 people a week used the Kingston building, it was one of the poorest supported in the state. Serious consideration was given to closing it down because of lack of funds. It remained open but the rocky road to financial solvency continued in a building no longer practical. With its County Reference Center now serving an area of 60,000 people, the library offered its property, land, buildings and equipment to the school district — lock, stock and barrel with no strings attached — in 1972. It finally pulled through again with a bare-bones, belt-tightening budget from the city, county, schools, memberships and a fund drive.

But the space crunch remained unsolved. Another building with accessible parking seemed the only answer. Abandoned bowling alleys, funeral parlors and supermarkets were offered. When the Broadway building was sold to the school district for its own expansion, an era ended. Still unable to finance a new building at a cost of some $500,000, the library board opted to move to the former Sojourner Truth School, where only functional renovations were needed.

The building's 16,000 square feet is an

As I sit and write this column, there is a break in the World Series. It's a traveling day, but not like the ones of old. In the so-called "old days" the traveling was done by subway, and it was adequately called the Subway Series. From the Bronx to Brooklyn. And isn't it ironic — actually, it's a pity — that jumping Joe DiMaggio had trouble getting into Yankee Stadium the other day? He was so angry he flew out of town.

Yes, it's a pity that one of the strongholds of baseball and America can be so easily forgotten. It could be compared to not letting George Washington into a Fourth of July celebration.

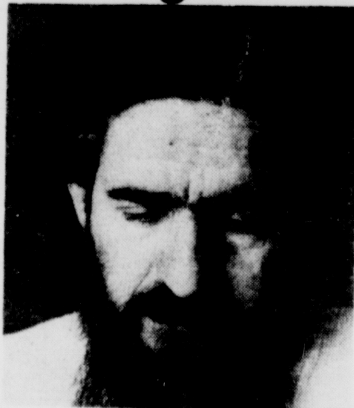

Babe Ruth built the place in the Bronx where the balls fly into the sooty sky, Joe D. paid the mortgage, Maris and Mantle paid the second mortgage. But down the street the kids have no place to play their ball. They aren't as fortunate as the kids from High Falls or Saugerties or Highland who have fields and parents to chauffeur them to and from games.

When I was a kid in Jersey City, I pitched for a team called the Corbin Avenue Indians. If we had a new baseball, we would take good care of it, for that would be the game ball for the Saturday game with the Marion Midgets. The Marion Midgets were tough Italian kids from a few blocks away. My street was more mixed — some Italians, a lot of Irish and a few Poles and one Negro.

So we kids were lucky and we had fun. The kids today quite possibly have been spoiled. Tommy at the bar in Ray's says the TV did it; and today a few of us were discussing how kids have been over the years. We played a lot of baseball with a ball that wasn't always round and had hundreds of yards of black electrical tape around it. And if the bats split, they were repaired behind the candy store.

When I get to Frisco, I'm going to go to Joe's restaurant down on the wharf, apologize to Joe and say it's from the Yankees. Shameful incidents like this

Joe's Forgotten?

By George Montgomery

should not happen.

The only reason I am concerned over this is because it happened in America. Joe is one of the reasons America is a proud country. We have had people like Joe and the Babe and Roy Campanella and Allie Reynolds and Jim Thorpe and Babe Zaharias and Althea Gibson. They include Negroes and Italians and Indians. All Americans.

There was an Indian who was also forgotten. He played football at a college for Indians called Carlisle, a school in Pennsylvania. He won medals in track and field at the Olympics. But they were taken away, for the "officials" found out he earned 10 or 20 bucks playing baseball down South. He played to feed himself. Now welfare cheats eat better. I know all people on welfare are not cheats, and a lot of people deserve the food and money, but Jim Thorpe merely played ball and got a few bucks for it. For that he lost his medals. He became a wino.

His life is quite similar to another native American who fought in the Pacific. He went home to the Southwest and they told him he was a hero. He fell into the whiskey bottle and drowned there in a pool of his own vomit. Ira Hayes has a song or two named after him. Joe DiMaggio is mentioned in the song, "Mrs. Robinson."

It might serve us well to sit back and think about what happened to this or that guy. Whatever happened to that pretty blonde girl who sat next to you in math class? Did you know that Joe Page looks terrible and tends bar in a dive in Pennsylvania? Joe was a pitcher many years ago for the Yanks. Poor Roy Campanella gets around in a wheelchair because of a car accident. He would be a manager or coach today if he had the power of his legs.

Anna Auchmoedy is well over 90 and she enjoys the baseball games of today. It used to be the American pastime. Like apple pie, it is part of this country, but pizza has taken over and people like Joe DiMaggio get lost in the maze. It's hard to say, "people like Joe D.," for there aren't many. You can forget he was married to the sex symbol of America. You can forget he does ads on TV for coffee and banks. But you can't forget he is a big part of this tradition called America.

There are a lot of good people around who will not forget. Jack Walsh and Bob Skerritt and Lou Lasher are guys who work hard. They enjoy a good time and they remember the America of before. Jack was talking about his first tattoo this morning. His brother walked into the house first. His brother got kicked out first. He was talking about Queens 30-some years ago. Jack has kids of his own, about 10 of them. So does Mr. Skerritt.

The wise-guys of yesterday make good citizens of today. It's the same respect you should give to Floyd Patterson who didn't have it easy as a kid. Jack Walsh walks and works around with his tattoos. They are faded with age for the old tattoos lost their blue over the years. He was admiring my red-and-yellow blonde who lives on my arm. With her I will never have to sleep alone. To have lived in 20th-century America, I will never forget Joe DiMaggio. Will you?

'Shane' Comeback

By Carlos Henriquez

monumental and moving 25 years ago.

It was with some trepidation, then, that I approached a television showing, about a month later, of "Shane." Would time also be as unkind to this film, in my mind only a hair's breadth lesser artistically all these years? Well, time is rough on some films, beneficial to others. It is pleasant to report that "Shane," even interspersed with commercials, looks even better now than it did when it was first released.

The story is a classic. A mysterious stranger with special powers (in this case a gunfighter who is trying to put his past behind him) comes to town, saves the life of the man who has befriended him, then, feeling the urge to move on again, leaves town.

The acting is superbly done by a cast that includes Van Heflin, Jean Arthur, Alan Ladd, Brandon DeWilde, Jack Palance and a host of fine character actors like Ben Johnson, Edgar Buchanan and Ellen Corby. Ladd's usual deadpan, monolithic acting style is, for once, perfect for the part of Shane. De Wilde's is one of the superior child screen performances in the history of film. (His first role, by the way.)

The rest of the cast is credible and adds dimension to the characters. Compare their performances, for instance, to Lloyd Bridges' wooden acting in "High Noon" and Katy Jurado's histrionic melodramatics in the same film. While you are comparing, don't forget the gentle, evocatively western score for "Shane" by Victor Young, so subtle compared to the overbearingly dramatic one that Dmitri Tiomkin wrote for "High Noon."

In the final analysis, subtlety is the key to

"Shane's" continued appeal to our age. Its morality is conceived in shades of grey, not black and white. Most strikingly, good is personified by Shane, a gunfighter, a man of violence, an ambiguous hero at best, unlike Gary Cooper's unremittably decent "High Noon" sheriff. It is director George Steven's artistic sensibility that is largely responsible for this and it is manifested repeatedly in exquisite scenes throughout the film: the burial scene, with small children laughing and playing in the background; the evil gunfighter, Jack Palance's first appearance in an empty town when even the lone mongrel in the bar cringes and slinks away from him and so on. Steven's use of imagery in "Shane" is worthy of the praise of those critics who usually look for such things only in foreign films.

To choose between "Shane" and "Lawrence of Arabia" is, of course, extremely difficult and ultimately absurd. For making arbitrary lists of 10 of any kind in the arts is always like comparing apples to oranges. Still, everyone does it, critics and otherwise. It's fun and, however frivolous, keeps the film buff's mind active and engaged when he or she wants a respite from the consideration of weightier matters.

central location is another plus, as is the large parking acreage. Elevators and ramps will make the building totally accessible to the elderly and handicapped.

The future looks almost as bright as it did when Samuel D. Coykendall bought the lot on Broadway. Kingston Area Library is still the oldest and largest in the county with a circulation of 76,000 yearly. Open Sunday afternoons (its busiest period), its open hours are the highest of any in the entire mid-Hudson district.

Reading is still for everybody and the new library should prove even more popular than its predecessor.

If the old problems prevail, it will be because people fail to realize that the "modern" library has changed since Johann Gutenberg stunned the world with his 15th-century printing press to make the first books possible.

Today's average citizen, who has learned to use the library, must learn that support of its building, staff, and book and film costs depends on him . . . and not on the philanthropy of the Carnegies and Coykendalls.

'The Best of Families' — America's Answer to 'Upstairs, Downstairs'

By JOAN HANAUER
UPI Television Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)

American television finally has its answer to such elegant British productions as "Upstairs, Downstairs" — an adventure into dramatized social history that is as American as the Brooklyn Bridge.

The show is "The Best of Families," which will begin an eight-part series on PBS Oct. 27 with a two-part special airing from 9-11 p.m. Thereafter the show will go to hour-long programs.

The producers of the show are an unlikely group — CTW. Viewers will be more familiar with them as Children's Television Workshop, the folks who gave America "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company." This is their first venture into adult drama.

"The Best of Families" chose the years from 1880 to 1900 for the same reason that the British dramas have paid such close attention to the era, because it was a time of change as the old methods gave way to the age of electricity and mass production. The scene is New York City.

The show even has its own Alistair Cooke in the person of John Houseman to set the scene within its historical context. He is not as American as apple pie.

"Families" goes "Upstairs, Downstairs" one better in that it shows three levels of American life — the wealthy and aristocratic Wheelers with a son in the banking industry, the middle class Lathrop-Baldwin family, and the first generation Irish-American Raffertys. The Irish were chosen because in 1880 they were the big immigrant population, unskilled and desperately poor.

The acting is splendid in the first episode, with standout performances contributed by Milo O'Shea as the patriarch of the Raffertys, Pauline Flanagan as his devout and loving wife, and William Prince as the senior Wheeler who collects Oriental art and railroad bonds.

But it is not the talent of the actors, nor the abilities of the writers, that establishes "Families" in a special category.

"Families" displays a passion for authenticity that extends from historical accuracy in major events to such details as telephone etiquette in the gay '90s. The program even has its own food consultant, duly listed in the credits crawl, so that dinner parties at the Wheelers and free lunch at Fitzpatrick's saloon ring equally true.

"I kept finding myself in the middle of a room saying, 'I can't believe that in the 1880s nobody ever said ... whatever,'" Ethel Winant said in an interview, smiling half with pride and half with relief that "Families" was air-ready.

One point which has stuck with her is that despite the enormous changes in the way of life brought about by Thomas A. Edison and his electric inventions, the problems then were the same as the problems now.

"With Edison and electricity, people's lives changed as they hadn't in thousands of years," she said. "But we have the same fears and hopes and cares. The problems of life remain the same."

Minnesota Shocks Michigan; Green-Clad Irish Top USC

By UPI

Minnesota invited back members of its undefeated 1927 team, including Bronco Nagurski, then upset top-ranked Michigan 16-0 Saturday while Notre Dame wore green jerseys for the first time since 1963 and upset fourth-ranked Southern California 49-19.

Sophomore quarterback Mark Carlson, starting his first game, and sophomore kicker Paul Rogind sparked Minnesota's victory, which was Michigan's first loss in seven games. It was also the Wolverines' first shutout in 113 games and the first shutout in the Michigan coaching career of Bo Schembechler.

"We played poorly and they played well," Schembechler said. "It was the poorest offensive game we've ever played. They deserved to win."

Rogind kicked the first of his three field goals, a 41-yarder, after the Gophers held Michigan following the opening kickoff. Minnesota grabbed a 10-0 first-quarter lead when Keith Brown recovered a bad pitchout by Michigan quarterback Rick Leach that went behind Harlan Huckleby on the Michigan 12.

Four plays later, Marion Barber plunged three yards for a touchdown.

Carlson, a 19-year-old from Deerfield, Ill., who had undergone knee surgery last spring, completed 6-of-10 passes for 60 yards and ran for 22 yards.

His roommate, Rogind, also kicked field goals of 37 and 32 yards, barely missed one from 48 yards when the ball hit the crossbar and had another 32-yarder blocked.

"It was the greatest victory I've ever experienced," said Coach Cal Stoll of Minnesota, now 5-2.

Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine ordered green jerseys three months ago for the Southern Cal game but didn't tell anyone. The Irish warmed up in its customary blue jerseys and found out in the locker room just before the kickoff they were wearing green.

"The locker room was going crazy," defensive back Ted Burgmeier said. "I don't know what it meant, but we've always heard about the green for the Irish and the Fighting Irish in green."

Joe Montana passed for two touchdowns and ran for a pair of others to spark 10th-ranked Notre Dame's victory. Montana passed to Ken MacAfee for scores of 13 and 1 yards and twice snuck one yard for TDs.

In other games involving top 10 teams, No. 2 Texas downed Southern Methodist 30-14, No. 3 Alabama trounced Louisville 55-6, No. 5 Ohio State beat Northwestern 35-15, No. 6 Oklahoma defeated 18th-ranked Iowa State 35-16, No. 17 Nebraska upset No. 7 Colorado 33-15 and No. 9 Penn State topped West Virginia 49-28.

Earl Campbell rushed for 213 yards, including a 58-yard TD sprint on a wet field, to guide Texas past SMU. It was the most productive day in Campbell's four-year career and gave the Heisman Trophy candidate 3,598 career yards.

The victory left Texas as the only unbeaten team among the nation's top 10.

Ozzie Newsome caught TD passes of 67 and 32 yards from Jeff Rutledge and Alabama turned four Louisville fumbles into scores. Rutledge passed three times, completing all of them to Newsome, whose catches covered 124 yards.

Ohio State overcame six turnovers and defeated Northwestern on a pair of touchdowns by freshman Joel Payton. Ohio State also scored on a 5-yard run by Jeff Logan and a 24-yard scamper by Rod Gerald.

Quarterback Thomas Lott ran for touchdowns of nine and six yards and scooped a shovel pass to halfback Elvis Peacock for a 39-yard touchdown to guide Oklahoma past No. 18 Iowa State.

I.M. Hipp had another superb day to key Nebraska's upset of Colorado. The sophomore running back gained 172 yards on 31 carries, including TD runs of 28 and four yards.

Quarterback Chuck Fusina passed for two touchdowns and tailback Steve Geise ran for two more in a 42-point first half to lead Penn State past West Virginia. Fusina hit tight end Mickey Shuler with a 41-yard score and connected with Scott Fitzkee for a 12-yard TD.

Also, No. 12 Pittsburgh beat Syracuse 28-21, No. 15 Brigham Young edged Wyoming 10-7 and No. 19 Clemson downed North Carolina State 7-3. No. 13 Texas Tech was idle.

In night games, No. 8 Arkansas hosted Houston, No. 11 Texas A&M was at Rice, No. 14 California took on UCLA, No. 16 North Texas State traveled to Memphis State and No. 20 Arizona State hosted Texas-El Paso.

WEST POINT (UPI)

Greg King ran for two touchdowns and Army, taking advantage of five Lafayette turnovers and a blocked punt, crushed the Leopards 42-6 Saturday.

The Cadets, 4-3, scored twice in the opening 3:22 when Duane Fuller's fumble recovery set up an 11-yard touchdown run by King on the game's fifth play, and Mark Berry picked off another bobble in midair for a 41-yard touchdown return. Tiki Traylor caused both Lafayette fumbles.

An interception two plays later by Army's Chuck Schott resulted in an aborted field goal attempt but Army got the ball back by halting a 49-yard Leopard drive on the Cadets' 20. Army marched 80 yards in 18 plays with King's five-yard TD coming three plays into the second quarter for a 21-0 lead.

Dan Webb forced Pete Politi to fumble the ensuing Army kickoff, and Joe LeGasse recovered for Army on the Lafayette 22. Tight end Clennie Brundidge covered the distance in one play with a TD pass from Leonam Hall.

Doug Turrell blocked Dave Page's punt through the end zone for a safety and LeGasse returned another interception 58 yards for the Cadets' final scores of the half.

Lafayette, 2-5, scored its touchdown when Rob Stewart sneaked 1-yard to cap a 66-yard, 15-play drive early in the third quarter.

ALBANY (UPI)

Albany State's offense, sparked by sophomore halfback Sam Halston, rolled up 438 yards Saturday in defeating Norwich University 21-7.

Halston rushed for 184 yards and two touchdowns on 16 carries, including a 99-yard run that set a school record.

***

CORTLAND (UPI)

Kevin Pette passed for two touchdowns and 208 yards Saturday to lead Alfred to a 15-9 victory over Cortland.

Greg Thomas was on the receiving end of both scores and also reeled in three other aerials. In all, Pette completed 15 passes on 26 attempts.

Spinks, LeDoux Battle to Draw

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)

Slugging heavyweight Scott LeDoux nearly derailed former Olympic champion Leon Spinks out of a shot at world champion Muhammad Ali Saturday afternoon in a rugged 10-round battle that ended in a draw.

There were no knockdowns in the nationally televised fight, but the undefeated Spinks, 194, who will still fight world-ranked Italian Alfio Righetti in Las Vegas Nov. 18 and challenge Ali in February, was shaken up several times by LeDoux's right hand.

Spinks, 24, of Philadelphia, fighting his first 10-round battle, was unable to dispose of the 28-year-old LeDoux, 224, Coon Rapids, Minn., as quickly as he had done with his first five professional opponents.
